RISE AND FALL OF THOMPSON'S MACHINE TOLD

End Regime Filled with Scandal.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The rise, decline, and fall of Thompsonism bids fair to be a fruitful field for future historians.

Thompsonism had its rise in Lorimerism. Students of Tuesday's election, in tracing the growth of the most puissant machine Illinois has known, its tangled twelve year web of scandals comparable with the Tweed ring in New York, its disintegration and downfall with most of its original members working to destroy it, needs must hark back to the days when William Lorimer was the "blond boss" in politics and his machine was a power in county and state.

A Pupil of Lorimer.

Thompson was a Lorimer pupil. So was Fred Lundin, self-styled "poor swede," who was instrumental in making Thompson mayor and is now his implacable foe. So, too, was Len Small, who, as governor, tacked on a hyphen and made it the Thompson-Small city-state machine.

Mayor Thompson and most of the leaders in his first primary campaign were in the Lorimer-Lincoln league. Thus the advent of Thompsonism at the city hall in 1915 was the recrudescence of the old crowd which had gone temporarily into eclipse when Lorimer was expelled from his seat in the senate in 1912. They got the jobs.

Lorimer himself has long been a negligible factor in politics. He pops up at Springfield, still with his tawny mane and a benevolent smile, a ghost of the past, a bit bewildered, perhaps, at the growth of ring rule under Thompsonism, in the Volstendian setting of crime and politics, bombings, bootleggers, racketeering, moonshiners, hijackers, machine gun murders, and other products of the prohibition era. It makes the old ring look like amateurs.

Utilities a Main Issue.

Perpetual franchises and public utilities have been a Greek chorus through it all. In the background is the phantom of Charles T. Yerkes, transit magnate, flanked by the Humphrey and Allen bills of 1897, and by crowds dangling ropes from the council gallery.

Yerkes sought to grab Chicago's streets. He relied on the Lorimer machine to put it over at Springfield. Mayor Harrison roused the populace. Council sessions were invaded by threatening crowds bearing ropes. Citizens wore on their lapels miniature rope coils. Public sentiment prevailed.

Years later a transit deal was one basis of an alliance between Thompson and Small.

Deserted by Old Timers.

In its later years Thompsonism grew too ripe for some of the oldest old timers, and Tuesday saw them instrumental in piling up the 191,916 Cermak plurality that made a new record. Old friends deserted.

All four of his ex-controllers, for example, were either cold or against him—Eugene R. Pike, George F. Harding, Charles C. Fitzmorris, and George K. Schmidt. In their place, the mayor went to meetings arm in arm with Daniel Serritella, city sealer and lieutenant of Al Capone.

Lundin had broken years ago. So had Dr. John Dill Robertson, former health commissioner. Other Republican leaders, among them Edward J. Brundage, Charles V. Barrett, ex-Senator Charles S. Deneen, B. W. Snow, county chairman, Robert E. Crowe, Charles Krutckoff, Thomas O. Wallace, who usually support the party nominees, were either neutral or actively against Thompson.

The wards told the story—45 wards for Cermak; 5 for the mayor.

Wrecked to Save Party.

In thirty years the upas tree of Thompsonism, growing out of Lorimerism, had grown so noxious that leaders in Chicago and downstate openly argued that the salvation of the Republican party could come only through wrecking the old city hall machine.

To get a perspective, back in the old days Lorimer was boss on the west and southwest sides. Chicago was split among several big shot leaders, such as Fred Busse, James Pease, James Reddick and others. Each had a string of wards. Control was through combinations.

The Lorimer area embraced close-in wards, along the river and canal and the stockyards. They were populous, mainly Democratic, and the habitat of "privilege." It's the same territory where Thompsonism has been strongest, vest pocket wards which won the nomination for the mayor in February.

As Lorimer waxed in power—he

Dog Defends Store; Is Slain with Bandit

Charles Nieft, 55 years old, and his big police dog, Bucky, battled last night with two robbers who had tried to rob Nieft in his grocery at 3558 North Marshfield avenue. In the struggle the dog and one of the robbers were killed. Nieft was unhurt.

The dead robber was identified through police records as Harry Mason, 28 years old, an Indian, who was recently released from the Bridewell after serving a term of a year for robbery.

When the holdup men entered the store, Nieft, his wife, and Jerome Sheppard, 76 years old, 1564 Sunnyside avenue, were playing pinochle in a small room separated from the front part of the store only by a curtain. Dozing on the rug near the card table was Bucky, the 4 year old playmate of the grocer's little granddaughters.

Two Bandits Enter.

Nieft left the game and went to serve the supposed customers. The first one ordered a quarter's worth of ham. While the grocer was wrapping it the second man, who had picked up a loaf of bread, walked around behind the counter. Before Nieft saw this move the robber had thrust a pistol against his side.

"It's a stickup," he said. "Keep your hands up and move back to the rear."

The grocer obeyed. He had prepared for such emergencies. Behind the curtain was Bucky, who already had attacked and routed three robbers in his short life. Also, there was a pistol on a shelf in the little rear room.

Dog Leaps at Bandit.

As the grocer reached the entrance he cried out:

"Go get him, Bucky."

The big dog leaped past his master and hurled himself at the throat of the robber with the gun. The first leap carried him past the bandit. Before he could make another spring the robber had shot him through the head.

But the diversion had given Nieft all the time he needed. He had seized his own pistol. He fired once and the robber fell, shot through the lungs. The other robber, with desperate courage, seized his companion by the arm and dragged him across the grocery floor, through the door and on to the sidewalk, a distance of forty feet. Nieft fired once at him in the store, but missed.

Outside the second bandit abandoned hope of carrying his burden farther. He fled to the curb and jumped into an automobile with a third man at the wheel. As they drove away Nieft went to his door and fired again.

The man on the sidewalk was dead when the grocer and his friend Sheppard approached. After an examination by a deputy coroner the body was taken to the county morgue.

Mason's police record shows that in addition to the last Bridewell sentence, imposed by Judge Normoyle, he was given another of six months in May, 1922, by Judge John H. Lyle, for larceny. In 1928 he served a term of sixty days at the Greencastle, Ind., state farm for robbery.

At the time he was killed he was wearing an overcoat stolen in a recent holdup.

PLUMBER'S WIFE CHARGES HE LET LEAK FLOOD HOME

A broken water pipe was responsible for the appearance of Mrs. Evelyn Metcalfe, 7143 Champlain avenue, before Superior Judge Desort yesterday when she filed a supplemental bill for divorce against William Metcalfe, a plumber. The pipe burst last Sunday, the bill alleges, flooding the Metcalfe home because Metcalfe, declaring that union rules prohibited him from working on Sundays, refused to repair the leak.

Conan Doyle's Mystic Says It's All a Fake

New York, April 8.—(AP)—Asserting that "people want to be fooled" and that for 11 years he had done just that, Nino Pecararo, "mystic" whom the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle admitted won him over to spiritualism, tonight declared his seances were "all a fake."

Never Saw a Ghost.

"I've never seen a ghost and don't believe any one else ever has," he said. "I'm sick and tired of giving seances and having spiritualism reap the profit. When ghosts appear at my seances they are Nino Pecararo in the flesh."

To prove his point he allowed himself to be securely bound, then freed himself and wrote two messages. One was "from Doyle" and the other "from Houdini." The handwriting compared favorably with authentic originals of the famous men.

In addition Pecararo passed on two "messages" from dead persons to newspaper men present and also had "ghost hands" play an accordion.

Demonstrates for Committee.

The demonstration was given in the apartment of Joseph Dunninger, chairman of a committee named by a scientific magazine to expose fake spiritualists. Dunninger said more than $5,000,000 was spent annually in New York alone on spiritualistic work.

He added, "Conan Doyle had implicit faith in Nino and wrote that spiritualism rises or falls by him."

Pecararo has made his living by giving more than 2,000 seances in 11 years. He said he would devote himself hereafter to painting and writing.

"Eleven years ago when I told people I was a spiritualist they didn't believe me," he said. "Now I'm trying to convince them I'm not and they won't believe me."

Teacher Arrested After Slaying of Aged Spinster

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Frances Thompson, 29, former Pittsburgh school teacher, was arrested here tonight by officers investigating the slaying of Miss Minnie E. Dilley, 76 year old, spinster of Forty Fort, near Wilkes-Barre, late last week. Mrs. Thompson formerly resided across the street from Miss Dilley in Forty Fort, and investigators said she had written the aged woman letters in which she implicated Miss Dilley had a strange influence over her husband. Miss Dilley's body was found in her home last Saturday night, she had been struck over the head with a bottle of ginger ale and her throat was slashed.

FATAL TURN TO ILLNESS FEARED BY HIS DOCTORS

Call Outlook Very Unfavorable.

BULLETIN.

Aiken, S. C., April 9 (Thursday).—(AP)—At 3 o'clock this morning there was no special activity at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Curtis, where Speaker Nicholas Longworth is suffering from pneumonia. Every light in the house was burning with the exception of one in a room in which one of the attending physicians was sleeping. Two other doctors and nurses were in the sick room. At 12:30 a. m. Mrs. Longworth had described her husband as a "desperately ill man."

Aiken, S. C., April 8.—(AP)—Pneumonia tonight threatened the life of Speaker Nicholas Longworth, who came here ten days ago for a spring vacation.

Developing late Monday from a heavy cold, the disease made rapid headway and despite every effort of science to forestall a crisis, the veteran Ohio congressman and son-in-law of Theodore Roosevelt, grew steadily weaker today.

Wife at His Bedside.

Aiding the three physicians and staff of nurses who sought to halt the malady was the speaker's wife, Alice Roosevelt Longworth. She arrived here by train this morning after having been notified in Washington of her husband's illness.

Until tonight, reports from the patient's room in the winter home of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Curtis of Washington, whom he had been visiting, had been cheerful. But a different note crept into the early bulletin tonight. The attending physicians for the first time admitted that the condition of the 61 year old lawmaker was "critical."

Feared Death During Night.

Still less encouragement was expressed after a consultation among the two Aiken physicians, who have been attending Speaker Longworth, and a specialist from Augusta, Ga. Dr. R. H. Wilds of Aiken admitted there was apprehension the illness might "take a fatal turn" during the night.

In a formal bulletin the physicians said:

"Mr. Longworth has grown rapidly worse during the day, and the outlook is extremely unfavorable."

Signed by Three Doctors.

It was signed by Dr. Wilds and Dr. Thomas G. Brooks of Aiken, and Dr. V. P. Sydenstricker, the Augusta specialist, who has been making two trips daily to see the patient.

Oxygen was used last night to aid the speaker's respiration, but at the time the physicians said that fact did not indicate a critical condition.

Four nurses were assigned to the case yesterday, and Mrs. Longworth brought a fifth with her today.

An hour after the official bulletin was issued the physicians said no change had been noted in the patient's condition.

Drs. Wilds and Brooks spent the night at the Curtis home, but Dr. Sydenstricker returned to Augusta.

Hoover Expresses Concern.

Washington, D. C., April 8.—(AP)—President Hoover led official Washington today in expressing anxiety over the condition of Speaker Nicholas Longworth, who is ill with pneumonia at Aiken, S. C.

The President directed his personal physician, Capt. Joel T. Boone, to keep him advised of the Ohioan's condition. Meanwhile, the speaker's office was deluged with queries from cabinet officers, senators, representatives, and capitol messengers and scrubwomen.

From his home in Texas Representative Garner, Democratic leader and a close personal friend of Longworth for 25 years, wired friends in Washington for information on the speaker's illness. Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, who reached her husband's bedside early today, left directions that Garner be kept advised of all developments.

Drives Blazing Street Car Down Street to Fire House

Los Angeles, Cal., April 8.—[Special.]—A motorman on the Los Angeles Street Railway line today drove a blazing trolley car down Hill street and stopped it in front of the city fire department station, in the middle of the block, where firemen extinguished flames which were leaping from the car roof.

6 Children Die in Auto Rush of Spring Day

A sunny spring day with a temperature of 80 degrees yesterday, the highest ever recorded by the Chicago office of the weather bureau on April 8, brought a heavy increase in automobile traffic and six children were killed in Chicago and suburban streets.

These deaths increased the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 317. The victims were:

HAROLD G. BAUMHARDT, 14 years old, 5126 Oakton street, Niles Center.

MARION RUESCH, 13 years old, 5839 Gallit avenue, Niles Center.

HOWARD FULLER, 4 years old, 638 Grace street.

RUTH BELIKOW, 3 years old, 3713 West 60th street.

MORRIS GOLDMAN, 5 years old, 3603 West 15th street.

HELEN DROBNA, 10 years old, 4738 Throop street.

The Baumhardt boy, a first year student in the Evanston High school, and the Ruesch girl, an eighth grade pupil in the Niles Center school, were fatally injured when the bicycle on which both were riding was struck at Mulford street on Niles Center road by an automobile driven by Ernest Neeck, who lives in Grove street in Niles Center.

Children Riding Bicycle.

The girl was sitting on the handle bars and the youth was pedaling along on the left side of the road when Neeck's car came upon them from the south. He said later that when they came into his line of vision it was too late to avoid striking them, although he endeavored to do so by swerving his car to the sidewalk. The Baumgardt boy was the son of Gertrude Baumhardt, a widow, and Marion the daughter of William Ruesch, a retired farmer.

Howard Fuller was struck in front of his home by an automobile driven by Mrs. Myrtle Martin, 20 years old, 1210 Montrose avenue. An investigation by the Town Hall police, it was reported, showed that the brakes on the car were defective.

Like Howard, the other three children were killed as they played in the streets.

Death Car Driver Held.

The Belikow child was struck by a car driven by Emil Streckert, 3303 West 59th place, as she was crossing in front of her home. Streckert was held for the inquest.

Morris Goldman fell beneath the wheels of an automobile driven by Irving Meister, 3543 West 12th place, at Central Park avenue and 15th street. Meister was held. So was Henry Weber, 3601 South Damen avenue, whose automobile struck the Drobna girl at 47th and Throop streets.

HOODLUM SHOT DURING ROW IN WEST SIDE CAFE

Hymie Lieberman, 38 years old, 3417 West Roosevelt road, whom the police have been seeking as one of the suspects in the blowing of the safe of the Wieboldt south side department store a week ago, was shot early today during a quarrel with Max Hoffman, another burglary suspect, in a restaurant at 3410 West Roosevelt road.

Two of Hoffman's bullets struck Lieberman in the right arm and one in the left leg. Witnesses, all friends of Lieberman, said that Hoffman had been put out of the restaurant, where Lieberman was giving a party, and that when he returned he began shooting without warning. He was seized by members of the party and held and severely beaten until the arrival of a police squad led by Sergt. Thomas Nolan, who had heard the shooting.

$150,000 LOSS IN FACTORY FIRE ON SOUTH SIDE

Damage estimated at $150,000 was caused by a spectacular fire late last night which destroyed the plant and storeroom of the Beckley-Cardy company, manufacturers of school supplies, at 17 East 22d street.

The flames, starting on the second floor, spread rapidly through the entire building and a 4-11 alarm was sounded. When firemen arrived lines of hose were carried over the elevated line tracks just west of the structure and all rapid transit service to the south side was tied up for an hour or more.

Residents of a flat building at 21 East 23d street were ordered out of their homes by the firemen. The fire was brought under control shortly before midnight.

Scalded for Dates with Girls, Boy, 15, Kills Self

Kansas City, Mo., April 8.—(AP)—The body of 15 year old Carl Danielson, who had been admonished by his father he was too young to have "dates" with girls, was found today in the family motor car in Swope Park. A pistol, usually kept at the home, was found beside the high school freshman.

PICKS SPRAGUE, BUSCH TO CLEAN OUT CITY HALL

Finish Vote Canvass in Record Time.

Anton J. Cermak will take the oath of office as mayor of Chicago this morning. Soon afterward he will formally announce the appointment of the first members of the official family which will surround him in his administration of the city's affairs.

Col. A. A. Sprague, one of Mr. Cermak's campaign managers, will be the new commissioner of public works, an important post in the mayor's cabinet. Col. Sprague served in this same capacity from 1923 to 1927 under the late Mayor Dever. He will succeed Richard W. Wolfe, the commissioner under Thompson.

Busch's Job Is Temporary.

Attorney Francis X. Busch, corporation counsel during the Dever régime, will serve for sixty days as corporation counsel under Mayor Cermak. In a statement last night, through his personal secretary, Henry Bonnenschein, Mr. Cermak announced that he had hoped to obtain the services of Mr. Busch throughout his administration, but that Mr. Busch was unwilling to abandon his private law practice. He agreed to the temporary appointment, however, so that the new mayor in his reorganization of the city departments might have the benefit of his experience.

The third appointment to be announced by Mayor Cermak today will be that of Mrs. W. S. Hefferan as a member of the board of education. The term of Mrs. Hefferan, a holdover school trustee from the Dever regime, expires this spring, and the reappointment will insure her membership on the board for another four years.

Expect Thorough Housecleaning.

Although these were all of Mr. Cermak's plans that were learned last night, there were indications that he is preparing for one of the most thorough housecleanings that ever took place in the city hall.

"It is expected," said the statement issued from his office, "that the resignations of all persons acting as department or bureau heads by appointment of the outgoing administration will be in the hands of Mayor Cermak when he assumes the duties of his office."

This was regarded as a warning to all the members of the Thompson cabinet and their assistants to resign or be removed.

Although no official announcement was made, it is expected that Acting Police Commissioner Alcock will continue to serve temporarily as acting commissioner. Alcock holds this position by virtue of his civil service ranking.

Record in Vote Canvass.

The rapidity with which Mr. Cermak is being inaugurated is the result of the fastest official vote canvass of any Chicago mayoralty election, according to County Judge Jarecki. The canvass of the returns from the city's 2,987 precincts was completed by the board of election commissioners at 5 p. m. yesterday, 25 hours after the polls closed Tuesday afternoon. Judge Jarecki said the official results differed in no important details from the unofficial returns published yesterday.

To complete its work the election board has only to foot the totals of the precinct votes for each candidate to arrive at the official results, which will be announced in the board's formal proclamation at 10 a. m. today.

The unofficial returns gave Cermak a majority of 191,916 votes, the totals being: Cermak, 667,529; Thompson, 475,613. Thompson carried only five of the city's fifty wards. He was the worst beaten candidate in Chicago's history.

Brady to Take Oath.

Immediately after the election board's proclamation Peter J. Brady, newly elected city clerk, will be sworn in. Mr. Brady's first official action will be to issue the certificate of election as mayor to Mr. Cermak. The new mayor will then take his oath of office.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon Mr. Cermak will appear before the board of county commissioners and formally present his resignation as president of the board. This resignation already has been prepared.

Two hours later, at 4 o'clock, Mayor Cermak will attend a special meeting of the new city council, twenty-one of the members of which were elected at Tuesday's polls. At this meeting the new aldermen will take their oaths of office and then will approve the bonds of the new mayor and city clerk and the new city treasurer, James A. Kearns. Afterward Mr. Cermak will sumbit the appointment of Col. Sprague, Mr. Busch, and Mrs. Bufferan for approval by the council.

Thompson Aids Depart.

Many of the Thompson cabinet began their exodus from the city hall yesterday. Desks, files, and other material were being carted away from the hall in truckloads, leaving in many instances only bare walls to greet the newcomers.

In the absence of the old department heads and before Mr. Cermak has filled their places, the routine of city government will be handled by civil service employés, the chief clerks, and deputy officials.

A forecast of moment to officials of the World's Fair, based on the rout of the Thompsonites, was contained in a statement from Congressman A. J. Sabath. He said that there is no question now but that the federal government will participate in the fair.

Sabath Recalls Promises.

"During my speech on the floor of the house on March 3 for the appropriation for the World's Fair, several gentlemen, for the purpose of defeating the bill, injected the query as to whether Thompson and Capone would manage the same," wrote Congressman Sabath.

"I stated, among other things, that the good people of Chicago in the April election would clean Chicago of Thompsonism and that long before 1933 Chicago would have redeemed itself and that we would have one of the safest and cleanest cities in the world.

"I was assured by many of the members who opposed the bill that if Chicago would show its good faith by doing so that the appropriation would be forthcoming in the next session and, if needed, would be increased."

Loesch Pleased at Vote.

Congratulatory messages and statements on the election results continued during the day. In an interview at Washington, D. C., Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, said:

"I am delighted at the enormous majority the Chicago voters gave Mr. Cermak. It was a measure of the spirit in which the people of Chicago repudiated Thompson and all his gang."

Judge John H. Lyle, candidate for the Republican mayoralty nomination in the primary, issued a statement in which he called the election the "first purging day for the Republican party."

"By the elimination of that reprehensible element which is responsible for its recent defeats, the party can now launch on a program and career of usefulness not only to Chicago and Cook county but to the state and nation," Judge Lyle said.

Scss Police Renovated.

With a new and improved morale under competent leadership, the Chicago police department will be the most powerful factor in remedying the crime situation, said Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court.

"The further assurance by the mayor-elect of the appointment of an able, courageous and honest civil service commission carries with it renewed confidence that Chicago is entering upon a new era of material and spiritual progress," Chief Justice McGoorty said.

Japanese Premier Quits; Was Wounded by Assassin

LONDON, April 9.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—A Tokio dispatch to the Exchange telegraph today said Premier Hamaguchi had resigned. The premier, who was wounded in an assassin's attack last November, Saturday underwent a second operation in an attempt to improve his condition.

His Old Home Town in Europe Celebrates Cermak Victory

BY EMIL MAASS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, April 8.—Enthusiastic townspeople in Kladno, Bohemia, now part of Czecho-Slovakia, held a torchlight parade tonight in honor of Anton J. Cermak, mayor elect of Chicago. Mr. Cermak's family formerly lived at Kladno. His father was a poor miner when he sailed for America. "Tony" at that time was 6 years of age.

Similar celebrations were being held tonight in Prague, Mr. Cermak's birthplace. More than 150 people there by the name of Cermak are proud of their name today.

The Czech parliament today sent a cable, signed by Karl Propupek, congratulating Mr. Cermak.

Press Hails Victory.

All Austrian and Czecho-Slovakian newspapers today published long front page stories on the Chicago election results to the exclusion of home and other foreign news. Chicago's gangland, the people are saying in the cafés and restaurants, will be cleaned up now and "bad times are ahead for Al Capone."

Karl Pregler, former Czech minister to Washington, who lost his seat in parliament last February on the grounds that he was still an American citizen, writes in today's Prague Express:

"It would have been better had our newspapers stated that Mr. Cermak was an American of Czech origin instead of claiming that he was a Czech only. Mr. Cermak is every inch an American. He is not interested in the political situation of Czecho-Slovakia."

Britain Hails Victory.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 8.—As news, Chicago rode sky high in Great Britain today, Thompson's crushing defeat hit most of the front pages.

In his transatlantic telephone talk with the London press today Mayor Elect Cermak said he intended to visit England within the next year and mentioned that he is pledged to lead a delegation to Washington shortly to urge repeal of the 18th amendment.

"This last," comments the Daily Telegraph, "on top of his general cleanup, should make Cermak the most unpopular mayor Chicago's underworld has ever known."

The London Telegraph takes a rap at Thompson for his "braying about King George and his advertised campaign against British intellectual domination."

"Probably Chicago is, for a time, at least, tired of Big Bill's show and desires something more modern—the proved business efficiency of Mr. Cermak. We can promise him a warm welcome when he carries out his expressed intention of visiting this country."

Under the heading "Big Bill Settled" the Morning Post says:

"To the outside world it looks as if Chicago had struck a decisive blow against organized terrorism. The biggest majority in local records was given to a candidate who promised to deliver Chicago from the domination of the gangsters and gunmen, and against a candidate under whose government gangsters and gunmen flourished. The salient fact is that for this term, at least, Big Bill Thompson and all he stood for will go in for retirement. It remains to be seen how far the overthrow of Big Bill will restore law and order in Chicago, but it must certainly do something to restore Chicago's dignity. Should the city continue lawless under its new mayor, it can hardly be made so ridiculous."

The News-Chronicle says:

"Chicago has got rid of Big Bill. That in itself is a good thing. None who studied this gentleman's methods and record, even casually, can doubt that for an instant. Chicago's new mayor cannot well be worse than the old one."

"A Dangerous Mountebank."

Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard says:

"We may, perhaps, be allowed to congratulate the people of Chicago on having liberated themselves from a dangerous mountebank who has dominated their civic life for so long. One thing that must not be forgotten is that it is possible for Chicago to get rid of individual representatives of a reign of corruption, but not of the foundations on which that reign was built. Big Bill Thompson has gone, possibly, though not certainly, forever.

"Al Capone will go, too, though this is more than any one ventures to predict at the moment. But if they both go forever, and a dozen more like them, prohibition remains, and that is the soil in which political corruption and rule of gangsters proliferate as naturally as cheese mites in cheese."

Canada Chuckles Over Result.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, April 8.—Due to the many laughs Thompson has given Canadians with his conceptions of King George's interest in Chicago municipal politics, Canadians evinced as much interest in the Chicago mayoralty election as if it were a presidential contest. Newspaper offices buzzed with queries last night on "How goes the Chicago election?" And there was always an unexplained chuckle over the answer: "Thompson was beaten."

CERMAK'S THREE DAUGHTERS TO BE CITY HOSTESSES

Vivian, Grandchild of 12, to Share Honors.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

There was some speculation yesterday as to which of Mayor Elect Cermak's three daughters might be chosen to act as official hostess for the mayor during his term which will embrace the welcoming of the World's Fair visitors in 1933. The answer did not come until the mayor elect emerged from a noon day breakfast at his home at 2343 South Millard avenue.

"The first lady of Chicago?" repeated Mr. Cermak. "There won't be one. There will be three—my daughters."

The daughters are Mrs. Floyd Kenlay, wife of a Chicago attorney, who has been her father's housekeeper since Mrs. Cermak's death two years ago; Mrs. Richey V. Graham of Cicero, wife of State Senator Graham, and Mrs. Frank J. Jirka, who is now vacationing in Florida. Her husband is a Chicago physician.

Granddaughter to Share Honors.

That Vivian Graham, 12 years old, granddaughter of the new mayor, would also share honors with them was the opinion of both Mrs. Kenlay and Mrs. Graham.

Mary Alyce Kenlay, 6 months old, is the only one of the Cermak womenfolks who will not act as Chicago's first lady. Mary Alyce seemed content to remain the baby of the household. She snuggled into her grandfather's arms when he had finished his breakfast and looked about with wide brown eyes at the assembly of relatives, reporters and photographers.

"You don't know what it is all about, do you, young lady?" observed Mr. Cermak, smiling at the child in his arms.

Vivian Is Happy.

Of all the Cermak womenfolks none was more pleased over the outcome of the election than Vivian Graham, who feels that she had a part in helping elect her grandfather through her talks at meetings and over the radio.

"I could hardly believe it true about my granddad," she declared yesterday afternoon upon her return from the Burnham school, where she is a junior high student. "My friends all congratulated me and lots of telegrams and letters came. One telegram said: 'The good work you did before election is showing up now. Congratulations. I hope it won't be long until we will vote for you for office.'

"I'm not speaking any more for my granddad now that he is elected mayor, but I know he is going to give Chicago the best administration he can, and make Chicago the finest place in the United States."

ALCOCK REINSTATES 4 POLICE CAPTAINS IN OLD COMMANDS

Four police captains, who were assigned to inactive rôles in the department by Acting Police Commissioner Alcock, were sent back to their old commands yesterday. Alcock was reticent concerning his motives for rescinding his transfer orders of last week. But in one statement attributed to him it was explained that his action closely followed the demand of Mayor Elect Cermak that the captains should be sent back to the former stations.

The captains affected by yesterday's action are Richard Gill, Des Plaines street; Gregory Moran, Austin; Joseph Goldberg, Albany Park, and John E. Ptacek, Lawndale. Their places were taken just before election by four captains who had been sent from the miscellaneous division.

UNBORN CHILD LIVING, "BORN," JUDGE RULES

New York, April 8.—[Special.]—An unborn child is both a live child and a "born" child within the meaning of the law, Surrogate George A. Wingate in Brooklyn ruled today. He held that a child born seven and one-half months after the death of a testator was entitled to share a bequest given to children who might be born and living at the time of the testator's death.

The question arose in connection with the settlement of the estate of Mrs. Christina Gobhardt, who died in Brooklyn in 1926. Her will directed that legacies of $2,000 each were to go "to each of my grandchildren who may be born after the making of this will and who may still be living at the time of my death."

Anna May Gobhardt, daughter of Louis F. Gobhardt, a son of the testator, was born March 2, 1927, seven and one-half months after her grandmother's death. The court was asked whether the child was entitled to receive $2,000 under the will.

BRITAIN TO BUILD SIX NEW LINERS; COST $85,000,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 9 [Thursday].—Plans for the construction of six new British liners, including a 30,000,000 high speed and luxurious Cunard ship and a fleet of Canadian Pacific vessels, were revealed today by the Daily Mail.

The contract for the Cunard liner, according to present arrangements, will be given shortly to John Brown company, Glasgow, builders of a sister ship at present under construction and also of the new $15,000,000 Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain, which will leave Southampton for Quebec on its maiden voyage on May 27.

This will be followed by the construction of no fewer than five other Canadian Pacific liners at an estimated cost of $55,000,000, providing employment for 10,000 men.

Russia to Trade Wheat to Italy for Motor Trucks

Washington D. C., April 8.—(AP)—An agreement whereby soviet Russia will exchange wheat for Italian motor trucks was announced tonight by the commerce department. M. M. Mitchell, America's commercial attaché at Rome, advised the department of the proposed exchange by which Russia would acquire 2,000 machines.

OLD CITY HALL OFFICIALS PACK UP AMID UPROAR

Tear Up Offices in Day of Tumult.

It was moving day at the city hall yesterday and the jobholders of the repudiated Thompson administration carried away with them or destroyed about everything except the permanent fixtures. From some of the offices even the furniture and steel files were removed.

Vaults and safes were being emptied of their contents early in the morning and all day a steady procession of employés burdened with strong boxes, letter files, ledgers, card indexes, plats and maps, pictures, boxes, packages, and bundles of every description trekked out of the building to trucks and taxicabs waiting outside. Last night the hall was a scene of desolation.

Discuss Plans for Future.

While the moving was in progress the Thompson office holders without civil service standings consoled one another over the Cermak victory and discussed their plans for the future.

Mayor Thompson will leave today for a ten day boat trip down the Illinois and Mississippi rivers on the steamer Cape Girardeau. His secretary said that seventy persons had signed up to accompany him.

Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe was planning a trip to Ireland within a few weeks and Corporation Counsel and Mrs. Ettelson, after a short vacation trip, will tour Europe. City Clerk Smith said he must remain to swear in the new officials, after which he probably will take a trip. Health Commissioner Kegel said he would remain on the job until his successor is named. President Faherty of the board of local improvements issued a statement that he was "through with politics for all time" and had expected to quit anyway. Building Commissioner Paschen was interesting himself in his private contracting business.

Thompson Remains Silent.

No statements were forthcoming from Thompson during the day. He visited his office for a short time, but locked himself in with several of his closest associates.

The most energetic moving of the day occurred in the mayor's office, which was stripped from one end to the other. The Thompson "prosperity drive" banners were ripped down first and flags and pictures followed. Truckloads of files and bales of pledge cards and other literature were trundled out. Ten telephone instruments went out with one load.

A crowd of several hundred curiosity seekers gathered at the La Salle street entrance of the hall late in the afternoon to watch Thompson's mahogany desk and other office equipment lifted into a truck carrying a department of public works sign. Jeers and laughter greeted the sallies of the workmen as they posed for photographers. Mounted policemen were called to keep the onlookers back to the sidewalks.

Employés Divide Property.

In the Faherty office departing employés divided much of the movable property among themselves, including the chair cushions and desk equipment.

Out of the inner offices of Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe came records and documents of every description, with Wolfe himself supervising the moving. For a short time the commissioner was occupied with the opening of bids for the new viaduct to connect State street with Wabash avenue on the north bank of the river. The low bidder was Paschen Brothers at $120,590. Whether the contract would be let before Wolfe leaves office could not be learned.

A considerable quantity of new stationery was moved and much of it was thrown into already crammed waste paper baskets. Workmen pointed out that it was no good anyway as it bore the names of retiring officials.

Civil service employés whose positions are safe under the merit system enjoyed a virtual holiday in most of the offices. Only a few appeared to be working except in the office of the board of election commissioners, where counting of the election returns was in progress.

The only newly elected official observed in the city hall during the day was James A. Kearns, the successful candidate for city treasurer. He spent a few minutes chatting with subordinates in the treasurer's office.

Under the law the retiring Thompson officials will remain technically in office until their successors are sworn in and, in the cases of bonded officials, until their bonds have been approved by the city council. It is the custom in offices deserted by the department or bureau head for the first deputy to carry on until the new cabinet member is installed.

DIES IN INSURANCE OFFICE.

Samuel Goldman, 43 years old, 3501 Wilson avenue, fell dead yesterday in an insurance office at 222 West Adams street. Heart disease apparently was the cause of death.

Londoners Call Up Cermak and Find All's Well Now

When Mayor Thompson was elected four years ago one of his slogans was: "I'll swat King George on the snoot." Yesterday six London newspapers called the office of Mayor Elect Anton J. Cermak by trans-Atlantic telephone for an interview.

In turn, the London Daily Mirror, the London Daily Mail, the London Daily Express, the London Daily Herald, the London Morning Post, and the London Daily News put almost identical questions. They held the wire from 2 o'clock in the afternoon [8 p. m. London time] for an hour and a half. Phone girls giggled as they listened in along the line. One of them, in London, invited Mr. Cermak to take a drink.

Congratulate Him on Victory.

Each newspaper congratulated Mr. Cermak in English accent and hailed his election as the first step of the city toward redemption throughout the world. Telegrams of a like tenor were received at his office from every important city in the world. Following the congratulations each London journalist asked the same question: "Do you attribute your election to Thompson's campaign against King George?"

"The answer is 'Not appreciably,'" came the reply from Cermak's office. "Only that the slogan helped among other things to convince some people that they had been fooled long enough."

All reporters followed with a question as to the status of Capone in the new administration and asked about plans for police reorganization.

"Capone is a resident of Florida as far as I am concerned," was the reply. "He has been found guilty of contempt by a federal court and is going to be away from us for some time. I advise him to stay away for at least four years.

"As for police, I can say that ours are as good as Scotland Yard. Any policeman who is proven dishonest will go out so fast he will never know that he had been in. I started reorganization last night by reinstating captains my opponent had transferred for political reasons."

News on "Crime War."

All wanted to know what Cermak planned to do on the crime front.

"Crime front?" was the answer. "The trenches have been moved from State and Madison streets. The Indians left some years ago if you don't know it. That's all twaddle. Some one has been pulling your leg. Chicago is a wonderful city, but has suffered by distorted accounts of gang warfare. Come and see for yourselves."

All the reporters hung up with a "Cheerio," not knowing that the "Mr. Cermak" to whom they had spoken was John F. Delaney, self-appointed spokesman, who was acting in order to relieve the mayor elect of another burden. London papers please copy.

Girl Pushes Wheelbarrow to Pay Her Election Bet

FIND PUBLISHER SOUGHT IDENTITY AFTER HIS DEATH

Yuma, Ariz., April 8.—(AP)—Evidence that Hutton Bellah, 38 year old publisher who committed suicide here Monday after 15 months of masquerading as "William A. Lee," did not intend his true identity to remain concealed after his death was received today by Harrington Wimberly, editor of the Altus (Okla.) Times-Democrat, the paper Bellah owned before he disappeared in Los Angeles.

Wimberly was informed by an insurance company of a life policy, apparently taken out by Bellah in Wisconsin at about the time he was married under the name of "Lee" to Edna Louise Schatz of Platteville, Wis. The policy named as beneficiary Mrs. Bellah, whom the publisher had abandoned in Los Angeles after he lost heavily in the stock market.

Funeral services for Bellah were held today. His mother, Mrs. L. H. Bellah of Hollis, Okla., did not arrive.

Mrs. Hutton Bellah attended, but Mrs. Lee, who married the publisher in Rockford, Ill., last July, did not appear. She remained at the home of friends.

Baby Swallows Thompson Campaign Pin; Recovering

Jackie Craddick, 3 years old, 6328 Greenwood avenue, was taken to the County hospital last night by his mother after he had swallowed a Thompson campaign button. The boy probably will recover, according to Dr. Richard Parritt.

KEARNS, BRADY READY TO TAKE OFFICES TODAY

James A. Kearns, newly elected city treasurer, and Peter J. Brady, newly elected city clerk, are prepared to assume their new offices today, as soon as their certificates of election have been issued and their sureties approved by the city council.

It is planned to issue the certificates immediately after the announcement of the election proclamation by the board of election commissioners at 10 o'clock this morning. Neither Mr. Kearns nor Mr. Brady has indicated what changes he will make in his official staff. Kearns is a Republican and Brady a Democrat.

Edward B. Casey, who was elected to the Municipal court, said yesterday he would not take office for about two weeks. He is leaving today on a vacation and will be sworn in as judge on his return.

M'ANDREW CHUCKLES OVER DEFEAT OF MAN WHO DISMISSED HIM

Norwalk, Conn., April 8.—(AP)—The Chicago election and defeat of Mayor William Hale Thompson for another term brought a chuckle from William McAndrew, former superintendent of Chicago schools, now a resident here.

WM. McANDREW.

It was "Big Bill" who dismissed McAndrew on the ground of insubordination, an assertion which the courts did not sustain, some years ago.

Mr. McAndrew wanted to know the latest total of "Big Bill's" defeat and when told it was 191,000 he replied:

"It would have been one hundred ninety one thousand and one had I been there. I can think of nothing better for Chicago."

COMMENT OF PRESS ON END OF THOMPSONISM

Editors of Nation Give Their Views.

Below are editorial comments from the press of the country on the results of Tuesday's mayoralty election here:

NEW YORK EVENING POST—Cermak is in and Thompson is out. . . . The citizens who have led the long and heretofore losing fight against this international clown should rejoice today, especially his unflagging and effective foe, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

NEW YORK HERALD-TRIBUNE.—Chicago is already on her tiptoes for the World's Fair that is to mark her centennial in 1933. She will bless Cermak forever if by that time he has made the town not righteous but safe. That evidently is his job—and he is not ill equipped for it.

NEW YORK TIMES—Public opinion, mobilized after years of effort, has finally rid Chicago of the mayor who made the city ridiculous outside and permitted it to be lawless within.

NEW YORK SUN—The rout of "Big Bill" was a complete one. Anton J. Cermak's victory over Mayor Thompson is impressive enough to mark a complete change in Chicago sentiment, a complete repudiation of everything that went under the name of Thompsonism.

BROOKLYN EAGLE—Civic virtue in Chicago has trampled on William Hale Thompson, the "Big Bill" of American colloquialism. "No king, no clown, shall rule this town" was the winning slogan. The margin of 191,000 against Thompson is impressive."

WASHINGTON POST—Thompson's smashing defeat ought to signalize a new era for Chicago, in which decent citizens will have some chance to carry on business without paying death taxes to racketeers.

WASHINGTON STAR — William Hale Thompson, three times elected mayor of Chicago, for a total of twelve years of service in that office, became an international clown. His government of the city finally gave rise to the term "Thompsonism." . . . In all probability Chicago will not be "cleaned up" in a week or a month. But there has been a beginning at the polls.

BALTIMORE SUN.—Thompson's defeat is to be interpreted as a rebuke to the terrorism that has prevailed in Chicago, and as a warning to the lawless elements in other cities where banditry and racketeering have grown bolder because of their progress under Big Bill's ineffective rule.

PHILADELPHIA ENQUIRER—Chicago voters have ordered a new deal. In the political junk pile goes Big Bill Thompson. The "snoot" of King George is now safe from official punching. The day of a strutting and ridiculous executive is over. The curtain has fallen upon the stage where demagogic drama has so long been enacted.

PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC LEDGER—Whatever the future may hold, Chicago has realized its wish for a new deal. "Big Bill" Thompson's long day of power has closed. He will hardly come back again.

MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL APPEAL—The crushing defeat of Mayor William Hale Thompson brings to an end a career that was nourished upon the most noxious weeds in the political garden. . . . The verdict of the voters has handed Mayor Elect Anton Cermak a burden as heavy as the honor is striking. But a display of earnestness, energy, and honesty will achieve some excellent results.

DES MOINES REGISTER—Those who definitely want to free Chicago from the malodor of racketeering and political corruption rallied to defeat Thompson. The election showed plainly that a very large proportion of Chicago's voters want to improve Chicago's reputation, particularly in view of the coming World's Fair.

KANSAS CITY STAR—Chicago finally had enough of "Big Bill" Thompson; enough of its blatant, sensational, and commonplace mayor; enough of its reputation as a crime center in which there has been an intimate and formidable relation between predatory gangs and administration politics. . . . It was a great thing Chicago did yesterday.

MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL — The impressive majority by which the city's voters yesterday retired Big Bill Thompson from the mayoralty can be accepted by the country as notice that Chicago's citizens are no longer in the mood to tolerate the kind of municipal government that has been theirs for twelve of the last sixteen years.

BOSTON HERALD—The downfall of the once all conquering William Hale Thompson in Chicago is evidence that the people of that city have grown tired of spenders. With taxes higher and incomes lower, they simply cannot afford luxuries like Thompson and his extravagant friends.

MILWAUKEE JOURNAL—Chicago citizens got rid of Mayor Thompson. . . . People don't have to stand the kind of government Chicago has had. There is the lesson. It is only fair to Mr. Cermak to expect that he will do better. If he does not, he has his warning."

CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR. — During his twelve terrific years Mayor Thompson made America's second city a laughing stock to the world. But this year "Big Bill" overplayed his hand. . . . Chicago has announced its choice by an overwhelming majority. For at least four years the city should be free from government by ballyhoo.

CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER—Big Bill Thompson has made himself typical of the worst in American politics. A blatant demagogue, preacher of a noisy, offensive Americanism, the fair haired favorite of those anti-social forces which have made Chicago almost a synonym for rampant crime and corruption. Thompson is dismissed from an office which he advertised but did not ornament.

INDIANAPOLIS NEWS—Yesterday Chicago people redeemed their city. Cermak's opportunity should prove a powerful incentive for a new deal. The passing of "Big Bill" prompts the country generally to felicitate Chicago.

DETROIT FREE PRESS—The further the machine rises, the further it can fall when the contraption goes into nose dive and the gas has given out. So "Big Bill" Thompson has hit the bottom with a thud. He is buried out of sight. Tuesday really was a great day for Chicago. Its reputation has gone up several notches.

LOS ANGELES TIMES—Cermak can and probably will introduce more efficiency and may reduce taxes by separating many Thompson tax eaters from the pay roll. He will be more apt to give the public its money's worth in public improvements; he may succeed in restoring the schools to the purposes of education. Chicago should benefit materially from the change.

SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE—Whatever the future may bring, the immediate reaction to the Chicago election returns is relief that "Big Bill" is done for. Good riddance to bad rubbish.

PROMOTED

LIEUT. GEN. J. B. SANBORN. LIEUT. GEN. M. J. FOREMAN.

Springfield, Ill., April 8.—(AP)—Promotion of Maj. Gen. Joseph B. Sanborn and Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman to the grade of lieutenant generals of the line on the retired list of the Illinois National Guard was announced today by Adjt. Gen. Carlos E. Black. The promotions were on the recommendations of Gov. Louis L. Emmerson.

COMMITTEE JOBS AT STAKE IN NEW COUNCIL TODAY

The preliminary work of organizing the new city council, composed of thirty Democrats and twenty Republicans, will be started today at a caucus of the aldermen to be held immediately following the special council session at which Mayor Elect Cermak will be inaugurated.

In the caucus the aldermen will name the committee on committees. This committee will then make up a slate of working committees to handle the city's business during the next two years, and also will formulate rules governing council procedure.

Fourteen Seek Five Places.

Fourteen candidates have been advanced for the five positions on the steering committee. Four of the committee are expected to be Democrats, with the Republicans getting recognition through one member, but credence was given also to reports that the Republicans may land two places on the committee.

The representative on the committee for the first ten wards, according to reports, will be either Aldermen B. A. Cronson [4th], Sheldon Govler [9th], or William A. Rowan [10th].

The choice for the second ten wards lies between Aldermen John Wilson [11th], Thomas A. Doyle [13th], or Terence F. Moran [16th]. Aldermen James B. Bowler [25th], John Toman [23d], and John S. Clark [30th] have been mentioned for the third group.

In the fourth group there are three candidates, Aldermen Joseph H. Smith [32d], Frank Landmesser [38th], and Joseph C. Ross [40th], while in the fifth group either Ald. John A. Massen [48th] or Ald. Dorsey B. Crowe [42d] will be named.

Plan Distant Conference.

By Saturday the committee is expected to be on its way to a distant spot to settle the committee assignments free of the pleadings of their colleagues for particular berths. Tucson, Ariz., has been mentioned for this rendezvous.

Considered most important among the berths are the chairmanships of five committees, vacated by the defeat of sitting aldermen or their election to other offices. The committees which will have new leaders are the following: railway terminals; buildings and zoning; harbors, wharves, and bridges; police and municipal institutions; and conventions.

The aldermen who now hold chairmanships are expected to retain them. In the gossip yesterday mention was heard only of the candidacy of Ald. Rowan for leadership of the harbors committee of which he has been an active member during the last two years.

Eaton Blames Late Attack.

Ald. Charles Scribner Eaton, who failed of reelection in the Fifth ward, attributed his defeat to a roorback disseminated among the Jewish voters in the ward late Monday night. The roorback made it appear as though Ald. Eaton was asking for reelection on an anti-Jewish platform.

Breakfast Appetite!
. . . serve Welch's as the morning fruit for just one month—then check results

BREAKFAST, neglected by so many as a distasteful ordeal, can be the most zestful meal of the day. Welch's, with its concentrated goodness of full-ripe Concord grapes, its cheery bright purple, its exciting fragrance, captivates sulky morning appetites and starts digestions working contentedly.

Welch's is Nature's most delightful tonic-food. It unstintingly supplies the mineral salts, neutralizing acids and fruit proteins which build up bodily vigor. Yet it does not add an undesired ounce to the weight. In Europe they call this "The Grape Cure."

Science and experience enable Welch's to bring you the exact equivalent of fresh vine-ripened grapes, regardless of season, every day throughout the year. It is fruit in the most convenient form. There is no squeezing, no preparing. Welch's is pure and rich. Many prefer to dilute it one-third to one-half water. It is pasteurized grape juice bottled under rigid laboratory control.

Now is the ideal time to put Welch's to the test. Drink it before breakfast, with your meals and between meals. Here is a Spring tonic that will bring you a new surge of life and new enthusiasm.

Welch's "by-the-bunch" is now available in the 10c Junior, the new sampler size, convenient for a single serving. It is the concentrated goodness of one and a quarter bunches of full-ripe Concords. Ask for Welch's at leading fountains, hotels, clubs and restaurants. Include it in your diet for one month—then check results. The pint bottle at 30c is most economical for household use. Write for health-and-weight-control booklet. Welch's, Dept. CT-8 Westfield, N. Y.

Charm pervades the household of Mrs. George S. Scott of 442 Barry Ave., Chicago. She herself is delightfully endowed with that elusive asset. Mary, 8 years old and Nancy, 5, inherit it. The husband and father is president of The Charm Co., manufacturers of a well-known toilet requisite. "Our little girl Mary was thin and nervous," Mrs. Scott says. "A sister, where she attends school, told us to try Welch's as a tonic and it would build her up. It did just exactly that, and we have been using it regularly ever since. We use Welch's as a beverage and also as the fruit course at breakfast and with meals. We all look and feel healthier since getting the Welch habit."

STATE, ON HUNT FOR FUNDS, FINDS PROSPECTS DIM

Little Hope of Getting Uncollected Taxes.

Little hope that Cook county will be able to pay about $16,000,000 in uncollected taxes into the depleted coffers of the State of Illinois was expressed yesterday by County Judge Jarecki to a committee of legislators and officials seeking revenue for the commonwealth.

By April 15, it is estimated that the state funds, particularly those for the University of Illinois, will be almost exhausted and extraordinary measures may be adopted to meet payrolls. A bill to allow the state to issue tax anticipation warrants to cover such a contingency has already been passed by the general assembly.

Legislators Make Inquiry.

Three senators, three representatives and three state officers—Directors of Finance Kinney, State Treasurer Barrett, and Auditor of Public Accounts Nelson—met yesterday at 33 N. La Salle street in the rooms of the Illinois Tax commission to learn when Cook county will pay its lapsed revenue. Judge Jarecki was asked his opinion of how soon he can dispose of the complaints filed against the 1928 re-assessment of taxes, a major stumbling block.

These complaints have piled up into such a mountain that only by working every minute could I hope to dispose of them by the end of my term of office—almost four years hence," said the judge. "If I had five or six county judges from downstate to help me, we might finish the work in one year, provided we could get courtrooms to hold them."

"Could you get the judges to come here and help you?" asked Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago], chairman of the committee. The judge said they would "be glad to come."

Asks Coöperation of Swanson.

Treasurer Barrett then moved to ask coöperation from the county board and State's Attorney Swanson in obtaining the courtrooms for the judges and asking them to sit on the tax cases. It was estimated that at least $10,000,000 is involved in these contests.

The committee also retained Hugh Griffenhagen, tax expert, to examine the books of the state to determine if other tax collections from downstate counties will be sufficient to tide over the threatening period and avoid issuing the anticipation warrants. If the state is driven to this exigency it will become the first American commonwealth to arrive at such straightened circumstances.

PLANE IS CAUGHT IN FREAK WINDS; PILOT KILLED

Cross Air Currents Hurl Ship to Ground.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

A student flyer was killed in an airplane crash at Sky Harbor airport yesterday when his plane was caught in cross currents of air and thrown 150 feet to the ground.

The accident brought to light a peculiar phenomenon of Chicago spring weather, which presents a hazard to inexperienced flyers, who are unaware of the conflict in air currents resulting from the cold air rising from the lake and the warm air rising from the surrounding land.

In Two Air Currents.

The plane rose into a strong west wind and passed into an equally strong east wind at an altitude of 150 feet. With this sudden change in wind direction the plane stalled and the novice momentarily baffled, was unable to keep his craft from falling into a spin and crashing.

The dead pilot was Nels Roberts, 33 years old, 6418 North Oakley avenue, a mechanic at the airport who recently acquired a student pilot's license. Observers heard the engine cut out as the plane reached the west boundary of the field, indicating that the flyer, anticipating the crash, had switched off his motor.

Plane Lands on Wheels.

The plane landed on its wheels, and although it was not badly damaged the pilot was thrown forward, striking his head against the instrument board. He died half an hour later in the Highland Park hospital. Roberts' plane was a Great Lakes "Trainer" biplane, which he had rented from the Great Lakes company for practice flying.

Maj. R. W. Schroeder, manager of the airport, stated last night that the conflicting currents were caused by the rushing of warm surface air toward the cold lake waters where the higher east wind originated.

FLYER AND HIS BRIDE OF A WEEK CRASH TO DEATH IN OHIO

Jefferson, O., April 8.—(AP)—An aviator and his bride of a week, Rollie Patterson, 22, and Mrs. Ruth Patterson, 18, of Madison, Lake county, were killed tonight when their airplane crashed at the farm of G. C. Patterson, six miles south of here.

The plane crashed from an altitude of about eighty feet when a wing tip struck the branches of a tree as they were taking off from a meadow. The young bride was dead when witnesses reached the demolished ship, while her husband died about fifteen minutes afterward.

The couple had flown to the farm to visit Patterson's uncle. The young flyer was introducing his bride, whom he married on March 31 at Madison, O.

BARONESS DIES AFTER SHOOTING AT COUNT'S HOME

BUDAPEST, Hungary, April 8.—(AP)—The young Baroness Marie Forster died tonight of a bullet wound in her stomach after being brought to a Budapest sanitarium from the castle of Count Teleki at Szob.

One version of the shooting says that the baroness had just fired at and missed a target and the revolver was discharged when she turned to examine it. However, newspapers say that medical examination showed it would have been impossible for her to have inflicted the wound herself. Doctors are quoted as being disposed to believe the shooting was accidental.

Baron Stefan Bor Emissa, who is said to have witnessed the shooting, was being questioned by authorities tonight. The affair has caused a sensation in Budapest society.

SUIT ATTACKS OUSTER OF COAL UNION CHIEFS

Two ousted officers of the Coal Teamsters and Hikers' union brought suit in the Superior court yesterday to restrain the newly elected officers from acting. The suit was filed on behalf of Milton Booth, president of the union for more than 25 years, and Albert Weber, formerly a trustee.

Booth, Weber, George [Red] Barker, former business agent, and John Sheridan, another business agent, were ousted at a meeting of coal teamsters on March 8. Sheridan had been an official for more than 20 years. Barker's resignation had been obtained in writing at the Joliet penitentiary by Assistant State's Attorney Charles E. Lounsbury.

The suit alleges that George Roy Baker was elected president and James Lynch business agent at a meeting attended by less than 100 persons, many of whom were not members of the union. The suit also quotes a letter from Lounsbury to the members which states that the election was illegal and that the new officers have no standing.

TRUTH IS TOLD ABOUT LINGLE'S MONEY VENTURES

No Evidence Found of Gambling Graft.

Following is the fifth installment of "The Solution of the Lingle Murder."

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

CHAPTER VI.

Up to that fatal 9th of June, when he died, Alfred Lingle had enjoyed the respect and friendship of his associates in the newspaper world; he received the high regard of business men and men of public affairs.

But Lingle dead, Lingle murdered, was made to appear, in some quarters at least, a sinister underworld character, and within a few days after his death his reputation was under fire.

Once the seed of suspicion was sown the necessity for investigating the finances of Lingle became apparent. It was a necessity which had never been demonstrated before.

Rumors Cause Decision.

A flood of rumors concerning Lingle's financial operations brought a decision to Prosecutor Rathbun that his first task would be to unearth every scrap of evidence obtainable on this phase of the investigation. Perhaps, he reasoned, a motive for the murder of Lingle might be found therein.

Suddenly Lingle was being labeled, in the gossip of the streets, the "Unofficial Chief of Police of Chicago." It was whispered that he received princely sums from the gamblers and the booze barons, and that he exerted influence to grant them immunity to ply their traffic unmolested by the police.

These were fishwives' tales, never accompanied by proof.

But the completed picture of the mad, frenzied finances of Lingle, so far as the facts could be learned to paint it, showed him a plunger at the races, an unschooled speculator in the market, a borrower of large sums, and the recipient of an income which was in great part a baffling mystery.

Facts Are Made Public.

Every fact that was uncovered anywhere concerning the financial affairs of Lingle was revealed by Mr. Rathbun or by THE TRIBUNE and all the facts were promptly published in THE TRIBUNE.

The view of THE TRIBUNE was that Lingle murdered was one crime against THE TRIBUNE and against the state. If, in addition to this, Lingle were to be shown as having betrayed his employers, this was a second offense against THE TRIBUNE and against the state.

In the beginning, Lingle's own claims as to the sources of his money were investigated by Prosecutor Rathbun and representatives of THE TRIBUNE. Examination of the records of the probate court showed that the "fortune" left him by his father was less than $500. The estate of his uncle, Thomas Jenkins Lingle, was but $7,000, and of this Alfred Lingle came into only $1,150.

His boasted winnings in the stock market were found to have become losses. He had never taken down a profit. No records of his race track wagers could be found.

Editorial Is Published.

While all these matters were being investigated THE TRIBUNE took cognizance of the rumors, and on June 18 published an editorial in which it was stated:

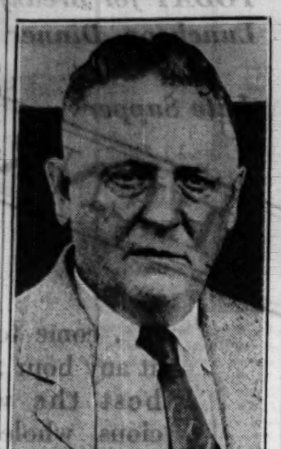
"At the time of his [Lingle's] death and for several days thereafter the general assumption was that he was killed to prevent the exposure in THE TRIBUNE of facts about gangland which were known to him.

"More recently rumors have arisen regarding Mr. Lingle's relations with gangdom. It has been said that he was, in one fashion or another, an ally and that he was killed for violating in some manner the code of gangdom.

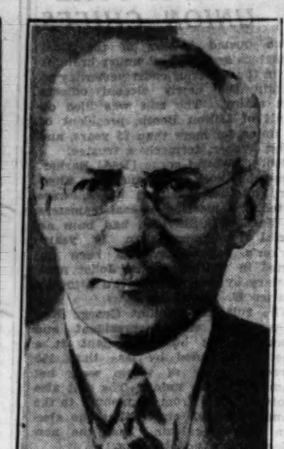
"THE TRIBUNE does not know why its reporter was killed. It is engaged in finding out and expects to be successful. . . . It may require long, patient efforts, but THE TRIBUNE is prepared for that and hopes that some lasting results will be obtained which will stamp justice upon the face of crime. . . .

"Furthermore, every rumor, however unlikely its foundation, is being investigated. We will pursue the inquiry to the end, wherever it may lead."

TWO OF LINGLE'S FRIENDS



William F. Russell, former police commissioner, who had joint stock account with murdered reporter.



Arthur Cutten, financier, whom Lingle aided in rounding up gang of men who had robbed his home.

A DETAILED STATEMENT

Ten days later State's Attorney Swanson issued a report, prepared by Prosecutor Rathbun, in which a complete detailed account of Lingle's finances, so far as they could be exposed by all the evidence then obtained, was given.

Rathbun's search of Lingle's affairs had gone back two and a half years, to Jan. 1, 1928. The slain reporter had maintained only one bank account, which was in the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank. In all those months he had never obtained a monthly statement of his account, and all the checks he had written were found, canceled, in the bank files.

Four brokerage houses in which Lingle had opened trading accounts provided Mr. Rathbun with complete statements of his speculations.

Many witnesses were summoned and interviewed, and from all this information the prosecutor compiled his report.

Record of Deposits.

He found that Lingle's bank deposits in 1928 were $26,500; in 1929, $25,100; and in 1930, $12,300—a total for the entire period of $63,900. The deposits were made in sums ranging from $100 to $2,000, and in a few instances deposits of $3,000, $4,000, and one of $5,000 appeared.

An examination of the canceled checks drawn by Lingle in the thirty month period revealed that for the major part they were cashed at various race tracks and dog tracks, and at the counter of the Lake Shore bank. Checks cashed at race tracks during the period aggregated $15,000; those cashed at dog tracks totaled $2,600, and the counter checks totaled $15,470, showing total withdrawals in these three manners of $33,070 of the $63,900 he had deposited.

It was considered certain that some of the deposits in the account represented race track winnings, for undoubtedly a man knowing race horses and racing men as Lingle knew them must have won at times. There was evidence that Lingle did frequently win, heavily.

Net Net Income.

It was also conceded that the $63,900 deposited in the two and a half years was not net income. Undoubtedly part of it, how much could only be guessed, was represented by redeposits. In other words, Lingle would draw out money, go to the race track and win heavily, and the next day deposit his winnings.

The canceled checks showed that Lingle had drawn checks totaling $6,000 which he applied on the payment of his summer home at Long Beach. There was one check payable to a brokerage house, in the sum of $1,500.

Of the rest of the canceled checks, all of which were itemized in the report, none seemed specially significant to Mr. Rathbun except one for $500 issued by Lingle to cash and indorsed by Daniel Gilbert, a captain of police who was an intimate friend of Lingle and commanded the central police district, downtown.

Capt. Gilbert explained that he had been discussing financial difficulties with Lingle and that the latter had insisted on loaning him the $500 so that he might pay an insurance premium then due. Gilbert asserted he had repaid Lingle and the Rathbun report stated that there was no reason to doubt the Gilbert explanation.

Stock Profit Wiped Out.

In his stock market adventures, Lingle at one time, at the crest of the bull market in September, 1929, could have sold his holdings and realized what for him, an untutored amateur who couldn't even understand a financial statement, would have been an amazing profit. He could have cashed in at that time and won $85,000.

But he hung on, with many another optimist, until the market crash carried him back to earth, and beneath it, with the $85,000 profit wiped out and a loss of $75,000 besides. The Rathbun report showed that he had lost $52,099 and at the time of his death had owed his brokers an additional $22,000.

Mr. Rathbun reported that Lingle had an interest in five brokerage accounts. The first was a joint account with Jackson Bros., Boesel & Co., in which Lingle and Commissioner Russell were found to be equally interested.

The two friends, in 1928, had put up $10,000 apiece to start the account. They bought Simmons, National Cash Register, and Sinclair Oil stocks, 800 shares in all, and on the peak date, Sept. 20, 1929, they could have sold out at a profit of $24,000. But Russell and Lingle stayed with the sinking ship and at the time of the inquiry the stocks still were held in the account and it showed a loss of $50,850 and a deficit of $30,748.

Other Brokerage Accounts.

Much the same story was told in Lingle's other accounts. In his account at Lamson Bros. & Co., Lingle could have cashed in for $74,132, but he wanted more and after his death this account showed a deficit of $10,116.

Lingle lost $4,245 with Sincere & Co., and his account at Stein, Alstrin & Co. showed a loss of $5,237. At the latter house an account was listed under the name of "Daniels Sisters," and this account had been guaranteed by Lingle.

The reporter, it developed, had become acquainted with two young women, sisters, named Daniels, one of whom operated a millinery shop at the Stevens hotel while Lingle lived there. They were friendly, and visited back and forth, riding about in Lingle's car.

Lingle had never been known to associate with women intimately. He was never a "ladies' man," and it was stated that his association with the Daniels sisters was entirely a friendly one.

The Rathbun report stated that Lingle had made deposits in the Daniels' account, and that this account showed a net loss of $8,682.

Analysis Is Presented.

An analysis of the accounts showed that in the period from Nov. 26, 1928, when Lingle and Russell opened the Jackson Bros., Boesel & Co. account, until April 2, 1930, when Lingle made his last deposit in the Stein, Alstrin account, he had deposited a total of $67,500 in all of them.

This amount, however, did not represent gross additional income of Lingle. The records showed that some of the funds deposited by Lingle in his stock accounts had come from his bank account, and vice versa.

In one case, Lingle on April 15, 1929, drew $4,000 in currency from his bank, and on the same day he deposited $5,000 in the Lamson Brothers account. It might have been that the $4,000 was used in the stock deposit.

On Dec. 21, 1929, Lingle deposited a check on his bank, for $1,500, in the Stein, Alstrin account. The transfer of funds from his Sincere & Co. stock account to his bank was on Nov. 20, 1929, in the sum of $5,000.

The total of these three items is $10,500, and deducting this sum from the total deposits of $67,500 leaves a balance of $57,000, which appears to be additional income of Lingle's, above his bank deposits, in the two and a half year period.

Mr. Rathbun reported that Lingle had paid $10,000 in cash on the Long Beach summer home, in addition to the $6,000 in checks.

INCOME IS LARGE

While the net income of Lingle was impossible to determine, it was large, huge, in fact, for a man of Lingle's calling. Where had he got it? Quoting the language of Mr. Rathbun's report:

"As to the source of the moneys put up by Lingle in these stock accounts and deposited by him in his bank account, we have thus far been able to come to no conclusion except as indicated in the accounts. There have been many rumors as to where he obtained these moneys, but no man has ever been successfully prosecuted on a rumor alone, nor has the solution of any crime been reached by hastily giving credit to rumors.

"Among the rumors are many to the effect that persons, some of them in public life, have loaned Lingle at different times large sums of money. Since they are no more than rumors, we will only mention at this time loans that we have been able to obtain evidence to substantiate, or have obtained a denial from the party involved.

Loan from Alderman.

"Ald. Berthold A. Cronson admits that on Aug. 20, 1929, he loaned Lingle $5,000 and no part of it has been repaid. He states that the loan was a pure friendship proposition and was advanced upon the plea of Lingle that he wanted to use it in connection with his mother's treatment in Sacred Heart sanitarium in Milwaukee.

"Maj. Carlos Ames [then chairman of the city civil service commission and a candidate for sheriff of Cook county] admits that in the latter part of January, 1930, he loaned Lingle $2,500 and that in the month of May Lingle paid him back $1,000 and still owes $1,500.

"Maj. Ames states that this loan was a purely personal affair and that Lingle's excuse for borrowing from him was that he was being pressed because of market losses and needed it to cover transactions upon the market.

"Samuel Ettelson [corporation counsel of Chicago] could not be reached personally, but persons apparently authorized to speak for him have denied to us that he ever loaned Lingle any money at any time.

Gambler Denies Loan.

"Sam Hare, owner of the Delis [reputed as a gambler], was reported to have loaned Lingle as much as $20,000, but denies that he ever loaned Lingle any money at any time.

"In addition to the above it has been rumored that Lingle was interested in a paper called the Scratch Sheet, gotten out in connection with horse racing. One James Flanagan claims that he is the owner of the Scratch Sheet and that Lingle has never had any interest in it.

"Flanagan insists that he never had any transactions with Lingle except that he loaned him $3,000, which has never been paid back."

Mr. Rathbun told of locating two safe deposit boxes rented by Lingle, one of which was empty and the other containing only some old papers of no value.

As has been said before, Lingle lived in an atmosphere of wealth, and of wealth easily gained. It is argued that he may have hoped to win himself a fortune, and then go about with his grandiose, insolent air paying his creditors off one at a time from a choking roll.

In support of this theory Lingle's friendship with Arthur Cutten, the millionaire stock operator, has been cited. Mr. Cutten has denied that he ever gave Lingle any information on the probable rise or fall of stocks. But the fact remained that Lingle did know Mr. Cutten and that the latter, in a sense, was under some obligation to the reporter.

Eight years before the time of Lingle's death a gang of nine robbers had invaded the Cutten country home at Downers Grove. They ransacked the house, tied up Mrs. Cutten and the servants, and then shoved Mr. Cutten in a basement vault and left him to smother to death. Had not one of the servants loosed his bonds and freed the broker Mr. Cutten would have died.

Lingle Is Helpful.

Cutten launched a search for the robbers, vowing that he would never rest until they were all caught and punished, and he financed the search himself.

Jake Lingle, through his knowledge of police methods and his friendship with Commissioner Russell, aided Mr. Cutten in the last years of the search. It was Lingle who prodded the detectives on, who selected those who should work on the case, and who followed every angle of it. Just two months before Lingle was killed the eighth of the nine bandits was captured. The ninth was caught in September, 1930.

Lingle told his office associates, when discussing Mr. Cutten, that the latter was giving him "tips" on the market.

Ask Reason for Favors.

With all the rumors and facts concerning Lingle's borrowings from politicians and others inquiries naturally cropped up as to why these men had favored Lingle so. What did they expect to get from him?

There is no better time than now to state that, so far as any evidence ever received by Roche or Rathbun would show, there was never any proof obtained that Lingle had ever enjoyed a percentage, or "cut," in any gambling house operated in Chicago or elsewhere. Neither was any evidence obtained that Lingle had any share or interest in any beer or booze racket, or any speakeasy or vice dive.

The Lingle investigators did receive evidence that a gang reporter on another newspaper in Chicago had been blackmailing gangsters and keepers of cheating booze and gambling dives, and there was evidence to show the shakedown activities of the murdered Julius Rosenheim, paid informant of the Chicago Daily News.

So far as Capt. William F. Russell is concerned, and this should be stated in justice to his record, there has never been any evidence received that he granted immunity to any lawless enterprise as a favor to Lingle, or for any other reason. When Russell heard the rumors that Lingle had received money from gangsters, he said:

"I cannot understand it. Why, Lingle was always urging me to organize squads to go out and kill these men as the simplest way of ridding the community of them. He urged me to raid their haunts, never to protect them.

"I tell you there was no open gambling in Chicago while I was commissioner. The stories that Lingle was the 'unofficial chief of police,' and that he collected money on that basis, are damnable lies."

Facts Support Denial.

It would seem plain that if Lingle had really been the "unofficial chief of police" of Chicago, and had wielded such a power for illicit gain, he would never have been forced to borrow from Bert Cronson and Carlos Ames. The riches that would have been his, if he had a partner's share in the profits of gambling alone would have been many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Some point has been made of the fact that on the day of his death, $1,400 in currency was found in his pockets, along with a bank deposit slip showing he had deposited $1,200 in cash the same morning.

From three reliable witnesses it has been learned that on Saturday, two days before he was murdered, Lingle had placed a bet of $100 on a horse running at Washington Park and that the horse won, giving Lingle a profit of $1,650 on that one race.

[Another installment of "The Solution of the Lingle Murder" will appear tomorrow.

FOLEY, OPERATOR OF FAKE RACE LOTTERY, PAYS A FINE OF $250

Matt Foley, who, while an assistant circulation manager of the Herald and Examiner, operated a fake lottery on the Kentucky Derby, paid a fine of $250 yesterday in Judge Joseph Sabath's Criminal court. Judge Sabath had reduced the fine from $500. It was proven by the state that Foley, while in the employ of the Herald and Examiner, distributed lottery tickets and refused to pay the winners.

Attorney Benedict Short, representing Foley, told the judge that his client has been out of work since the exposé of the fake lottery and that he is almost destitute. He said that Foley had raised half the amount of the fine and if given time might be able to get the remainder.

"I wanted to impress on this defendant the seriousness of his offense," said Judge Sabath. "I think this has been done and I will reduce the fine."

QUIZ 3D VICTIM OF LOOP SHOOTING AS SECOND DIES

Clerk Shot in Store by Robber Succumbs.

With a second death occurring yesterday as a result of the pistol battle precipitated on Tuesday afternoon by an amateur robber on the elevated platform at Randolph street and Wabash avenue and in the adjacent department store of Marshall Field & Co., the police centered their investigation of the case on the part played by a third man in the fray, the only survivor among the three wounded.

The additional fatality came at noon yesterday when Paul Townsend, 19 year old bill adjuster for Field's, died in the Alexian Brothers hospital of an abdominal wound. He was shot by the robber, Fred Smith, 47 years old, an unemployed machinist, as he tried to stop the gunman's flight through the store. The earlier victim was Casimir Krazinski, 37 year old florist, who died in St. Mary's hospital five hours after the shooting.

Mystery Man in Battle.

The single wounded survivor, James Dewey, 35 years old, lying in the Bridewell hospital with a severe abdominal wound, had not satisfied the police last night as to his motive for opening fire on Smith an instant after the latter had held up John Gallagher, a loop restaurant manager, and snatched from him a bag containing $1,067. Nor had Dewey explained where he procured his gun.

Dewey originally told the police he had wrested the gun from Smith's hand, but, when confronted with the fact that Smith retained that weapon until his capture in Field's basement, amended his story to say that a bystander had handed him the pistol. In his confession Smith denied that Dewey was his accomplice.

Delay Inquest on Deaths.

Chief Norton was planning to take Smith to Townsend's bedside for identification when word came of the youth's death. An inquest in the case, opened yesterday morning, was continued until April 21 to allow time for the recovery of Dewey, whose testimony is regarded as essential to the verdict.

ROB CIGAR STORE MANAGER.

William Finn, 3834 Sheffield avenue, manager of a United Cigar store at 948 North Clark street, was robbed of $95 last night by two gunmen.

AMELIA EARHART MAKES AUTOGYRO ALTITUDE RECORD

Takes Flying Windmill Up 19,000 Feet.

Willow Grove, Pa., April 8.—(AP)—Amelia Earhart today added another outstanding performance to her brilliant flying record by taking an autogyro to a higher altitude than has ever been done before.

She made two flights and it was announced she had reached an unofficial height of 19,000 feet or more on the second attempt. On the first flight it was announced she attained approximately 18,500 feet.

She carried up a sealed barograph which will be sent to Washington for official examination.

Husband Watches Flight.

Miss Earhart made the flights in the presence of her husband, George Palmer Putnam of New York, and a crowd of about 1,000 persons at the Pitcairn field, north of this place.

She said she enjoyed both trips into the blue and hoped to be able to make another try later for higher altitude than she attained today.

Miss Earhart went up on the second flight shortly after 4 o'clock after two hours' rest. Coming down from the first flight she had luncheon with her husband and Harold F. Pitcairn, American developer of the autogyro. The she lay down in the Pitcairn office for a rest and when the mechanics had the "windmill" craft ready for her again she went aloft.

Hidden Behind Clouds.

In about fifteen minutes she was hidden behind light clouds and was not seen again until she suddenly came into view about an hour and a half later. She circled the field several times and made a light landing, coming down almost vertically. She was assisted from the ship by her husband and congratulated by him and others in the group.

"I hated to come down," she said. "The weather up there was delightful and quite sunny. I did not feel very cold."

When she had reached the ceiling she tried hard to send the ship higher, she said, but it would go no farther. She had plenty of fuel, she said, and the motor was working fine.

On the first flight, which she started at noon and which lasted one hour and fifty minutes, Miss Earhart came down after she ran out of gas. Despite her two high flights she appeared only a little tired after it was all over.

The flights were made in a standard Pitcairn autogyro with a 300 horse power Wright whirlwind motor. On the first flight 33 gallons of gas were in the tank, but on the second trip the supply was increased to 42 gallons.

HOMICIDE RATE LEAPS FROM 9.9 TO 10.9 IN YEAR

Death Penalty Held to Be Not a Deterrent.

New York, April 8.—(AP)—Frederick L. Hoffman, LL. D., today made public a survey for the spectator in which he set forth that the death penalty had proved futile as a deterrent to murder. His figures, culled from records of many states, showed Memphis, Tenn., held the highest homicide rate in the entire country, 58.8 per 100,000 of population.

New York was listed fourth among the five largest American cities, with a homicide rate of 7.1 per 100,000; in this group Chicago in 1930 had 14.4. Detroit was next with 13.3; Philadelphia, 7.7; New York next and Los Angeles last in the section, with 6.6.

"In the face of more executions," the report stated, "The total of killings rises steadily."

The homicide rate for the country leaped from 9.9 in 1919 to 10.9 last year. It has been higher only twice since 1900—in 1924 it was 11.2, and in 1925 it was 11.3.

Executions increased in thirty-six states from 96 in 1929 to 143 in 1930. In that time the homicide rate in 151 American cities rose from 17.9 to 19.4.

"I have frequently expressed the opinion," said Dr. Hoffman, "That the death penalty is not a deterrent, for as a matter of fact the homicide death rate is distinctly lower in states which do not enforce the penalty than in those where the death penalty is more or less rigorously carried out."

He said the 1929 figure for England and Wales was 0.5, and for the partly civilized Kingdom of Siam was 9.5, adding that Germany, in 1927, had a rate of only 2.0.

RUSSIAN REDS STEAL 9 MILLIONS IN GOLD, FORMER BANKER SAYS

New York, April 8.—(AP)—Testimony that the Bolsheviki seized $9,500,000 worth of gold ingots which the Bank of France had on deposit in a Russian bank at the time of the revolution was given today by Kondrate De Sahmen, former imperial Russian official. His testimony in deposition form, was presented in the federal court trial of the French bank's suit against the Chase National bank and the Equitable Trust company.

De Sahmen was director of the chancery of credit from December, 1916, until the revolution the following November. His deposition was introduced by the Bank of France as the first link in a chain of evidence it has promised to produce to trace its gold to the American banks.

The French central bank seeks $5,000,000 cash from the merged banks as damages for the loss of the gold. It contends that though it might not own the ingots actually sent here for sale to the United States government, and later reshipped to Russia, it is entitled to collect an equal sum under the common law provisions to the effect that such restitution should be made when goods are commingled.

Mother Identifies Girl Who Killed Self with Gas

A 19 year old girl, who had registered in a rooming house at 1627 West Washington boulevard as Nina Morgan, committed suicide by inhaling gas on Tuesday. Yesterday Mrs. Evelyn Hoggat of Elwood, Ind., appealed to the Chicago police for assistance in finding her daughter, Anna Hoggat, who had left home some weeks ago to come to Chicago. Mrs. Hoggat was taken to the county morgue and identified the supposed Nina Morgan as her daughter. The suicide, in the opinion of a coroner's jury, was due to temporary insanity. Mrs. Hoggat indicated that her daughter had been disappointed in a love affair.

GEORGE N. NEISE OBSERVES 64TH YEAR AS BANKER

George N. Neise, vice president of the Foreman-State National bank, yesterday celebrated his sixty-fourth anniversary as an employé of the bank. The oldest banker in Chicago in point of service observed the day by spending it at his desk. He is 73 years old.

In 1867, at the age of 14, Mr. Neise went to work for Gerhard Foreman. That was five years after Mr. Foreman founded his bank. Neise started as an office boy. Four years later, when the great Chicago fire razed the bank building, Neise stationed himself at the vault in the smoldering structure and stood guard for five days and nights. His meals were brought to him by Mrs. Foreman.

In 1927, when the bank became a state institution, Mr. Neise was elected to the board of directors. He has been a member since that time. Twice a year, in May and September, Mr. Neise leaves for fishing, his hobby. He announced yesterday that he intends to hold down his desk for many years.

Farmer Cuts His Throat, Leaps from Tree; Lives

Quincy, Ill., April 8.—(AP)—After cutting his throat in a futile attempt to end his life, Steve Metlek, 35, Illinois river bottoms farmer near Versailles, climbed 35 feet up a tree and then jumped down when Sheriff Johnson of Brown county started up after him. He injured his back and left leg in the jump. He was brought to the hospital here.

Crippled War Vet Kills Himself in Hospital Bed

Washington, D. C., April 8.—(AP)—A world war veteran, tired of being a hopeless cripple, today ended his life as he lay in his bed at Mount Alto, a veterans' hospital. He was Joseph B. Hoffer, 30, of San Angelo, Tex., and had been paralyzed from the waist down. He shot himself with a mail order pistol.

RISE AND FALL OF THOMPSON'S MACHINE TOLD

Rooted in Lorimerism; Years of Scandal.

taught them to organize in "blocks of five"—politics passed under bossism and ring rule. The machine grew in the odor of scandal, while with sanctimony it pulled a pious face and ranted about the "trust press."

It was out of this morass that Thompsonism was later to spring. Thompson's main contribution to the ring technic was his clowning. "greatest showman since Barnum." His style was to laugh it off, fade a scandal with a circus stunt.

Rise in Lorimer Ranks.

Young Republicans came in through the Lorimer gate. Ex-Senator Deneen and Roy O. West, national committeeman, originally broke into politics as Lorimer men, but early broke away. Frank O. Lowden was backed by Lorimer for governor in 1904, and in 1909 Mr. Lowden, on a trip to Europe left Lorimer, then senator, his proxy as national committeeman. For years Lowden and Thompson have been intense enemies.

The deadlock convention of 1904 that nominated Deneen for governor, gave a definite line of cleavage between the Lorimer men and the Deneen-Busse-Pease-Reddick alignment. For years the chief asset of the Deneen camp was its anti-Lorimer position. In more recent years it dropped its silk hat and had hookups with Small and Lundin.

The close personal and social relationships between Republicans and Democrats on the west side were largely responsible for the bi-partisan alliance at Springfield in 1909, which elected E. D. Shurtleff speaker and Lorimer senator. The scandal of the jackpot and the "bathroom boys" soon broke.

Thompson Leads Procession.

The senate investigated. Lorimer triumphed temporarily in 1911. Thompson led the procession which escorted him to his west side home. Len Small, then federal subtreasurer in Chicago, was among the speakers.

The Lorimer Lincoln league was formed. Thompson was chairman of the executive committee. Lundin was its real head. All the Lorimer men joined up and sought to use the word "Lincoln" as a label for the machine. Later, in 1915, the list of job holders at the city hall read like the roster of the league.

The United States senate made a second investigation and on July 14, 1912, retired Lorimer to private life on the ground that "corrupt methods and practices" were employed in his election.

Lorimer, returning to Chicago, was welcomed at Orchestra hall, Thompson presiding. A Republican club of Illinois was formed, the Lincoln league under a new name. Dr. Robertson was president, Lundin secretary, Thompson treasurer.

Lorimerism had collapsed, leaving a horde of hungry politicians, ward heelers, and hangers on. Lundin, a Lorimer man and ex-congressman, who had lived at the Y. M. C. A. in Washington with Lorimer, had his eye on Thompson to restore the old crowd to power.

THOMPSON A CANDIDATE

In the summer of 1914 Lundin trotted Thompson out for mayor. The pledge card dodge was adopted. Gene Pike and James A. Pugh, a wealthy sportsman, helped in the work. In the December caucus of the Republican county committee A. W. Miller, Chris Mamer, Morris Eller, and George Hitzman—all Lorimerites—stood for Thompson. At the Auditorium theater on Dec. 23 Lundin pulled a party with 140,000 pledge cards on the Christmas tree, and Thompson's candidacy was announced.

Thompson won in the primaries, beating Judge Harry Olson, the Deneen entry, by 2,508 votes. The Deneen men thought Olson had a push-over. The colored vote put Thompson across. The old 2d ward alone gave him a plurality of 6,763. Thompson had played the colored vote before, back in 1900 he was elected alderman of the old 2d ward over Charles F. Gunther, the candy man, through the colored voters in the south end. Tuesday three of the five wards Thompson carried were the Negro strongholds—they stuck to the end.

In the election Thompson beat Robert M. Sweitzer by 147,477, the largest plurality in any American city to that time. All the Republican leaders, including Deneen and West, supported the ticket. Four reasons were advanced for the big plurality; the full dinner pail issue, the town being filled with unemployed after the passage of the Wilson tariff, knifing by Harrison Democrats in reprisal for the defeat of Mayor Harrison at the primaries, a backwash of the nationality issue which the Democrats overplayed, and interjection of the religious issue by the Thompson camp.

Ever since Thompsonism has raised the racial and religious issues in its campaigning.

Soon after Thompson's triumphal entry in his cowpuncher bonnet into the hall, in 1915, the scandals began to break. Lundin, an interesting figure with his amber goggles to match his mop of hair, his low cut black wes'kit with the jet buttons, his Japanese pink mink fur coat, was established at the Sherman hotel—city hall No. 2—with his card index of jobs. He became prime minister and O. K. man.

Lundin Does All Work.

Deneen and other high moguls were kept warming chairs by the "poor Swede." Pike, Pugh, and Lundin were made the patronage committee, but Lundin did all the work. At the old Union hotel during the campaigning Pugh furnished the energy and the finances, Lundin the strategy. To wind up the campaign a note for $50,000 was signed by Pugh, Pike, and Charles A. McCulloch. But after election Thompson fell on Lundin's neck as the wizard who had produced the 147,477 plurality.

In four summer months 9,163 sixty day appointees were given jobs. The whole service of Chicago did not exceed 20,000 positions. Civil service was murdered, and in the first year 30,675 temporary appointments were made.

The old Lorimer Lincoln league crowd had got back to the feed troughs. A short roster shows Thompson's close associates dropped off as the machine grew in scandals.

Ettelson Gets in Office.

Richard S. Folsom, a Democrat of standing, was made corporation counsel through Pugh's efforts. He resigned when Lundin sought to make a patronage filling station out of the office. His place was taken by Samuel A. Ettelson, originally a Deneen man who had voted for Lorimer in the legislature, a utilities lawyer.

Mr. Pike, a leaguer, became controller. He resigned four years later. This time he left town; he did not want Thompson to run.

William L. Morehouse was made commissioner of public works. He quit, said he could not stand the pressure of ring rule under the Lundin card index.

Dr. John Dill Robertson, a leaguer, was made commissioner of health. In later years he broke with Thompson and has been an ardent opponent.

Pugh quit early. The fiery Welshman, now dead, said he "couldn't stomach spoils politics under Lundin," and in 1919 he supported Merriam.

George F. Harding was one of the mayor's closest associates, a friend through thick and thin. He was controller from 1919 to 1923 before he became county treasurer. He broke with Thompson last year over the double-crossing of Howard P. Savage for county treasurer and because the mayor had told him he would not run again and the way would be open for Harding. Harding backed Lyle in the primaries last February.

Gen. John V. Clinnin, close friend of the mayor, quit him dead on his war attitude, and has since been against him.

Charles C. Fitzmorris was the mayor's secretary, then chief of police. One reason Lundin broke with Thompson was said to be because Fitzmorris would not take his orders transferring policemen. In 1927 Fitzmorris became controller, but resigned from the cabinet after refusing to approve an illegal subway appropriation of $647,000 to Michael J. Faherty.

George K. Schmidt resigned as controller and ran against Thompson.

EYE ON WHITE HOUSE

Going back to Thompson's first term in the city hall, the inner circle soon in 1915 became drunk with power. It sought to fabricate a state and city machine, and cast its eyes even on the White House. Thompson and Lundin made a trip to Canada with a satchel of pledge cards neatly copied from the telephone book by the back-room boys and sought to kidnap Mr. Lowden, a candidate for governor, then at his fishing camp.

Lowden was awake and Bill and Fred returned from the Thousand Islands foiled—for the time being. A lucky strike at the Peoria convention, Thompson holding only three state committeemen, enabled him later to be elected national committeeman over West.

The 1916 primaries were a fight to gain organization control after the Bull Moose split, and the main aspect was the recrudescence of the old struggle of fifteen years' standing between the old Lorimer machine remnants, the Deneen group and the Brundage neutrals.

Closes Saloons on Sunday.

On Oct. 4, 1915, Thompson, on advice from Dr. Robertson and Lundin, issued his famous order closing the saloons on Sunday. They figured it would get dry votes downstate in the battle for party control and wipe out the load of Lorimerism. Besides, indictments were threatened. At that time A. J. Cermak [who beat him for mayor last Tuesday], produced a pledge Thompson had given the United societies against Sunday closing. The mayor left for California that night and at Cheyenne, Wyo., charged the Deneen faction had sought to bring about his indictment—"Deneen made me do it." The yes men on the train started a boom for Thompson for President. The national advertising on Sunday closing, they said, would put him in the White House. It blew up.

Probe Pay Roll Scandals.

Meanwhile Ald. Charles Merriam and others were looking into pay roll scandals. Early in 1916 Ald. W. E. Rodriguez, a Socialist, charged that Mrs. Page Waller Eaton, superintendent of social surveys, had been forced to pay one-third of her salary to Mrs. Louise Osborne Rowe, superintendent of public welfare.

Chief of Police Charles C. Healey was tried on charges of alleged grafting in the badlands, and in January, 1918, a jury held him not guilty.

Oscar De Priest, now congressman, the mayors' floor leader, was charged with conspiracy to protect gambling. In the trial Henry ("Teenan") Jones, Negro gambler, testified he had paid De Priest $2,800. The defense was that the money was for campaign purposes. A cancelled check was displayed, signed by De Priest and made out to Harry B. Miller, city prosecutor, now a judge. Miller denied it was his signature. Corporation Counsel Ettelson testified he had seen De Priest give Miller a check. The jury on June 8, 1917, acquitted De Priest.

RE-ELECTED IN 1919

In 1918 Thompson made a bid for the United States senatorship, but was defeated by the late Medill McCormick. The next year he was re-elected mayor, but by only 21,622. Maclay Hoyne as an independent carved into the Republican residential wards, and it was the small vest pocket west side Democratic wards and the Negro area that elected Thompson.

The war period had brought Thompson into strong criticism for his attitude; he was at sword's points with Lowden, the war governor, and there was turmoil. The race riots in 1919 found the mayor at loggerheads with the governor. State's Attorney Hoyne charged the race riots were the outcome of city hall politics.

Make Strike in State Politics.

Then came the great strike in state politics. In April, 1920, the Thompson forces elected 34 out of 35 ward committeemen. They backed Small for governor, who had been the Lorimerite candidate in 1912. In the September primaries Small defeated John G. Oglesby, the Lowden choice, by only 7,902 plurality. Oglesby carried downstate by 86,000 and Small got Cook by 94,000.

It was charged the nomination was stolen, but the time was too short for a contest and recount. In the Harding landslide Small became governor. On the same ticket the Thompson crowd elected Robert E. Crowe state's attorney and Frank Righeimer for county judge.

The machine now acquired its hyphen—Small-Thompsonism. It was in the height of its power. It had the hall and the statehouse, the board of education and the library board. It had spread into the drainage board, it controled the county court and the election machinery, it had elected the state's attorney, and through the new governor it had control of the west parks and Lincoln park. It grabbed the legislature.

Control Over Government.

Thus it had full swing as a city-county-state ring, in two branches of government, the executive and legislative. It was the most powerful machine the state had known.

Drunk with its successes, it cast a bleary eye at the judiciary. For one thing, the circuit judges name the commissioners of the south parks, the richest of the three systems. Also the hall wanted a machine made bench. It picked a ticket of its own in June, 1921, leaving off many good and tried judges, and projected a raid on the courts.

Vociferous protest was raised. Led by the bar association, civic clubs, the Democrats, and the Deneen and Brundage Republicans, a coalition nonpartisan ticket was run. It snowed the city hall raiders under by more than 100,000. Disruption and desertions began; the payrollers started to divide into hostile camps. Lundin and anti-Lundin.

Gov. Small Is Tried.

The growing scandals at the city hall were augmented by a state scandal. Gov. Small was tried at Waukegan on charges brought by Attorney General Brundage of conspiracy to pocket a million dollars or so of interest money while state treasurer. His acquittal was followed by charges of jury fixing. Several of the jurors afterwards landed state jobs.

As a sequel in 1927 Small paid over $...0,000, by a stipuation accepted by Attorney General Carlstrom, in settlement of the civil case against Small and others. The Supreme court had figured items totaling $1,025,434, with a credit of $222,440 of interest paid into the treasury, making a residue of $802,992 to be settled.

City Hall Scandal Increases.

Meanwhile, back in Thompson's second term, scandal was mounting at the city hall. The school board was in turmoil with charges the schools were being exploited. Crowe kicked over the traces, broke with the hall and in 1922 raided the board rooms. There were indictments on charges of looting school property. William A. Bither, board attorney, and nine trustees were given contempt sentences by Judge Kickham Scanlan as a result of the ousting of Supt. Charles E. Chadsey.

Small issued pardons but most of them served their two to five days' sentence in county jail.

The expert fees scandals came out. THE TRIBUNE in 1921 filed its case charging a conspiracy to defraud the city out of $1,732,379, the amount paid in little more than a year to three real estate experts.

By 1923 the machine was in such odor with the public that Thompson quit the race for reëlection. Lundin advised him he could not win. The mayor pulled out and went on his expedition in search of tree climbing fish. He came back from Honolulu to testify for Lundin, on trial in the school board conspiracy case. Lundin was acquitted.

Quarrels soon ensued over park patronage that led to a definite split between Lundin and Thompson. Small stuck to Lundin and Thompson was out in the cold. William E. Dever, Democrat, was mayor.

The Campaign of 1926.

Along came the county election of 1926. By this time Cook county politics was a crazy quilt. Politicians had flipflopped and leaped from camp to camp until they had to be paged almost daily to find where they stood. Harmony combinations fell through. Brundage declined to go along with a Crowe-Barrett-Galpin lineup. So, to represent the north side, Thompson was brought in, although the Crowe-Barrett-Galpin crowd said they had no liking for him. Later Brundage joined up for the campaign—he had been the first to drop Thompson in 1915 after the ring began its machinations.

Thompson in this county campaign started after the world court. He brought in Senators William E. Borah of Idaho and Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota and held rallies. He put on his rat show at the Cort theater, with two caged rats, one which he called "Fred," the other "Doc" after his two former bosom friends, Lundin and Robertson.

HE STAGES COMEBACK

This publicity brought him back into the public eye after nearly four years of retirement, and he lost no time in stepping out as a candidate for mayor. He yelled "America First" and shouted his desire to "crack King George on the snoot," a phrase quoted all over the world.

At headquarters, B. W. Snow was on the board of strategy, his specialty being to compose campaign statements. Crowe lined up committeemen and cracked out snappy retorts to the Dever camp. Homer Galpin, county chairman, attended to the finances and the real organization. He was of old Lorimer affiliations, but had helped manage some of the anti-Thompson campaigns. Lundin having been thrown overboard, Thompson looked a trifle different to some of the old crowd, who hated the "poor Swede."

Thompson won in the primaries and in the election. He was washed in on a wave of demagoguery that led observers to say he was in a class by himself in this line of endeavor. Deneen and Brundage made speeches for him. At a vociferous celebration at Rainbo Gardens, Snow, Roy West, Crowe, Barrett, Harding, and others dwelt on harmony. "We have brought peace and happiness to the party," was the way Mr. Barrett put it.

Last Tuesday saw the leaders who celebrated in 1927 holding aloof from Thompson or working to crush him out. Galpin was with him, most of the others had dropped out.

In 1923, a year after Thompson's comeback as mayor, occurred the popular uprising which resulted in the election of John A. Swanson as state's attorney. Racketeering, bombing, gang killings, machine gun murders, and affiliation of gangland and government, formed the issue on which the voters smashed the Thompson-Small-Crowe machine. It was snowed under in both primaries and in the election. Small, who had dropped Lundin and made a deal with Thompson, was beaten by Emmerson in the primaries by 440,000.

Loesch Begins Inquiries.

Frank J. Loesch began his investigations as first assistant state's attorney. The grand jury got busy. Indictments came pouring out. Galpin, county chairman, left town when Loesch said he would subpoena him to testify as to the contributions to the Thompson campaign fund in the 1927 mayoralty contest.

Loesch charged that he wanted to discover "how much did Capone contribute." During the recent primaries Mr. Loesch declared that Capone contributed a total of $260,000 to the primary and election campaigns of 1927 to defeat Dever and elect Thompson. Galpin kept in exile until he was recently installed by Thompson to manage his campaign. Galpin's friends aver his idea in dodging the grand jury was "to protect Thompson."

The path between the hall and the grand jury has been kept well trodden during the last four years. The office of Serritella is now under investigation by the state's attorney.

Eller Henchmen Convicted.

In the "bloody 20th" Loesch made an inquiry into election frauds, terrorism and the politico-crime alliance. It was prompted by the bombings and the murder of Octavius Granady, a Negro candidate for committeeman. Morris Eller, city collector, and his son, Judge Emmanuel Eller, were acquitted of election frauds. Fifteen Eller henchmen were found guilty.

The civil service commission was sued seven times on charges of ignoring the law. State's Attorney Swanson charged 40 per cent of the hall employés are 60 day appointees. Michael J. Faherty of the board of local improvements has been named defendant in five suits charging defrauding of taxpayers on paving contracts involving $2,000,000. Three cases are pending. Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe has been under fire on charges of pay roll padding.

On water meters, bridges, paving and river straightening, there has been a series of scandals.

Paschen Under Indictment.

Building Commissioner Paschen is under federal indictment on charges of evading income tax payments. One of his acts was to issue the permit for the 60 story Cuneo tower which was cancelled after property owners took it to the State Supreme court. Almost every major department at the hall has been involved in charges of irregularities.

William McAndrew, who was ousted as superintendent of schools as an outcome of Thompson's "America First" campaign, was vindicated by the courts.

Last October the Supreme court decided, in the $1,722,000 expert fee case, that Mayor Thompson and County Treasurer Harding were not guilty of conspiracy to cheat the city. While freeing Thompson from liability, the court said the fees were grossly excessive.

Lyle Out as His Foe.

Thompson's close friends counseled him against running for reëlection. When he announced his candidacy only a few of his old leaders rallied to him. Judge John Lyle came out in a campaign to smash gangdom.

Lyle got the support of Harding, Snow, Krutckoff, Barrett, Brekke, Brundage, Wallace, Hoellen, Nettelhorst, and others. He was defeated in the February primaries, Thompson winning through the vest pocket wards. During the campaign, a bill of complaint was filed in the Superior court charging Thompson with failing to disburse $103,000 of the $139,000 contributed in 1927 for the relief of Mississippi valley flood sufferers. The case is still pending.

Election day last Tuesday told the story, forty-five wards going to Cermak and five to Thompson. Barrett was against Thompson, Harding, Snow, Brundage, and others fought him. Crowe was cold. Deneen and West and other leaders for once forgot their old rule of "party regularity." Lundin and Robertson fought him.

Of the 1915 big shot coterie about all left around Thompson were Ettelson, Doc Reid, Faherty and Eller.

WED TO BROKER

MRS. THEODORE SPECTOR (Olive Borden).

New York, April 8.—(AP)—Olive Borden, motion picture actress, and Theodore Spector of Paterson, stock broker, were married at Harrison, N. Y., March 22, by Justice of the Peace Winfred C. Allen, it was revealed by Town Clerk William A. Wilding, who issued the license. Miss Borden said she is 24 years old and gave her address as Norfolk, Va. Spector said he was 31.

FATE OF THOMPSON'S PROSPERITY DRIVE IS PUZZLE TO HIS AIDS

The fate of Mayor Thompson's "million dollar" coupon scheme, which was scheduled to run until July 1 of this year with big cash awards, was one of the perplexing matters to which associates of Thompson were giving their attention yesterday. Some of these associates derived satisfaction from the knowledge that they will have some work in winding up its affairs.

"The political campaign had nothing to do with the prosperity drive," announced Louis E. Golan, its manager. "Mr. Thompson will make a statement in connection with it as soon as he returns from the trip down the Mississippi on which he will depart today."

Meanwhile city employés were removing the coupon equipment from three offices in the city hall. Their new location was not announced.

FAMOUS U. S. PLANE HERE WITH HERO ON MERCY ERRAND

The famous army airplane Question Mark, rushing to the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., on an errand of mercy, dropped in at the Chicago airport last night with Capt. Edward R. Wren, world war hero, as its passenger.

Capt. Wren, a national executive of the American Legion who was decorated many times during his service with the Rainbow division, is suffering from a stomach ailment. His condition became so serious yesterday that his father, Dr. E. B. Wren, decided that he must go immediately to Rochester and appealed to the army air corps.

The Question Mark, tri-motored Fokker, famous for the first refueling endurance flight in California, was sent from Montgomery, Ala., to the Wren home at Talledega, Ala., where the patient and his father were taken aboard and the flight to Rochester was started. With Lieut. John W. Pearsons as pilot, the plane landed at Louisville to refuel and continued on to Chicago, landing here at 4:45 p. m. yesterday.

Capt. Wren was removed to the Greenview hotel, 6234 Greenview avenue. Mechanics worked over the motors at the Illinois National Guard hangar last night.

WETS ORGANIZE TO URGE SIGNING OF REPEAL BILL

Legislators Ask Hearing from Governor.

Aroused by reports from Springfield that dry legislators are pressing Gov. Emmerson to veto the O'Grady-McDermott prohibition law repealer, a group of liberal assemblymen, Republicans and Democrats, organized yesterday to appear before the governor tomorrow to urge him to sign the bill.

Senator Victor P. Michel [Rep., Peoria] is a leader in the movement, as is Representative Thomas J. O'Grady [Dem., Chicago], author of the repeal bill. O'Grady sent this wire to the governor last night:

"Will you be kind enough to set an hour on Friday so as to give liberal members of the house and senate the chance to explain their views to you on why house bill No. 1 (as the repealer is technically known) should not be vetoed? We have already read press reports that dry members have appeared giving reasons why it should be vetoed. We would appreciate your naming a time and place for such a hearing."

Sees Danger to Party.

Senator Michel expressed the opinion that "unless the Republican party puts out from under the control of the Anti-Saloon league it will cease to be the major party."

"Yesterday, for the first time in twenty-five years, Peoria elected a Democratic mayor," Michel said. "This is significant. I believe the liberals of the state should inform the governor that by signing the O'Grady-McDermott repealer he will only be following the expressed wish of his people." Senator Michel is chairman of the license and miscellany committee, which reported the bill favorably to the senate, where he fought hard for its passage on the floor.

Senator Ray Paddock, Republican of Wauconda, Lake county, took a similar stand. "We must abide by the decision of the voters expressed in the referendum last November," he said. "The Republican party cannot afford to take any other stand. The governor should be told this."

"For Good of the Party."

Representative Sol P. Roderick [Rep., Chicago] was another who joined the proposed junket to Springfield. "The Republican party is the majority party," he said. "For the good of the party we cannot disregard its wishes. The drys are importuning the governor repeatedly; we must inform him that there is another and a greater side to this question."

A militant downstate liberal, Representative Leroy M. Green [Rep., Rockford], regards the referendum as reflecting "the true sentiment of the people of Illinois." He will probably be one of the principal speakers in the hearing before the governor.

The senate minority leader, Thomas J. Courtney [Dem., Chicago], will also be one of the speakers. "The drys," Courtney said last night, "maintain continually that the lawabiding people are all behind prohibition and the lawless ones in favor of repeal. I want to point out to the governor that my district—Beverly Hills, Auburn Park, and Englewood—is one of the most lawabiding communities in the city and it favored repeal.

"The governor should recognize that the citizens of the state have spoken. They stand irrevocably for repeal."

A Democratic downstate member, Representative Truman A. Snell [Carlinville], will be one of the party. During the battle to pass the repealer in the house he was a member of the liberal battery of orators and will take the same stand before the governor.

A Chicago Democrat, Representative John M. Lee, will go with the Chicagoans in the delegation tomorrow or early Friday, depending upon the hour set by the governor. "No logical reason can be advanced why this bill should not be signed and made a law," Mr. Lee said. "The people wish it and the legislature passed it."

Representative Frank McCarthy [Rep., Elgin] will be another on the junket. "The Republican party must stand by the liberal mandate," Mr. McCarthy said. "The fortunes of the party are in a large degree dependent upon it and this should be pointed out to the governor."

CONNECTICUT HOUSE ASKED TO VEST RUM CONTROL WITH STATE

Hartford, Conn., April 8.—(AP)—A resolution was offered in the house of representatives today proposing an amendment to the state constitution which would place sale, manufacture, and importation of intoxicating liquors under state supervision. Without comment the measure went to a committee.

The general assembly recently rejected a bill to repeal the state prohibition enforcement laws.

N. Y. HOUSE O. K.'S 40 MILE SPEED LIMIT FOR AUTOS

New York, April 8.—[Special.]—The automobile speed limit in New York state is raised to 40 miles an hour in a bill just passed by the legislature, the measure originating in the assembly, was concurred in by the senate today and sent to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for his signature. Assemblyman Milan E. Goodrich of Westchester is the author of the bill.

Under the existing law a motorist is liable to a "ticket" if he gets above 30 miles an hour.

LUCAS APPEALS TO SOUTH TO CAST LOT WITH G. O. P.

Asserts Democrats Lack Leaders and Policies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 8.—[Special.]—An appeal to the south to desert the party of Thomas Jefferson and cast its future political fortunes with the Republicans was sounded tonight by Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee.

Speaking directly to the voters of the South, Mr. Lucas assailed the Democratic party as "bankrupt" in so far as leadership or concrete policies are concerned. He attributed growth of the south to Republican rather than Democratic leadership.

Mr. Lucas touched only briefly on the prohibition issue, indicating, however, that he had little sympathy for the state option proposal put forward last week by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Alludes to Raskob Policy.

"The only concrete proposition which the Democratic organization has presented to the American people," Mr. Lucas said, "are those suggested by Mr. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, who makes the unique proposal that the solution of the economic problems now confronting the United States and in which the south is vitally interested may be solved by [1] repealing the federal anti-trust laws; and [2] offering every individual a drink. This is an entirely new school of political thought.

"Why should the people of the south continue an alliance with a political organization that is so bankrupt and so disorganized that it cannot present a concrete statement as to what it will do in event it is given control of the federal government?

"Why Continue with Loser?"

"Why should the people of the south continue to place themselves in a perpetual minority, and set themselves aside from the rest of the country politically, by following such bankrupt leadership?"

Mr. Lucas particularly challenged the alleged claim that republicanism is not compatible with southern interests.

EVADES COURT; BOND FORFEITED.

MAJ. GEN. ELY WILL WELCOME JAPANESE ROYALTY FOR NATION

MAJ. GEN. H. E. ELY [Wide World Photo.]

Washington, D. C., April 8.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, commanding the Second corps area, was directed today to meet Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan at quarantine on their arrival at New York April 10 on the Aquitania from Europe. A salute appropriate to the prince's rank will be fired as the Aquitania passes Governor's island.

Maj. William C. Crane of the general staff has been designated to accompany Prince Takamatsu and his party on their visit to West Point.

The war department is making arrangements for the Japanese prince to visit Arlington April 16 to lay a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier.

Prince Takamatsu is the second younger brother of Emperor Hirohito and second in line of succession to the throne. He and his princess, married a year ago, are still on their honeymoon journey which is taking them around the world.

DENIED SHARE OF $1,900,000 PAID IN WRIGLEY SUIT

An instructed verdict of not guilty was returned yesterday by a jury in Circuit Judge George Fred Rush's court in the $65,000 suit brought by Mrs. Helen M. Sharpe against the L. P. Larson Jr. Chewing Gum company. The Larson company won a $1,900,000 settlement from the William Wrigley Jr. company more than two years ago in a suit for patent infringement. Mrs. Sharpe, widow of Frank A. Sharpe, a relative of the head of the Larson company, claimed 5 per cent of the amount was promised her husband for his help in the litigation. Judge Rush terminated the two day hearing with his ruling that the alleged agreement had not been established by Mrs. Sharpe. An appeal was granted.

LIQUOR ISSUE MEANS DEFEAT, M'ADOO WARNS

WILLIAM G. M'ADOO

Los Angeles, Cal., April 8.—(AP)—What he believes are the road to victory and the road to defeat for the Democratic party in the presidential election of 1932 were described today by William G. McAdoo in a letter in which he took issue with the policies advocated by National Chairman John J. Raskob.

Intelligent treatment of the greatest problem facing the country today, unemployment, not prohibition, the former Democratic leader wrote, probably would bring back to the party the presidential chair.

Instead, he warned, if the party adopts the view of Chairman Raskob and presents the question of liquor as the major plank in its platform, only "certain and disastrous defeat" will result.

The letter was written to decline the post of vice chairman on a committee which will plan a reception here on April 13 for Jouett Shouse, chairman of the party's national executive committee.

"Relegalizing liquor," he wrote, "will not put food into a single hungry mouth or provide employment for the great army of jobless men and women in the United States—more than six million in number as shown by a recent statement of Secretary of Commerce Lamont.

"Is liquor the Democratic answer to this vital problem? If it is, then the party is too impoverished in ideas to enter even a snail's race."

Two Suspects Hunted for Murder of Truck Driver

Two suspects were being sought by police last night for questioning regarding the murder of Anton Bagdon, 28 years old, 2324 West 22d street, a truck driver. Bagdon was found shot and beaten to death early Tuesday in his automobile in front of 1346 South Spaulding avenue. An inquest into his death was continued to April 22 at the request of police, who said they had learned he had been known as an alcohol peddler.

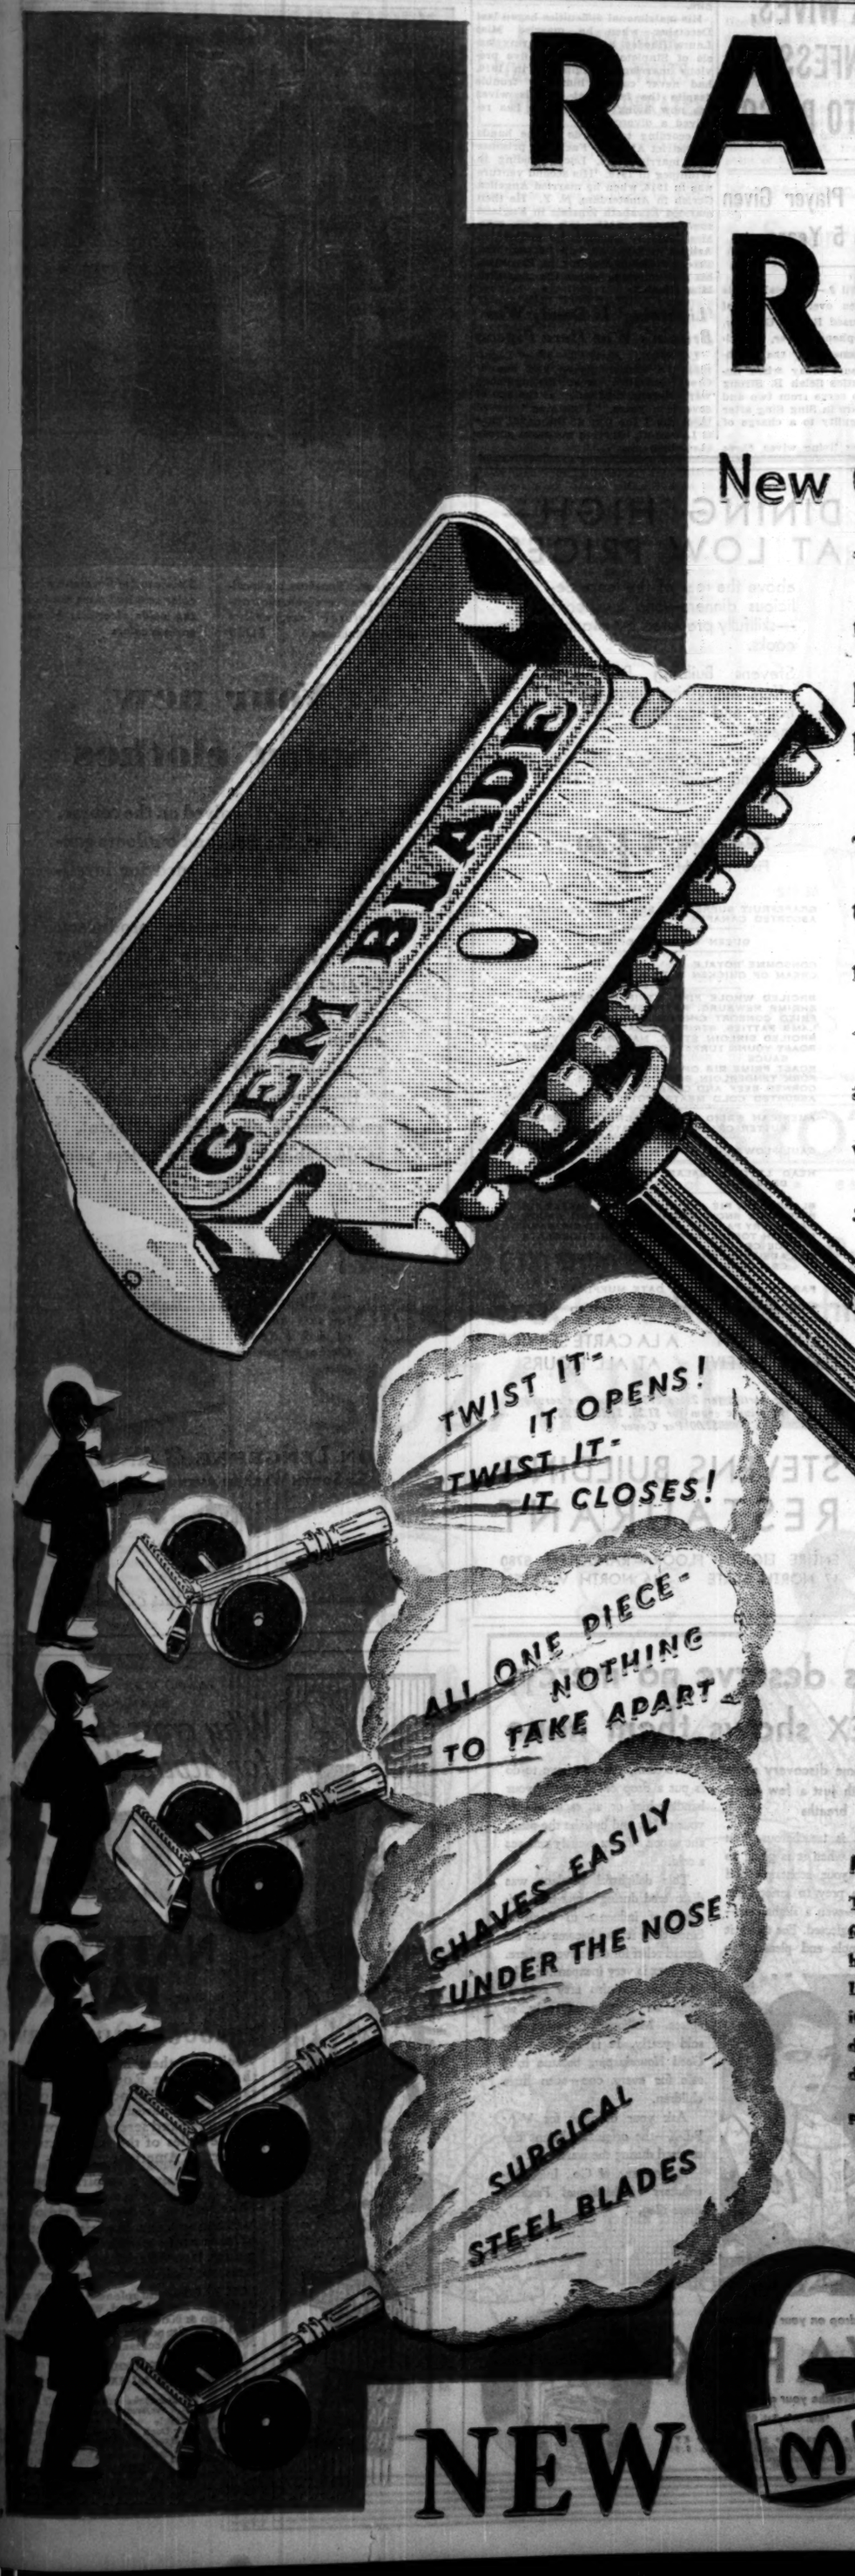
RAZOR REVOLUTION

New Gem Micromatic Transforms Shaving

The Gem Micromatic is not just a new razor—it is a revolution! It makes every razor on your washroom shelf look and feel like an antique by comparison. New patents, new improvements give you a brand new idea of how glorious shaves can be. This precision instrument is the first real shaving invention in over 20 years.



GEM BLADE
TWIST IT- IT OPENS! TWIST IT- IT CLOSES!
ALL ONE PIECE- NOTHING TO TAKE APART
SHAVES EASILY UNDER THE NOSE
SURGICAL STEEL BLADES

TWIST IT—IT OPENS! TWIST IT—IT CLOSES! The new handle-twist is fascinating to use—and, man, how simple! Automatically the blade moves into the correct shaving position and is locked there. No adjusting—no fumbling—and the blade can't vibrate. All one piece—nothing to take apart—the Gem Micromatic is a joy to clean and load. Perfect in balance with a patented Corinthian handle, it has a wonderful feeling in your hand. It shaves easily under the nose. The face-fitting bevel gives you precisely the right shaving angle automatically—without guesswork or experimenting.

SURGICAL STEEL BLADES

And wait until you use the new Gem Micromatic Blades! They're made of newly developed surgical steel. Super-keen, extra-durable, absolutely uniform, they smooth away the beard so gently you hardly feel the blade's stroke. Incidentally they fit ALL Gem Razors—new or old.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

These are just a few of the many patented features of the Gem Micromatic. See the handsome gold plated razor at your dealer's. Let him show you how marvelous it is. Buy it. Try it for a week. You can't lose. If it doesn't give you vastly better shaves, your dollar will be cheerfully refunded.

RUSSIA BELIEVES U. S. RECOGNITION NOT FAR DISTANT

Thinks It Would Help End the Depression.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, March 12.—[By mail.]—Cabled reports from Washington that Secretary of State Stimson is re-examining the question of the attitude of the United States government toward soviet Russia "with an open mind" have aroused considerable speculation here, although officialdom remains decidedly mute.

Wagers have been laid that the United States will be represented here by some functionary in an official capacity before the end of this year, although it is not considered that full recognition will come so soon and an ambassador or minister sent. It is considered more likely that any step toward resumption of relations would take the form of an attaché of the state, treasury, or commerce department.

Represented by Turkish Envoy.

It is pointed out that Washington has already made a move in this direction by vesting with the Turkish envoy the right to witness and register various documents, contracts, agreements, certificates, etc., much as a recognized notary public. Why the Ottoman official was selected remains a mystery, although the belief is held that American business firms would have objected against British, German, French, Italian, or Japanese having been appointed because it would give representatives of those competing countries an insight into trade negotiations which they might witness or register.

Three powerful elements in the United States are expected to oppose any step toward recognition of Russia. They are the American Federation of Labor, the Roman Catholic church, and the Jews. Milder hostility is expected from the Protestant church, from women's social organizations, and from certain business interests which feel their activities might be menaced.

Depression a Big Factor.

However, it is believed here that if the economic depression continues in the United States, a revival of business through an increase in American exports and lower prices for commodities at home, through free entry of certain imports, would more than counterbalance the hostile factions.

That an overwhelming majority of th Jews in America would bitterly oppose recognition of soviet Russia is not admitted here. The belief is expressed that a certain portion, mindful of the persecution their creed suffered under the imperial régime, might favor it. Opinion here counts heavily on the fact that a large percentage of this class has near or distant relatives still living in Russia, and this factor would tend to induce them to open up communications and to favor the added protection recognition would give them in case they wished to return to visit their people.

Generally, it is considered here that any proposition the administration can offer to the United States which promises an increase of business and a resuscitation of trade would be welcomed by the vast majority of the country.

Estimates have been made here that with recognition by the United States and extension of long and short term credits to soviet Russia, the Russian government would swell its imports from America to several hundred million dollars without delay. These purchases would affect the American market in its most vital points—heavy industry, general manufactured articles, transportation material, and supplies, and tools of all categories.

Belief is held here that Britain and Germany principally, and France, Italy, and Japan, to a lesser degree, are actively engaged in throwing all possible obstacles in the way of a rapprochement between the United States and soviet Russia.

Seek to Control 5 Year Plan.

In the development of the five year plan, if London and Berlin can dig in deep enough and obtain a tight clutch on the execution and operation of this grandiose scheme through provision of advisers, technical experts, engineers, and specialists and through supply of raw and finished materials, they will be in a position to keep all newcomers frozen out of the Russian market for a long time to come.

Skepticism and suspicion of each other, and both countries' lack of financial strength and their wariness in engaging their gold in guaranteeing long term credits, have thus far prevented them from entering the Russian field en masse and cutting up the spoils between them.

RUSSIA SENTENCES 41 GERMAN OFFICIALS TO TEN YEARS' EXILE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, April 8.—Dr. Schiele, for 30 years chairman of the German school committee in Leningrad, and forty other officials of German cultural and church organizations, have been sentenced to ten years in exile, according to the Leningrad Pravda, which published the decision of the Leningrad district court.

Dr. Schiele and twenty of the defendants were banished to Solvetzski island and the remainder to the Narimski district of Siberia. Dr. Schiele last summer informed friends in Germany of the oppressive conditions under which Germans are living in Russia, and also wrote articles for the German press. The exiles were charged with opposing communist methods of instruction in German schools which have been closed.

HAS SIX WIVES, HE CONFESSES; GOES TO PRISON

Saxophone Player Given 2½ to 5 Years.

New York, April 8.—[Special.]—His various marriages over a period of twenty years caused Robert Gooding, 57 year old saxophone player, considerable embarrassment in the Richmond County court today when Supreme Court Justice Selah B. Strong sentenced him to serve from two and a half to five years in Sing Sing after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of bigamy.

Gooding has six living wives, three of whom appeared in court against him.

His matrimonal difficulties began last December when he married Miss Laura Rhodes, a Salvation Army lassie of Stapleton, S. I. His five previous marriages, beginning in 1910, had never caused him any trouble despite the fact that all his wives are now living and not one has received a divorce.

According to records in the hands of District Attorney Fach, the prisoner first married Mrs. Lucy Gooding in Winnipeg in 1910. His second venture was in 1916, when he married Angelica Gerish in Amsterdam, N. Y. He then married Elizabeth Sinclair in England some time in 1917. His fourth wife, Mrs. Dorothy Gooding, he married in Astoria in 1919. In 1926 he wed Mrs. Teresa Neibach Gooding in Brooklyn, his last marriage before the step with Miss Rhodes.

Colds deserve no mercy, VAPEX shows them none

This war-time discovery routs a cold with just a few deep breaths

EVERY cold is treacherous. You never know when it is going to tear down your resistance and leave you a prey to serious ills.

No cold—even a slight one—should be neglected. For today it is both simple and pleasant to relieve colds. All you have to do is put a drop of Vapex on your handkerchief or at each end of your pillow and breathe the pleasant vapor. Vapex swiftly relieves a cold.

This delightful inhalant was discovered during a war-time epidemic of influenza in England. Since then it has become the accepted relief for colds everywhere.

Vapex is very inexpensive. The $1 bottle contains fifty applications—an average of only 2c apiece. Millions of bottles are sold yearly. It is approved by Good Housekeeping because it is safe for every one—even little children.

Ask your druggist for V-A-P-E-X—the original inhalant discovered during the war.

BRITAIN ANGRY; CHARGES FRANCE PERILS NAVY PACT

Relations Between Two Nations Strained.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 8.—Anglo-French relations, after a period of rapprochement, have become embittered by a series of events over the course of the last few months.

One of the main causes for this strained situation is the naval disarmament question. Much irritation is expressed unofficially in British diplomatic and naval circles over the attitude of France, which, it is charged, threatens to destroy the basis of the London three power accord between the United States, Great Britain, and Japan.

Other Factors in Situation.

This attitude became quite clear during the negotiations, now held up, for a Franco-Italian naval agreement. Great Britain paved the way for this proposed pact not only to prevent a naval race between these nations, but with the hope of making France and Italy full partners in the London naval pact.

Coupled with the French attitude on naval matters the hostile attitude of France toward the proposed Austro-German customs union, and the outburst in the French press against the proposed visit of Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius of Germany to London on June 5 for a four day conference with Prime Minister MacDonald, have further strained the relations of the two countries.

The German statesmen will be guests of Mr. MacDonald at his country home at Chequers, where they are expected to discuss all outstanding European questions, particularly general disarmament and the Austro-German customs union.

France Demands Right to Build.

The London naval accord regulates naval building until the end of 1936, but the French now claim a free hand to build after the beginning of 1935, when the next naval conference is scheduled to be held.

This, if persisted in, would give France nearly a two years' start in building over the three powers who signed the London treaty. In other words, America, Great Britain, and Japan are limited to a six years' building holiday, while France would be limited to only four years.

Britain fears that the French claims, if carried out, would place France in possession of a navy equal to, if not superior to, that of the British by the end of 1936.

May Use Escalator Clause.

The British admiralty, therefore, holds that France must either come in for the full six years or not at all, and if she does not, then Great Britain must be free to use the escalator clause, which would also mean extra building by the United States.

There is also some irritation about what is frankly described as an attempt on the part of the French to put something over, not only on Italy in the proposed Franco-Italian pact but on the other powers, too.

In calculating tonnage the French included in their present tonnage all ships now being built as well as those already built at the present time, but in their calculation for 1935 they included only ships that were actually built, so in fact France would have a greater superiority over Italy than appeared on the face of the figures.

Parley to Be Strictly "Private."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 8.—At the coming German-British tête-à-tête at Chequers between June 5 and 9, Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius will be accompanied at most by only a few experts and possibly a couple of attachés, as it is desired to avoid the atmosphere of a formal "conference." Indeed, it is foreshadowed that the conversations may be confined among Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Henderson, for Great Britain, and Chancellor Bruening and Dr. Curtius, for Germany, without even the participation of the German ambassador in London.

Mr. MacDonald's visit to President Hoover at the latter's fishing camp on the Rapidan river was recalled by the Berliner Tageblatt today as an example of historic results which can develop from such informal methods of diplomacy. Among the problems coming up for discussion at Chequers, it is emphasized here, the question of reparations is considered one of the most important, from the German point of view.

G. A. R. COMMANDER FOR MUTUAL VISITS WITH CONFEDERATES

Boston, Mass., April 8.—(AP)—James E. Jewell, national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, told his comrades of the Massachusetts department today that he might be invited to be guest of honor at the annual convention in June of the Confederate veterans.

"And if I receive that invitation," he cried, "I shall accept it with one provision—that they send their commander-in-chief to our convention at Des Moines. We want to obliterate once and for all any trace of the wound of '65 if any trace remains."

Jewell said he had been asked by Gen. W. L. Freeman of Richmond, Va., if he would accept such an invitation should Commander L. W. Stephens of the Confederate veterans extend it.

THOMPSON.

William Hale Thompson was defeated Tuesday after a campaign which he alone made disgraceful. The election was an ejection, a dirty job, but Chicago has washed itself and put on clean clothes.

Thompson recognized THE TRIBUNE as his chief enemy. THE TRIBUNE was glad to earn that opinion. It certainly tried to do so. It has taken the fight to him on every occasion during the long and depraved course of his administration. It is unpleasant business to eject a skunk, but some one has to do it.

For Chicago Thompson has meant filth, corruption, obscenity, idiocy and bankruptcy. He has given the city an international reputation for moronic buffoonery, barbaric crime, triumphant hoodlumism, unchecked graft and a dejected citizenship. He nearly ruined the property and completely destroyed the pride of the city. He made Chicago a byword for the collapse of American civilization. In his attempt to continue this he excelled himself as a liar and defamer of character. He's out.

He is not only out, but he is dishonored. He is deserted by his friends. He is permanently marked by the evidences of his character and conduct. His health is impaired by his ways of life and he leaves office and goes from the city the most discredited man who ever held place in it.

RAISING THE COMPULSORY SCHOOL AGE.

A bill which has been referred to a subcommittee of the state senate for hearings would require that every child in Illinois go to school until he is 16 years old. At present a boy may go to work at 14, but even so he must attend continuation school until he is 16. The new bill would forbid any child under 16 from working, and require that he attend continuation school until he is at least 18.

Instinctively the American people look favorably upon such legislation. We believe that the democracy cannot survive if the electorate is illiterate. Therefore we believe in universal public education and regard the cost of the public schools as the necessary price to be paid for our system of universal suffrage. Moreover, at a time of widespread unemployment, any measure which is calculated like this one to reduce the available supply of labor will seem attractive.

But there are other considerations which weigh heavily on the other side. Plainly the question of literacy is not involved. If a child after ten years of schooling [from the age of 6 to 16] has not learned to read, write, and calculate, it is impossible to believe that he will acquire these accomplishments in two years more at school. What he will learn in those two years is a matter of some doubt. He may receive instruction which will make him a more useful citizen and increase his earning power or he may not. Somewhere along the line there is a point at which diminishing returns from formal education set in. The determination of that point should depend in some measure upon the individual and in some measure upon the occupation for which he is preparing himself.

We have come to the conclusion, for example, that the training of a doctor requires four years in high school, six years in college and medical school, and a year of internship. In that time no medical student learns all or nearly all that he might of medical science, but the fact is recognized that the further returns from formal discipline would not justify a majority in spending additional time upon it. Indeed, the effort of leaders in medical education today is to discover some means of shortening the period of compulsory schooling. The doctor is an extreme case. The formal education for most of the other common occupations and professions is properly very much briefer.

The state does not and cannot fix the point at which formal education must cease; it can only specify the point at which schooling may be concluded, varying the period for various occupations. Any educator will admit that there are many children who have learned all they can learn in school by the time they are 16 and know it. Ordinarily it is not the boy with a job who gets into trouble. Most educators will agree that there is a considerable number of children who will actually lose ground by being forced to go to school until they are 18, against their wills and against the wills of their parents. Likewise, most educators will agree that the period of education ought to depend in some degree upon family circumstances. There are thousands of families in Illinois living on the ragged edge of destitution. Is the state warranted in withholding from these families the possible earnings of the younger members who have already had ten years of schooling, especially when the children themselves might well derive far less benefit from formal education than from the easing of the family situation?

Certainly it is true that, law or no law, the tendency of American parents will be to give their children as much schooling as possible. The question is, Will the best interests of parents and children be served by restricting personal discretion in the matter further than it is at present restricted? For our part, we doubt it.

SYMPATHY FOR FELONS.

The legislative committee of inquiry has concluded its hearings at the Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries. For the rest, it will examine the records of the board of paroles at Springfield.

Thus far the committee has spent much of its time questioning convicts with a view to determining the causes of the recent prison riots. To the extent that overcrowding and lack of occupation were responsible, the testimony of the prisoners was of no importance. The prison records on these matters are far more revealing than anything the prisoners might have to say. With regard to the rigors of prison discipline and the conduct of the parole board the testimony of convicts may have some value, but it is easily exaggerated.

When all is said, the fact remains that the inmates of a penitentiary are, for much the most part, vicious men and women. Otherwise they would not be where they are. Many of them are liars and degenerates. As witnesses in any matter their testimony is worth little, and when they are asked about the conduct of an institution in which they are held against their wills their testimony is scarcely worth listening to.

We do not take the position that the prison management is above criticism in all matters or that the criminal code of Illinois and the provisions for parole are perfect. It would be a mistake, however, to permit the convicts to draw the conclusion that mass action on their part can in any way advantage them. And it is a mistake on the part of legislators or the public to waste much sympathy on felons. They do not deserve it and there is no reason to believe they will reward it.

WHEN SUGAR IS IMMORAL.

Federal Judge Louis Fitzhenry, in the Springfield, Ill., district, holds that women are qualified for jury service and that a verdict found by a mixed jury is valid. The right, or duty, is not restricted by sex. The case involved the conviction of the J. C. Hubinger company of Keokuk, Ia., found guilty of selling sugar which was later used in the illegal manufacture of liquor.

The Hubingers, confronted with penalties which may appear to them to be slightly ironical, even if sanctioned by twentieth century American law, are hunting for the out which might relieve them of the consequences of providing an ingredient, harmless in itself, to be used in making a prohibited beverage. What naturally would make them the more restless under the conviction would be the failure of the government to obtain convictions when the charge is selling malt extract and hops for the making of another alcoholic beverage known as beer, also prohibited but recently indorsed as not criminal by a federal jury in Wisconsin.

The catch as catch can system of enforcement under Volstead puzzles the judicial mind as evidences of it pop up all over the country. Nothing may more perplex the Hubingers, convicted of selling sugar, than the government indulgence and subsidy of the California grape concentrate which makes a heady wine. Frequent reference must be made to this moral eccentricity, not to interfere with citizens who find Volstead bright and cheerful in this aspect of it but merely to follow the amusing antics of a nation trying to increase its moral stature by pulling at its boot straps.

THE CUBS.

Mr. Wrigley's players, in their conditioning season under the new management of Mr. Rogers Hornsby, seem to have been reaching for it with their chins in most of their endeavors on the coast and elsewhere in their games with the minor leaguers. They have found one or two clubs they could beat, but in most instances the minors gave them rough treatment. When the pitchers have not been had the support has been, and if the experience had any reliable portent it would indicate cellar space without serious competition. However, there is no call for downheartedness.

It was the hope of the new management to come through with a clean slate, but Mr. Wrigley's players, although apparently downtrodden, have not yet lost anything which counts in the percentage column, and it would be gratuitous to add that they haven't yet had a chance. It often happens that an outfit which has a brilliant spring season in the brush only arouses hopes to be lost in the big timber. The Cubs are not out because they are down.

When they return to their own league circuit they may be expected to become civic in the large way required by the situation. The city contemplates the approach of a delayed spring, now two weeks behind with its hepatica and hermit thrush, in a spirit of renewed youth, rounding out the first hundred years with a sense of relief and delivery from turpitude and discouragement.

This spirit will come upon Mr. Wrigley's players when they are back in its domain. At least you can't be put in jail for thinking so.

Editorial of the Day

THE MEANEST RACKET.

[Grand Rapids Press.]

Of all Chicago rackets, the cheapest, most heartless, most widespread, and meanest would be—if proved true—the racket in short weight goods which State's Attorney Swanson believes to exist in Chicago and which resulted in his raids on the office of Big Bill Thompson's city sealer.

Evidence gathered by women who made purchases from stores in all parts of the city was to the effect that Chicago people were being cheated of millions of dollars annually by dishonest measures, and the state wanted to know whether Thompson's city sealer and his organization were engaged in a conspiracy to protect this alleged graft. It is contended that customers were shortweighted as much as a ton of coal in ten, that countless articles of food were sold on "fixed" scales or in underweight packages, and that a side racket was the labor holdup of dealers who were threatened with short weight prosecution unless they joined a racketeer organization and "shelled out."

Chief sufferers by such a racket are inevitably the poor. Groceries, fuel, etc., are sold at the same price to all. A racketeer boost in the price of such necessities may be little felt by the person of means, but it is a tragic matter for those who are close to the line of indigence and struggling to make ends meet. Fools who regard Chicago racketeers as gay Robin Hoods preying on wealth alone are blind to the truth—which is that the effect of criminal racketeering is to raise the expense of all types of business and cruelly increase the cost of living for those who least can afford it.

CHICKEN POX AND SHINGLES.

CHICKEN POX and shingles have a way of coming together, or of either one following the other, and seemingly caused by the other, that leads many physicians to think them one and the same. On the other hand, there are so many differences between them that most physicians think they are separate diseases. For instance, chicken pox is a children's disease; shingles, a disease of adults. Persons never have chicken pox the second time, but a person who has had chicken pox may have shingles, and one attack of shingles does not protect against a subsequent one.

That there is some sort of a kinship between them almost everybody thinks to be the case, but just what the relationship between them is cannot be agreed on. Dr. R. R. McCormick went through an epidemic of chicken pox about a year ago. Four of his chicken pox contacts developed shingles as a complication of some kind. One died.

One conclusion that he arrived at was that, while chicken pox was a mild disease and recovery was to be expected, when shingles and chicken pox came together the patient was in for a stormy time and a fatal issue might be the outcome. The nature of the exposures in this combination of diseases made it impossible for Dr. McCormick to decide what relation the two infections bore to each other.

Other observers have seen cases of shingles develop in persons exposed to chicken pox and who were expected to develop that childhood disorder. The opposite succession has been noted by others. Hoping to throw some light on the question, Dr. McCormick took some water from a shingles blister and inoculated it into the skin of a baby exposed to chicken pox. A small pimple appeared at the place of inoculation, but no blisters developed and the child had neither chicken pox nor shingles. He escaped infection then and seemed to be immune afterward. One swallow does not make a summer and Dr. McCormick offers the observation for what it is worth.

It would be difficult to convince the ordinary man who has shingles that his disease is in any way related to chicken pox. Certainly, in the present state of our information there is no reason to isolate from his family a man with shingles in order to protect them from chicken pox.

DEPENDS ON THE MAN.

Mrs. R. writes: Is there any cure for a man who drinks heavily? Is there anything that could be given to him?

REPLY.

Cure can be guaranteed if the man wants to quit and is willing to make the fight, if he is mentally normal and sound, and if he has character. If there are any missing ingredients, cure is doubtful. If certain ones are missing cure is impossible. Medicines may cause nausea and thus temporarily interfere with the appetite. They may clear the drug out of the system, but they cannot supply character or mental normalcy.

BUTTERMILK.

S. C. H. writes:

1. Is buttermilk fattening?
2. What causes the stomach to swell after eating?

REPLY.

1. Not very. It contains an abundance of water and almost no fat. However, if one eats considerable food and drinks freely of buttermilk in addition he will put on fat.
2. You refer to a feeling of fullness after eating. Among the causes are overeating, overdistending the stomach with fluids, rapid eating, air swallowing, constipation, reverse peristalsis due to gall bladder trouble, eating improper foods.

2. No. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MORE FACTS NEEDED.

Chicago, April 1. — [Legal Friend of the People.]—Please advise me if an American citizen can claim his property from Europe and how to go about it. I received a letter from the court in Europe asking for money. J. S.

We do not have sufficient facts to advise you. If you have reason to think that a substantial amount is involved, you should employ an attorney.

OFFENDER WARNED.

Chicago, March 30.—[Friend of the People.]—The vacant property in the 4000 block of Argyle street is used as a dump ground for tin cans and other refuse by the hospital located in that vicinity. If same could be rectified it would be greatly appreciated. M. K.

Report is made that the superintendent of the 41st ward called at the office of the hospital in question. Assurance was given that cans would be collected and removed, and thereafter accumulation cared for by private scavenger service. JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Superintendent of Streets.

STATUS OF DESERTER.

Chicago, April 1. — [Legal Friend of the People.]—I enlisted in the army in Chicago during July, 1917, under an assumed name. Was sent to Texas but was discharged in December, 1917, as medically unfit. I reënlisted again in Winchester, England, in September, 1918, in the American army. After the armistice I was returned to this country but instead of being discharged was held because we were all regular army men. In May, 1919, they said they would give us discharge papers if we would reënlist for another year. I reenlisted because I wanted to get to New York. 1. While there I deserted. My second enlistment was under the same name as the first. 2. Can I write to the war department for my two discharges, both of which I lost in Chicago ten years ago, without being arrested? 3. Can I collect my bonus?

A. D. B.

1. We assume that you mean that you deserted from the army, although you do not state this fact nor give us the date.
2. It seems probable that you can.
3. Probably not.

WHAT LONDON EXPECTED.

(As the war correspondent for the London Times who came here for the purpose expected to cable the great election battle to his paper.)

Chicago, April 7.—[By Our Own Special Correspondent.]—The terrible election in Chicago is about over and I take it that Al Capone is the new lord mayor. It was a frightful battle and the casualties run well into the thousands. Lord Mayor Thompson, who has won much attention in England by his oft repeated threats to strike our king on the nose, was badly defeated by the Capone army, and again later in the date by an army commanded by a Mr. Kermac, or Ferhak, also contesting for the lord mayoralty. Mr. Capone appeared early in the morning at the head of twenty thousand rum runners, bootleggers, racketeers, and voters of that ilk. Opening a well directed fire from their field artillery down Michigan boulevard they toppled over many of the very high buildings known as skyscrapers, although, of course, the structures do not really scrape against the sky, albeit they are extraordinarily tall.

The Thompsonian army succeeded in checking the Capone forces at first, but in pushing forward along the Lake Lake Michigan, a most amazing large body of fresh water, oh, quite!—were fired on by the Capone navy, consisting of a dozen or more vessels engaged in the smuggling of illicit liquor and known as rum carriers. The fire from the big guns of the fleet, aided by a heavy bombardment from two hundred airplanes overhead, was very heavy and mowed the Thompsonian army down like chaff. They fell back, but as they did so they encountered the very large army commanded by Mr. Jerhac, or Zervak, and another terrific battle resulted.

Mr. Capone held his troops inactive, waiting for the Thompsonian army and the forces commanded by Mr. Herhak, or Werwak, to destroy each other, which they soon did. Then, there being no further opposition from the citizens who had taken to their bombproofs, Mr. Capone rode through the city and took possession of the city hall. He received, of course, no opposition from the police, who make it a point not to interfere in battles in Chicago in which Mr. Capone takes part. However, in the intense excitement that prevailed all day, a policeman gave Mr. Capone a ticket for driving through a red light. The policeman was immediately placed against the wall and shot. Mr. Capone is now issuing a proclamation which I will send as soon as a copy is given me. It has been a most exciting day—quite! but only what was expected. Chicago is really a most extraordinary place. Rather!

TWO HEARTS—NOW ALIEN.

No voice can carry through,
no cry, not anything can span that space. And you know not of what I sing.

It is not death. Such peace is not for hearts like mine.
Unheralded surcease, unwanted anodyne,

I will accept when all the other things are tried.
And if I hear that call my soul has lately died.

JEANNE DELAMARTER.

AND NOW that Mr. Thompson has been defeated he is still in Chicago. He may depart today, of course, but a whole day and a half has passed since the election, and he still is with us. If William had been reëlected he would probably have fled from the city fifteen minutes after the ballots had been counted. Why, William, how nice it was that you were not chosen. Now we'll see you even when there's no election going on.

AND ANOTHER THOUGHT! While Mr. Thompson will now have the permission of one and all of his fellow citizens to journey to those far off lands and find tree climbing fish, we wouldn't be surprised if he first hunted up the poet who wrote the famous song, "Tony, Tony, where is your push cart at?" And that poet had better climb a tree faster than any fish ever did—even a tree climbing fish.

"PLAGUE OF GIANT GNATS Perils Lives and Stock in Mississippi."—Daily News. After having Gov. Bilbo run it around for several years the giant gnats should seem like a pleasant relief to that afflicted state.

IF SHE SAID CRACKER CRUMBS TELL HER TO STAY AWAY.

R. H. L.: All right! All right! Have it your own way—the trout isn't even in the same class as the black bass; but what I want you to tell me is—should the said bass be rolled in cornmeal or in cracker crumbs? Eleven years ago my wife and I separated on account of an argument over the proper preparation. I appeal to you as a b. b. authority to settle the question, and if I was wrong I will return, apologize, and ask the missus to come back. BEN OH BEN.

FOR NO REASON AT ALL.

Do not ask that I be faithful:
Be content with what I give:
Love me when we are together:
Otherwhere forget I live.

I detest recriminations:
Explanations are a bore:
If you ask what this and that is,
I will only lie the more.

Love's not worth an hour's dreaming;
Love's not worth a moment's pain:
If you love me, then believe me;
Else you'll not see me again.

THE PHANTOM LOVER.

LAGNIAPPE.

OH SUMMER, you've crept into spring, in such a subtle, silent way; I did not know that you had come, but still were far away. But yesterday was the hottest day I ever hit upon; I thought I'd die, for I've still got my heavy winter undies on.

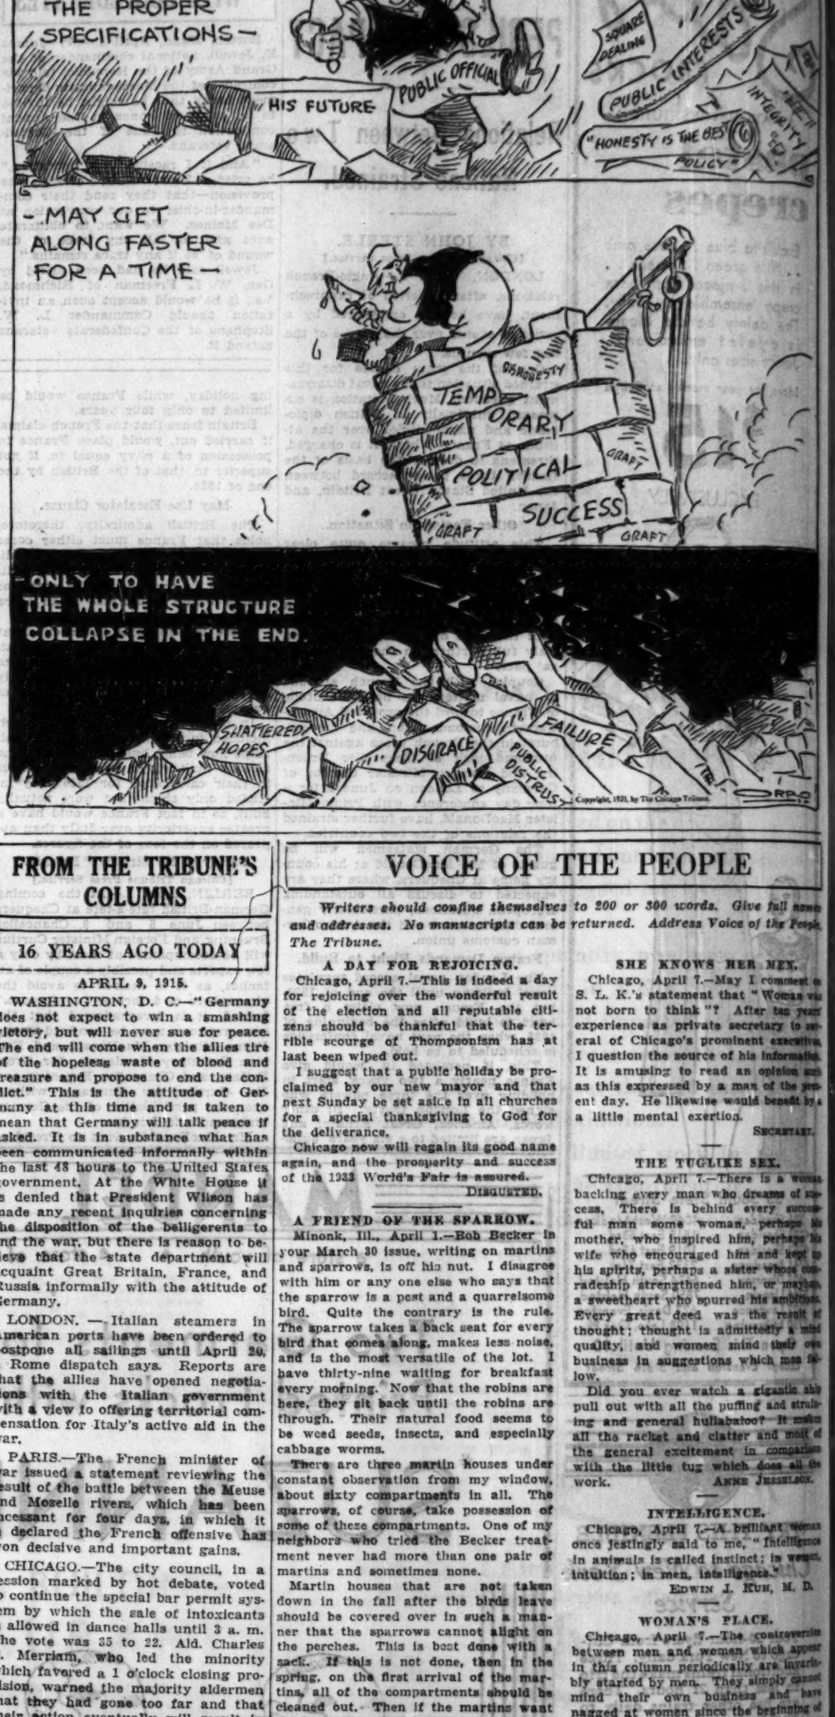
THE POLITICAL BUILDER



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 9, 1915.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—"Germany does not expect to win a smashing victory, but will never sue for peace. The end will come when the allies tire of the hopeless waste of blood and treasure and propose to end the conflict." This is the attitude of Germany at this time and is taken to mean that Germany will talk peace if asked. It is in substance what has been communicated informally within the last 48 hours to the United States government. At the White House it is denied that President Wilson has made any recent inquiries concerning the disposition of the belligerents to end the war, but there is reason to believe that the state department will acquaint Great Britain, France, and Russia informally with the attitude of Germany.

LONDON.—Italian steamers in American ports have been ordered to postpone all sailings until April 20, a Rome dispatch says. Reports are that the allies have opened negotiations with the Italian government with a view to offering territorial compensation for Italy's active aid in the war.

PARIS.—The French minister of war issued a statement reviewing the result of the battle between the Meuse and Moselle rivers, which has been incessant for four days, in which it is declared the French offensive has won decisive and important gains.

CHICAGO.—The city council, in a session marked by hot debate, voted to continue the special bar permit system by which the sale of intoxicants is allowed in dance halls until 3 a. m. The vote was 35 to 22. Ald. Charles E. Merriam, who led the minority which favored a 1 o'clock closing provision, warned the majority aldermen that they had gone too far and that their action eventually will result in putting an end to the sale of intoxicants in dance halls.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 9, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Mayor Harrison took the oath of office for his third term, and the newly elected council also was sworn in. The council organized on a nonpartisan basis with Ald. William Mayor as chairman of the finance committee. The "gray wolves" hung out the peace sign and with Ald. John Coughlin as their spokesman said they "would be good." "Honest Ed" Cullerton sat in a grotto of flowers with a stuffed gray wolf as a companion.

PEKING.—Gen. Tung Fu Siang, former commander of the northern army, with an army of 10,000 men has started a revolution in northern China. The province at Shensi, where the court is now located, is threatened by the revolutionists.

CHICAGO.—The wedding of Miss Edna May Rood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Rood, and Frederick Cundell Gordon took place at St. Andrew's Episcopal church. The Rev. William C. De Witt, assisted by the Rev. J. M. D. Davidson, officiated.

WASHINGTON.—The Gen. John A. Logan statue will be unveiled tomorrow and Mrs. Logan will attend the ceremonies. She will be accompanied by Judge and Mrs. Tuthill and Mrs. George M. Pullman of Chicago, who have already arrived.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 9, 1881.

CHICAGO.—The West Side Railway company acceded to all demands of the strikers, including a 20 per cent wage increase and the reinstatement of the men recently discharged, and the strike was called off. West siders who had to walk downtown were able to ride home last evening. The strikers had the hearty sympathy of the citizens and this fact does not seem to have been lost on them, as they adopted a resolution to be very courteous to passengers, especially ladies, in the future.

BOSTON.—The Hon. Stephen M. Stockwell, one of the proprietors and until recently senior editor of the Boston Journal, died at the age of 58. He had as much to do with the development of modern journalism in Boston as any other one man.

LONDON.—In the house of lords the duke of Argyll, lord privy seal, expressed deep sorrow on leaving the cabinet. He said he did so because of the land bill.

A DAY FOR REJOICING.

Chicago, April 7.—This is indeed a day for rejoicing over the wonderful result of the election and all reputable citizens should be thankful that the terrible scourge of Thompsonism has at last been wiped out.

I suggest that a public holiday be proclaimed by our new mayor and that next Sunday be set asice in all churches for a special thanksgiving to God for the deliverance.

Chicago now will regain its good name again, and the prosperity and success of the 1933 World's Fair is assured.

DISGUSTED.

A FRIEND OF THE SPARROW.

Minonk, Ill., April 1.—Bob Becker in your March 30 issue, writing on martins and sparrows, is off his nut. I disagree with him or any one else who says that the sparrow is a pest and a quarrelsome bird. Quite the contrary is the rule. The sparrow takes a back seat for every bird that comes along, makes less noise, and is the most versatile of the lot. I have thirty-nine waiting for breakfast every morning. Now that the robins are here, they sit back until the robins are through. Their natural food seems to be weed seeds, insects, and especially cabbage worms.

There are three martin houses under constant observation from my window, about sixty compartments in all. The sparrows, of course, take possession of some of these compartments. One of my neighbors who tried the Becker treatment never had more than one pair of martins and sometimes none.

Martin houses that are not taken down in the fall after the birds leave should be covered over in such a manner that the sparrows cannot alight on the perches. This is best done with a sack. If this is not done, then in the spring, on the first arrival of the martins, all of the compartments should be cleaned out. Then if the martins want the house they will take it regardless of the number of sparrows about. If there be any vacancies then the sparrows will take them. But if the sparrow is nesting then there is no bird big enough to drive it away, and if Bob Becker was as much man as the sparrow is bird he would not be running around with a dog and gun destroying wild life.

THOMAS S. LIVERY.

IN FAIRNESS TO MR. HOOVER.

Chicago, April 4.—It has come to my attention that some employes here in the United States who are forced to take a day a week off, due to this depression, call them their Hoover days. This is very illuminating, and I am glad to know just whom to blame for the depression. But just what do you suppose the people over in Europe call their days off? HERMINE SWERENGEN.

LENTEN SERMONS.

Chicago, April 5.—I wish to express my great appreciation of the sermons during Lent which have been published in your paper. They have been extremely beautiful and each day have carried a worth while thought. What a comfort and help it would be to have these continued throughout the year. In the depressing times when faith and courage are at a low ebb great confidence could be gained by the tiny sermons we could carry through the day. I feel sure others have been helped by these and will miss them now that the Lenten season is over. MARY NICHOLS.

SHE KNOWS HER MEN.

Chicago, April 7.—May I comment on S. L. K.'s statement that "Woman was not born to think"? After ten years experience as private secretary to several of Chicago's prominent executives, I question the source of his information. It is amusing to read an opinion such as this expressed by a man of the present day. He likewise would benefit by a little mental exertion.

SECRETARY.

THE TUGLIKE SEX.

Chicago, April 7.—There is a woman backing every man who dreams of success. There is behind every successful man some woman, perhaps his mother, who inspired him, perhaps his wife who encouraged him and kept up his spirits, perhaps a sister whose comradeship strengthened him, or maybe a sweetheart who spurred his ambitions. Every great deed was the result of thought; thought is admittedly a mind quality, and women mind their own business in suggestions which man follow.

Did you ever watch a gigantic ship pull out with all the puffing and straining and general hullabaloo? It makes all the racket and clatter and most of the general excitement in comparison with the little tug which does all the work. ANNE JESSELSON.

INTELLIGENCE.

Chicago, April 7.—A brilliant woman once jestingly said to me, "Intelligence in animals is called instinct; in women, intuition; in men, intelligence."

EDWIN J. KUH, M. D.

WOMAN'S PLACE.

Chicago, April 7.—The controversies between men and women which appear in this column periodically are invariably started by men. They simply cannot mind their own business and have nagged at women since the beginning of time. Women's mentality is equal to that of men, but up to now they have not had an opportunity to develop it. How far would Darwin, Einstein, Dante, Tolstoy, Wagner, etc., etc., have been able to get if they had spent their lives bearing children, changing diapers, cleaning noses, ears, etc.?

My 16 year old daughter and her friends have some very modern ideas about those things, and more power to them. Now that women are becoming economically independent and birth control is coming into vogue, we, too, shall have time to develop along mental lines.

WOMAN.

WHO ARE THE TAXPAYERS?

Chicago, April 4.—If you permit, I will inform Mr. Herbert N. Harris, who asks "Who are the taxpayers?"

It may interest him to know that, despite the lowering of real estate values and consequent reduction of rents, the tenant still pays the tax on premises occupied by him.

If a real estate owner has been unfortunate in his investment and is getting less rent than he should, he is only reaping the penalty that land speculators often suffer.

The cost of civic services is no less now than it was before the industrial slump and taxes are levied for the purpose of paying for those services—services that the tenant is a beneficiary of and expects to and does pay for.

MISSIONARIES HELD BY CHINESE BEG FOR RESCUE

$20,000 Ransom Asked; "Condition Pitiable."

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, China, April 8. — An urgent appeal was received today from the Rev. Bert Nelson and Christopher Tevedt, American missionaires, for aid in securing their release from communists who captured them last October at the Augustana synod mission in Honan province.

THE REV. BERT NELSON.

The Rev. Mr. Nelson, formerly of Minneapolis, and Mr. Tevedt are being held for $20,000 cash ransom by the communist sixth army, now occupying extensive territory in western Anhwei province. The missionaries report that 10 wealthy Chinese are also being held for ransom.

The message today came by a courier sent out by Augustana mission. Several couriers set out recently with supplies, but were captured by bandits on the way. One, however, got through to the communist camp with medicines and other needed supplies, and returned with the letter, dated March 26 and addressed to Dr. Ekiones of the mission. The missionaries ask for immediate relief, stating that their condition is pitiable.

U. S. Delegation Demands Action.

The American legation immediately made strong representations to Nanking, while Frank P. Lockhart, consul general at Hankow, interviewed two generals held responsible by Nanking for cleaning out the Reds. Mr. Lockhart demanded an immediate effort to rescue the missionaries, but the generals replied that they have not sufficient military strength to attack the Red strongholds.

Foreign legations here are greatly worried over the widening areas coming under control of communists and bandits. The whole Yangtze river valley is being overrun by the Reds, and this situation is complicated by factional wars among troops normally subservient to Nanking.

A band of 3,000 communists, who captured the town of Hwangchow, were driven out today. The town was practically destroyed during its occupation. Another 6,000 communists were repulsed when they attempted to take Fungkou, a town 30 miles from Hankow. Bombing planes manned by Nationalist aviators helped recapture Hwangchow.

Sailor on U. S. Ship Wounded.

Three factions are struggling for control in western Szechwan. Both sides of the Yangtze valley in western Hupeh are occupied by communist and rebel forces. The American steamer Iling reports that she encountered heavy fire both sides of the river 60 miles above Ichang. One of the crew was wounded. The British gunboat Gnat was also fired upon from both banks farther down the river. It was reported that the Ichang garrison has revolted against Nanking.

Reports from Nanking today said that fresh troops have been dispatched to Ichang.

MADEIRA REBELS CAPTURE 3 SHIPS FROM PORTUGAL

Spurn Offer of Peace by Negotiation.

FUNCHAL, Madeira, April 8.—(AP)—Gen. Sousa Dias, who has taken over the post of head of the junta in control of this city, today ordered a part of mobilization of reserve forces, threatening severe penalties for those who evaded service.

While troops were on the way from Lisbon three Portuguese ships in the Lisbon-Madeira-Azores service have fallen into the hands of the rebels. The steamers Alenter and Guinea put into Funchal, unaware of the trouble here, since they are not equipped with wireless. The Carvalho Araujo was seized when she arrived from Lisbon to take on cargo.

Reject Peace Negotiations.

LISBON, Portugal, April 8.—(AP)—Despite efforts to restore peace at Funchal, Madeira, by negotiations, reports reaching here tonight said the rebels there were persisting in their early demands that the Lisbon dictatorship retire before they treat with the government.

Because of this defiant attitude the government was determined to press measures previously agreed upon to put down the revolt. This does not preclude the possibility of taking the city by armed force under the protection of warships in the harbor. The first contingent of an expedition ary force was dispatched to the island from here yesterday.

For the time being, it was announced, no withdrawal of the American colony from Madeira is contemplated. This was decided after the American minister here conferred with the foreign office on the situation. The American and British embassies also communicated with their representatives at Funchal during the day.

British Cruiser on Hand.

Meanwhile, it was announced, the British cruiser London had arrived at Madeira to safeguard British interests.

Government circles announced that other garrisons were loyal and that the civil governor of Ponta Delgada, in the Azores islands, had reported the garrison there had refused an invitation to join the movement with Madeira.

The Lisbon government yesterday issued a five day ultimatum that the revolters surrender. At the end of this period it was declared members of the Funchal junta would be classed as rebels and dealt with accordingly.

Significance was attached to the sailing today of the transport Jubango with seaplanes and military equipment. It was escorted toward Madeira by the gunboat Zaire.

ROSENDAHL APPOINTED SKIPPER OF NEW GIANT DIRIGIBLE FOR NAVY

C. E. ROSENDAHL

Washington, D. C., April 8.—(AP)—A wind tanned veteran of sea and air ships, Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, was named today as master of the navy's monster air cruiser, the $5,375,000 dirigible Okron.

He will report April 15 at Lakehurst, N. J., to organize a nucleus crew of 11 officers and about 40 enlisted men, which will fly the trial flights of the dirigible near the end of July and deliver it to Lakehurst.

"Between six and eight weeks before the airship is ready to fly, we will go to Akron to become thoroughly familiar with the ship," he said.

"The main use of the Akron," he said, "will be as a scout with the fleet. The dirigible, together with the second one to be built, the ZRS-5, was planned for this purpose.

Roof of New Building Falls; 2 Dead, 10 Hurt

Berkeley, Cal., April 8.—(AP)—Two men were killed and ten others were injured, six seriously, when the new concrete roof of the Mechanics' building, under construction, collapsed at the University of California campus today. Americo Cabral died shortly after he was extricated from the mass of wet concrete, and Joseph Riley, another worker, died tonight from a fractured skull.

MYSTERY SIREN HEARD IN OCEAN; FIND SHIP MAST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE TOWN, April 8.—Tugs are searching the lonely coast 90 miles west of Port Elizabeth following a report from Robbe Hoek, near Storm river, in the Zitzikama forest, of the discovery of a ship mast floating in the sea. Previously there had been a persistant wailing of a siren heard somewhere off the coast.

The mast was hauled ashore. Near the top of it were two red flags, and lower down a large lantern containing parafin.

The find is mysterious since no ship has been reported missing or damaged at any of the coast ports. The searching tugs will return to Port Elizabeth tonight.

Don't take chances on RANCID OIL in STALE COFFEE . . . it causes Indigestion . . . Headaches . . . Sleeplessness

You're safe with Chase & Sanborn's . . . It's guaranteed fresh

Rushed straight from roaster to grocer . . . every can plainly marked with an expiration date

OIL IN COFFEE? Yes, approximately a half cup in every pound. Oil delicately fresh and fragrant as sweet butter when the coffee is fresh. But rancid, health-endangering when the coffee is stale!

Chase & Sanborn's gives you full protection from this alarming menace. This coffee is rushed to your grocer straight from our roasters, every can marked with an expiration date.

Regularly we inspect those dates . . . if we find any can whose date has expired, we remove it . . . replace it with a fresh can. Chase & Sanborn's Coffee is guaranteed fresh when you get it!

You will find this delicious quality blend reasonably priced . . . no higher than the ordinary packaged coffees.

Fresh coffee or stale . . . which shall it be? Remember that stale coffee contains dangerous rancid oil . . . approximately a half cup to a pound . . . and that this rancid oil causes indigestion, headaches, sleeplessness.

Fresh coffee is deliciously refreshing . . . a wholesome, mild stimulant provided by nature to brace us up! But be sure to use Chase & Sanborn's . . . the coffee that's always fresh.

Guaranteed FRESH! Look for the date on every can . . .

Don't think high price will protect you against stale coffee . . . It won't. As positive evidence that even high-priced coffees are often very stale, look at this photograph. It was taken in a Michigan grocery where the photographer bought an expensive coffee that was nine months old. His affidavit is on file!

"DEALER INFLUENCE"

...and WHY!

IT is a truism in advertising that THE SATURDAY EVENING POST stands head and shoulders above any other publication in dealer influence.

Just what is meant by that?

Merely this: dealers are inclined to favor merchandise advertised in The Post — to stock it, display it, give it special attention.

This is of course an important advantage to any product which looks to store co-operation as an aid to sale.

Goods advertised in The Post enjoy this advantage, simply because dealers have learned by experience that goods so advertised can be depended upon to move off the shelves!

YOUR dealer behind his counter sees advertising at work.

He is influenced by advertising in The Post because he knows his customers are likewise influenced.

ACCUSES 2 DRYS OF FORCING RUM SALE WITH GUN

Investigation Ordered by Federal Judge.

Charges that two federal prohibition agents from Chicago forced Joseph Batera, proprietor of a soft drink parlor at 15839 South Halsted street, Phoenix, to sell them liquor at the point of a pistol, thereby providing evidence on which the place was subsequently raided, were made in the court of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday.

Batera appeared before Judge Wilkerson on a plea of guilty, but when the court had heard the story of the defense attorney, State Representative Frank E. Foster of Harvey, he directed Assistant United States Attorney Eugene A. Tappy to investigate, and continued the case until April 20, allowing Batera to change his plea to not guilty.

Charges Drys Used Gun.

Attorney Foster told the court that his client was forced to sell liquor to the prohibition agents because they used a gun to enforce their demands.

"Do you mean to say that they pointed a gun at the defendant and forced him to make a sale?" asked Judge Wilkerson.

"Yes, the agents, William Green and L. D. Bundy, entered Mr. Batera's place on Jan. 19," said Attorney Foster. "One of them pulled a gun and put it against the side of a customer, who ran into the rear room. Mrs. Batera was in this room, and when she saw the dry agent's action she called the Phoenix police.

"The police arrived and disarmed the prohibition agent. Then they put both of them in their automobile and restored the gun which had been seized, directing them to be on their way. In the meanwhile the dry agents, who had represented themselves as street car conductors, had purchased liquor. The place was raided on Jan. 26."

Offers to Investigate.

Prosecutor Tappy said at this point that he had not heard of the alleged display of firearms and offered to investigate.

The agents, who did not appear in court, said later that Agent Green took off his coat to play a game of pool and that his gun was seen by Mrs. Batera. Then denied that the gun was used to force the sale of liquor.

FATE OF SIX NEGROES TRIED IN ALABAMA IN HANDS OF JURIES

Scottsboro, Ala., April 8.—(AP)—Two Jackson county juries, after deliberating for several hours on the fate of six Negroes tried on charges of attacking two young white girls who were "bumming" their way on a freight train, were locked up for the night shortly after 9 o'clock when neither could report an agreement.

Three Negroes already have been convicted with the death penalty for the offense.

One jury considered the fate of five Negroes, four aged 17 and the fifth 16, for whom the death penalty was asked, and the other that of Roy Wright, 14, for whom the state agreed not to ask execution.

The 14 year old Negro was placed on trial shortly after the other jury had retired. The two girls appeared for the state and the Negro was the only defense witness. He admitted he was present, but denying participating in the attack.

18 to Represent City at C. of C. National Meeting

Eighteen members of the Chicago Association of Commerce are to represent the city at the annual meeting of the chamber of commerce of the United States, which will be held at Atlantic City, beginning on April 29. Ellis, James B. Forgan Jr., Robert C. Ross, George W. Rossetter, C. L. Rice, William P. Sidley, Harold C. Smith and Alan M. Wilson, and nine alternates.

FORMER YANKEE TAKES SEAT IN HOUSE OF LORDS

Served in 2 Wars Under American Flag.

LONDON, April 8.—(AP)—A former professor of Columbia university, who served America in two wars, today gained the right to enter the house of lords, where he hopes to be of service when American questions are raised.

VISCOUNT EXMOUTH. Ernest Pellew was chemistry professor at Columbia until his aged father, a naturalized American, gave him the title in 1923 and died a few months later.

(C) Harris & Ewing Photo.

He is the seventh viscount Exmouth, who as Charles

The present viscount was born in England but went to America with his father when he was 8 years old. He lived there fifty years, serving in the Spanish war and as a member of reserves in the world war. Since the father became a naturalized American, the son at 21 was considered an American instead of an Englishman.

"Before father died at 94," he said today, "we quietly talked things over. He said that he wanted me to come to England to be of any service that I could. This was almost his dying wish, which I am doing my best to gratify. In the lords I hope to be very quiet, but when any American question arises my advice as a former American may be of some service, I want to be able to help play the game."

The viscount's mother was the daughter of Judge William Jay of New York, and he has married two American women. His first wife was the daughter of a New York professor, and the second, whom he married at the time he gained his title, was Mable Gray, a chemistry demonstrator at Columbia.

The second wife came to England with him after their honeymoon. They have been awaiting passage of the necessary number of years for his readmission to British citizenship. This has just been gazetted, thus opening the doors of the house of lords to him.

Remove carefully the Humidor Pack from a package of Camels and fill it with water. If you have not injured the seal at the corner you will note that it holds the water perfectly without leaking.

Now make the same test with the ordinary Cellophane or glassine wrapping found on other brands. See how quickly the water seeps through and escapes.

Cigarettes in prime condition have a moisture content of about 10%. It will be seen by the Chart that cigarettes in the ordinary wrapped package lose more than half of their total moisture in thirty days and that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition.

All is not moisture-proof Cellophane that glitters

DO NOT be misled by a mere shiny wrapper. The Camel Humidor Pack should never be confused with either the glassine or the ordinary Cellophane wrapping sometimes found on other cigarettes.

Our Humidor Pack is made of moisture-proof Cellophane, which costs nearly twice as much as ordinary Cellophane and is air-sealed at every point.

It is not put there merely to catch the eye but to perform a real service to the Camel smoker.

Because it is both air-sealed and moisture-proof, it keeps Camels always in mild, factory prime condition. It also guards the cigarettes within from contamination by dust or dangerous germs.

As you light a Camel fresh from the Humidor Pack, note how mild and cool and easy it is to your throat. Compare its fragrant mildness with the bite and burn that comes from the smoke of a stale or dried out cigarette.

Everywhere today people are talking about the new delight they have found in this blend of choicest Turkish and mellowest Domestic tobaccos.

Remember, Camels are the only cigarettes in the true Humidor Pack.

Switch to Camels for just one day, then quit them tomorrow if you can.

NEVER GOT U. S. JOBS "PAID FOR," WITNESSES SAY

G. O. P. Dixie Politician on Trial at Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., April 8.—(AP)—After half a dozen government witnesses had testified in federal court here today they paid John B. Dove money to get federal offices for them and he did not deliver the jobs, Dove attempted in vain to show purchase was the usual method of obtaining appointive federal offices.

Dove, a locomotive inspector for the Atlanta Joint Terminals company and active in Republican party affairs in Georgia for several years, is on trial charged with violation of the patronage act and with misuse of the mails in the sale of offices.

Postmaster E. K. Large of Atlanta was the first important defense witness. He was asked only one question:

"How did you go about getting your job?"

Clint W. Hager, district attorney, objected on the ground of irrelevancy. M. S. Hayes, assistant to Dove, who is conducting his own defense, told the court the intent of the question was to show payments to party leaders were generally required for appointment to federal offices.

Defense Witness Ruled Out.

Judge Marvin Underwood upheld the government's objection and Large was excused from the stand without speaking a word.

The first three witnesses of the day presented the greater part of the government's case.

J. P. Benson testified that early in 1929 he paid Dove $500 to bring about appointment of his son, Ernest, as postmaster at College Park, Ga.

Charles O'Neal said Dove promised to effect the appointment of his son, Wade, as deputy clerk of the Northern Georgia District court on payment of $276.

C. E. Westbrook told of paying Dove $1,000 for appointment as collector of internal revenue here.

Called President "Herbert."

Several other state witnesses told of other smaller payments to Dove on similar promises. All pictured him as claiming great influence and personal friendship with such government and party leaders as President Hoover, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, the President's secretary, Walter Newton, Dr. Hubert Work, former national party chief; former Postmaster General Harry New, and J. R. Nutt, national treasurer. They said he called the President "Herbert" and claimed all he had to do to get a hearing at any government or party office in Washington was to "go and knock on the door."

100,000 FINNISH WOMEN DEMAND DRY LAW REPEAL

Petition Says Drinking Is Increasing.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, April 8.—(AP)—Prohibition leaders of Finland today accepted the challenge made in a petition signed by 100,000 women of the country asking repeal of the Finnish prohibition law, and were preparing tonight to organize meetings throughout the country at which an effort would be made to have many of the signers withdraw their names.

The petition, which was signed by scores of women prominent in Finland's civic and professional life, was being prepared today for presentation to the president of the republic. Declaring themselves to be "advocates of true temperance," the women express anxiety over the fate of future generations because of what they allege to be a continuous spread of drunkenness in Finland under the present dry statute.

The 100,000 women signed as individuals, it was explained, and not as members of organizations. The list of signers include Annie Furujelm, member of the diet for many years; Cely Mechelin, daughter of Leo Mechelin, last Finnish statesman; Fiin Malin, leader of social workers; Naemi Ingman, principal of a girls' school, and wives of editors of Finland's leading papers.

"We feel ourselves powerless," the women declared in the petition, "while prohibition, with its destructive moral consequences exists, instead of a sensible law for controlling consumption of alcohol under which it would be possible to begin truly effective temperance work."

The petition charges that the present prohibition situation in Finland is growing worse each year and has resulted in smuggling and increase in murder, and the advent of cases of drunkenness among women and children, which were formerly said to be unknown.

BURKE IN CELL ARRAIGNED FOR APRIL 20 TRIAL

St. Joseph, Mich., April 8.—[Special.]—Fred Burke, the gunman, was held without bonds to the April 20 term of the Berrien Circuit court today by Justice J. J. Collier on the charge of killing Policeman Charles Skelly in December, 1929.

Burke waived preliminary examination when arraigned in a corridor in the jail before the justice. Outside the cell was Burke's lawyer, Charles W. Gore. Burke himself did not speak, but puffed vigorously at a big cigar.

Gore would not state whether or not Burke would plead guilty when arraigned in Circuit court before Circuit Judge C. E. White.

Charles Bartlett and Thomas S. Kennedy, Detroit attorneys, visited Burke today and proffered aid from Burke's former Detroit friends. Burke thanked them, but said he "didn't need it."

Poet Provides Slender Plot for This Novel

He Pampers Mother and Works in Mill.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"AMBROSE HOLT AND FAMILY," by Susan Glaspell [Stokes], is my idea of a novel that could just as well never have been written. It makes me hope that it gave its author great pleasure and a little soul satisfaction in the writing, because thus it would justify its being.

SUSAN GLASPELL.

Not, mind you, that "Ambrose Holt and Family" is badly written or badly constructed or bad enough to be funny, or really bad at all. But just that it isn't good. Perhaps it is only my mood, induced by the fact that reading a book every day does tear down the eye muscles. If complete blindness is to be my lot some time within the next 60 or 70 years, I would rather earn blindness with positive rather than with negative books. If one is going to spend the all eyes on a book, better an out and out, howling failure than one that, like "Ambrose Holt and Family," makes one wonder why it was written at all.

Susan Glaspell started her literary career at a very early age with "The Glory of the Conquered," in 1909 which was partly about the University of Chicago in her student days there.

It was received with more than the usual praise. The years intervening between it and "Brook Evans," which was published in the fall of 1928, were filled with passionate cries from her admirers for more—if not better—novels from her promising pen.

"Brook Evans" failed to engender any violent huzzahs from this source, but some others were not so lukewarm about it. "Ambrose Holt and Family" stirs even less of a feeling that in this book the American novel has a great practitioner. It is about —mostly—a woman called Blossom who didn't like being called that because, although she looked like one, she felt very much more like her real name, Harriette. Blossom had a husband who looked like a Greek god, was a modern poet whose work nobody exactly understood, and provided handsomely for his wife and two children, also for his mother, by working for his father-in-law in a steel works.

The mother had cared for him during his youthful years by teaching school, so he felt he should provide for her in her later years. His idea of being a good son was to insist upon her having breakfast in bed, which she loathed doing, and refusing to let her teach his son, which she yearned to do. The reason the mother had had to care for her son was because her husband up and left her.

The resolving circumstance of the book is the return of the ne'er-do-well father of the hero, Blossom's eagerness to keep everything that might worry her hero from him until he finished some poems which he was doing, and his anger when he found out that his wife had been doing his thinking for him without his permission. It isn't much of a plot.

We wouldn't cavil at the fact that there isn't much of a plot to "Ambrose Holt and Family"—there is almost none to some of the most beautiful pieces of writing—but somehow the characters involved in the fragile plot are fragile themselves. They don't seem really alive. You feel they are alive to the author, in some strange fashion, but that she hasn't been able to share them with you.

If you didn't feel that they were alive to the author, the book would seem insincere. It doesn't. It is an earnest and, you feel, the situation between Blossom and her husband, is a vital problem of married life to the author. But it isn't to you, and that's that.

Or maybe it is to YOU! Maybe you will think that "Ambrose Holt and Family" is a vivid, vital book. Maybe you will think that it matters terribly that it was written. Maybe you will feel that this reviewer is non compos mentis when it comes to recognizing real worth. That would be wonderful, for it would prove to this person that she was wrong about "Ambrose Holt and Family" being negative. Nobody gets excited, either for or against a negative piece of work. If you—any of you—get excited over this novel, sit down, as the radio listeners are always being importuned to do, and tell us so!

Autobiography of Lincoln Steffens Out Today, Two Volumes.

Today is also the birthday of "The Autobiography of Lincoln Steffens" [Harcourt Brace] which grows in two volumes and through which we are at this moment pleasantly cantering, and about which we will talk at length anon. He says, "My story is of a happy life—happier and happier." As lives go, Lincoln Steffens' has been made happier and happier. It didn't just grow that way. The how is the trick.

And. . . .

And also seeing the light for the first time today is Felix Salten's "Samson and Delilah" [Simon & Schuster]. Mr. Salten is the one who wrote that delicious "Bambi," you remember. A wild creature of a different texture is the hero of "Samson and Delilah." Herr Salten has written it like a modern novel—the tale of Samson and the three women who dominated his life.

A new and revised edition of "The Book of American Negro Poetry," edited by James Weldon Johnson [Harcourt Brace], is published today. It is a comprehensive anthology of the poetic achievement of the American Negro.

HOW VISITING BRITONS VIEWED AMERICANS RECALLED IN LONDON

LONDON, April 8.—(AP)—The adventures of J. B. Priestley, English author, at the outset of his lecture tour in America have aroused discussion.

George Gordon, president of Magdalen college, Oxford, brought to mind the experiences of Charles Dickens, who paid his first visit in the winter of 1841 and celebrated his thirtieth birthday in the United States.

"He was given a reception more cordial than any visitor since La Fayette and thoroughly enjoyed it. His 'American Notes' proved that he admired much in America, but he could not excuse the penal system, the pigs that made New York their playground, the yellow press, the universal habit of expectoration, and the immoral denial of copyright privileges to English authors."

Thackeray in 1852, Prof. Gordon said, delivered his "English Humorists of the Eighteenth Century" at the rate, so he remarked, of nearly a pound a minute. He reported that "the prettiest girl in Philadelphia, poor soul," had read "Vanity Fair" twelve times. His lectures were very successful, and three years later he returned and gave his "Four Georges." He said nothing particular about America in his letters home except upon the beauty of American ladies. He published no book.

Freeman, a historian, visited America, was liked and heartily returned the liking. Herbert Spencer went to America incognito and disappointed his hosts by an assumption of privacy.

Matthew Arnold in 1883 went expressly as a lecturer, but he was not impressive. Even his personal appearance failed to satisfy; indeed, a Chicago newspaper remarked that he had "harsh features and supercilious manners," and parted his hair down the middle.

Italian Movie About Naples Is Shown Here

Critic Says It Resembles Early Films.

"NAPOLI CHE CANTA."
[When Naples Sings.]

When Naples sings
All hearts are gay;
And love and laughter
Rule the day!

Produced by Cines-Pittaluga.
Directed by Mario Almirante.
Presented by the Studebaker theater.

FEATURING.
Anna Mari, Lillian Lid, M. Todd, Giorgio Curti, and Carlo Tedesco.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning.

Right off the reel I want to register gratitude for the story synopsis which precedes the showing of the Italian film on the Studebaker's screen. It's a great help! May other exhibitors with a yen for displaying foreign films go and do likewise!

While this picture has interesting moments and presents some fascinating glimpses of Italy, it is, in the main, jerky, poorly photographed, and reminiscent of movies of an earlier day. The story, a trite romance with no unusual complications, is told mostly in pantomime with a rather rasping musical accompaniment. There are one or two bits of dialogue and a couple of songs—one charmingly sung by a girl whose name I don't know. The acting is earnest.

Far superior to the feature film is a scenic that precedes it. This is enchanting! It takes you on a tour of sunny Italy—and, O, Italy IS beautiful!

See you tomorrow!

U. of Illinois Dean of Liberal Arts to Retire on Sept. 1

The board of trustees of the University of Illinois, meeting in Chicago yesterday, accepted the resignation of Dr. Kendric C. Babcock, dean of the college of liberal arts and sciences since 1913. His retirement will become effective on Sept. 1.

DR. K. C. BABCOCK

In commenting on Dean Babcock's request that he be allowed to retire, President Harry Chase of the university said:

"I am happy to know that he has come to the time at which he can enjoy life free from the burdens of a dean's office. On the other hand, it is with regret that I contemplate the active termination of a career that has been so distinguished and useful."

HOOVER PROCLAIMS CHILD HEALTH DAY; IT'S SET FOR MAY 1

Washington, D. C., April 8.—(AP)—President Hoover touched upon a subject in which he is intensely interested today in issuing a proclamation designating May day as child health day. It said:

"Whereas, The congress by joint resolution has authorized and requested the President of the United States of America to proclaim annually that May day is child health day; and

"Whereas, The responsibility for the well being of children is a community responsibility as well as an individual duty;

"Now, therefore, I, Herbert Hoover, President of the United States of America, do call upon all governors of states of the Union and all governors of territories and possessions of the United States to declare to their people that May day should be used wherever possible as child health day, for the consideration of all public and private measures by which the health of our children may be conserved and advanced. I specially commend for consideration on that day 'the children's charter' as set forth by the White House conference on child health and protection.

"In witness thereof I have here unto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"HERBERT HOOVER."

The President today received three boys whose skill and handicraft with wood won them trips to the capital.

They were George Easter, Jacksonville, Fla.; Thorleif Knudtzen, Oak Park, Ill., and Wilfred Schurink, Mobile, Ala. They won contests sponsored by newspapers, playground associations, and other organizations cooperating with the national committee on wood utilization of the commerce department in its campaign for utilization of lumber.

Young Knudtzen constructed a miniature carriage entirely hand carved and containing only one piece of metal. Wilfred Schrunk built a jardiniere and a pedestal of vari-hued woods, and Easter built a speedboat from a second-hand packing box.

Wilbur Calls on U. S. Further to Reduce Illiteracy Menace

Washington, D. C., April 8.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Interior Lyman D. Wilbur tonight called upon the American people to end illiteracy "once and for all." While stating that the recent census had shown a real improvement in the campaign to diminish illiteracy, Mr. Wilbur asserted that the situation in many states still remains a challenge to the pride of the American people.

"Recent returns from the bureau of the census on 16 states," Secretary Wilbur said, "show a 12.6 per cent reduction of illiteracy during the decade. In 1920 these 16 states reported 1,160,781 illiterates. In 1930 they had reduced the number to 1,013,623, or by 147,158. The District of Columbia lowered its number from 10,509 to 6,611. That was a drop of 37 per cent. Alabama reduced its number by nearly 27,000, Mississippi by nearly 20,000, and Arkansas by more than 25,000.

"A critical observer may scrutinize the returns from the 16 states and embarrass us with a sharp question. If the reduction has been 147,158 in 10 years, or 12.6 per cent, he may say, then at that rate for those states it may take 70 years to eradicate illiteracy."

Touching on conditions a decade ago, Secretary Wilbur said:

"The census of 1920 challenged us with startling figures on our national illiteracy. At that time nearly 5,000,000 of our citizens over 10 years of age neither could read nor write. Of these nearly 4,500,000 were adults above 20 years of age.

"As a nation we ranked tenth among nations of comparable size throughout the world in the number of illiterates. These statistics, ominous, formidable, challenging, merely accentuated shocking discoveries about our uneducated citizenry, were brought out in clear relief during the world war."

Iowa College Seeks Youths of Extra Talents

Would Cut Time Spent at High Schools.

Mount Vernon, Ia., April 8.—[Special.]—Why hold a high school pupil to a rigid four year course if he is intellectually and temperamentally prepared for college in three years?

The answer of Cornell college, a substantial and pioneer institution located here, is to send such pupils on and they will be admitted to full freshman standing.

Dr. Herbert J. Burgstahler, president of Cornell college, in announcing the new plan, declared a certain percentage of high school pupils now are made to mark time a year, sometimes longer, due to rigid curricular programs in high schools. Curricula in all high schools today, said Dr. Burgstahler, fail to take into account variations in the personality patterns long known to psychologists.

"There are groups of students in all high schools who never could be ready for college," Dr. Burgstahler said, "but on the other hand, there is that other group invariably found in all high schools who are marked by social maturity and intellectual capacity sufficient for college admission. These are held back by the superstition that a high school training should be four years long. In many cases, due to lack of the stimulant of an adequate course challenge among pupils of this pattern, the result of the rigid four year plan is very bad. Students become lazy, or get themselves into careless study habits."

The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the educational control centers of the central west, has given permission to Cornell college to make the experiment. The college was founded in 1853, and prides itself on traditions which run back to the years before the founding of its namesake at Ithaca, N. Y.

Prof. Floyd W. Reeves of the department of education, University of Chicago, has been appointed by the North Central association to supervise the Iowa college experiment. He will be assisted by a committe consisting of Prof. Carl E. Seashore, psychologist, at the University of Iowa, and Dean T. R. McConnell of Cornell college.

The basis of selection announced by the committee requires applicants to rate in the upper one-fourth of their high school class. During the first year of the experiment not more than 25 such students will be admitted. The final sifting of applicants will be made by means of tests of high school courses taken by the students, psychological examination, and personality schedule. The tests announced by the committee will be the well known standardized placement tests in critical use by progressive colleges and universities as entrance examinations.

The approval given to President Burgstahler's plan by the North Central association means that Cornell college credits earned by these gifted students who may not have presented conventional high school credits, will be fully accepted by all colleges and universities of the country on the same basis as before the experiment was begun.

THE STAGE

A SPECIAL matinée performance of "Petticoat Influence" will be given at the Harris theater tomorrow by Helen Hayes and her company for the benefit of the Actors' fund. Miss Hayes' engagement in Chicago has been extended two weeks, or until May 2. She will omit Sunday night performances for the rest of her stay. And, although she is headed for Hollywood and the films, she has signed a contract with Gilbert Miller for stage appearances next season in a comedy by Franz Molnar, the master mind of the Hungarian drama.

The Theater Guild's last production of the season, a comedy called "He," adapted from the French of Alfred Savoir, will be given its first appearance in Philadelphia April 27. Paul Muni, recently added to the Guild's roster for the leading rôle, has dropped out of the company because he felt that he was miscast, and Tom Powers has replaced him. Other names on the play bill will be Violet Kemble Cooper, Pedro de Cordoba, Edward Rigby, Edith Meiser, Ivalo Frayne, William Gargan, Victor Kilian, and Robert Le Sœur.

"Up Pops the Devil" will pop off the stage of the Selwyn theater and out of town next Saturday night. Then the Selwyn will take a brief vacation. . . . "The Student Prince" is preparing to move out of the Grand Opera house after compelling two extensions of its engagement. Its stay there will end April 18. Another operetta revival, in the form of "My Maryland," will follow.

Jane Cowl will drop "Art and Mrs. Bottle" out of her so-called repertory after Saturday night's performance in Grand Rapids, Mich. She will continue her tour to the Pacific coast with "Twelfth Night" as her only vehicle. Which suggests that Shakespeare is still regarded by the average American audience as a better playwright than the fellows who toss off such trifles as "Art and Mrs. Bottle."

The chief social event of the theatrical week will be the motion picture ball at the Stevens hotel Saturday night. It is sponsored by the film and vaudeville interests, but the legitimate stage will be copiously represented among the revelers.

Man with "Iron Neck" Arrives Today for Circus

When the Great Peters steps from a New York Central train at the La Salle street depot at 5 o'clock this afternoon it will mark the end of a journey that started fourteen days ago in Bremen. Peters, who is said to possess an iron neck and who concludes his act by dropping fifty feet through space with his head in a regulation hangman's noose has never appeared in this country and speaks only German. His engagement here with the Sells-Floto circus at the Coliseum marks the first time in America for such a feature. The circus opens Saturday afternoon.

Only Thrones Missing While Royalty Weds

Splendor Marks Palermo Cathedral Ceremony.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PALERMO, Sicily, April 8.—With regal sumptuousness in the old Arab-Norman cathedral here today, Princess Isabelle D'Orleans et Bragance [or if one wishes Portuguese, Briganza], daughter of Prince Pierre D'Orleans et Braganca, became the bride of Prince Henri of France, count of Paris. In times more felicitous for royalty, he would have been known as the dauphin, or crown prince.

Twenty-seven princes and princesses and several hundred dukes, duchesses, counts, countesses, barons and baronesses, admirals, general, ambassadors, much like a roll call based on the Almanac de Gotha, attended the ceremony. Also there was a strong representation of "Camelots du Roi," headed by Leon Daudet, editor of the royalist paper L'Action Française.

Cardinal Lavitrano, archbishop of Palermo officiated. Vatican authorities had hesitated about that for a long time, because of the expected presence of the Camelots du Roi and Leon Daudet, who have been under the displeasure of the Vatican for some years, M. Daudet having been excommunicated.

The wedding cost the bridegroom's father 5,000,000 lire, or about $250,000. After today's ceremonies at the cathedral, 1,000 guests sat down to a wedding breakfast in the garden of the old Orleans palazzo here. Five thousand glasses were used in the table service, and into them were poured 1,000 bottles of wine. The healths of the prince and princess were toasted in 300 bottles of champagne.

Fishermen for the last few days have raked the coasts of Sicily for several hundred lobsters which were served as one of the dainties for today's royal luncheon. Afterward the guests danced among the palms and flowers which make the palace of the exiled Orleans branch of the Bourbons resplendent.

Isabella, who one day would be queen of France, if the third republic did not bar the way, is a handsome princess, and made a beautiful bride today. From her photographs in newspapers, she might be mistaken for Helen Wills. The Count of Paris is 23 years old.

The couple married today are distant cousins and both are descendants of Louis Phillipe, "the citizen" king of France, ousted by Napoleon III's coup d'etat in 1848. Their fathers are both pretenders to thrones. The prince's father, who is the duc de Guise, would be king of France if political thinkers of the last century had not disturbed the course of French history. And Isabella's father, Prince Pierre de Orleans et Braganca, claims the throne of Brazil over which his ancestor, Dom Pedro II., reigned as emperor.

For today's wedding ceremonies, both the cathedral and at Orleans palace, had been richly decorated with brocades and lilies of France, among which were mingled the insignia of the former royal house of Portugal. The wedding guests met this morning at Orleans palace and went by automobile to the archbishop's palace, which is near the cathedral, and there the marriage cortege was formed. This cortege, headed by Cardinal Lavitrano and his suite, together with all the delegates of the cathedral chapter, then crossed Matteo Bonelia street, which was laid with rich damask carpets, to the cathedral.

The marriage party practically filled the church and polychreme policemen were posted everywhere in the streets and before the church. After all had been seated, Cardinal Lavitrano took his place on the throne. The prince and princess knelt before him. The usual ceremonies to which the answer is "yes" were begun, and then the royal couple signed the register with a golden pen presented by Prince Spadafora, who is the Podesta [mayor] of Palmero.

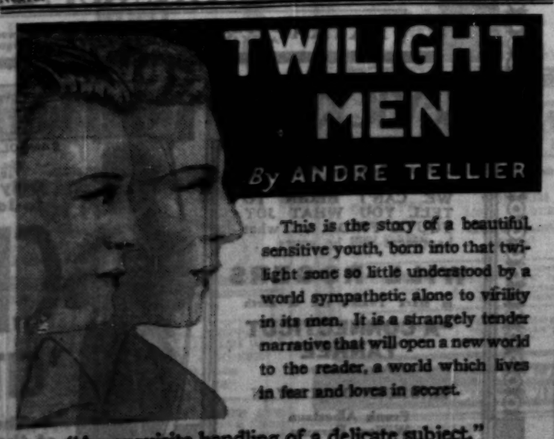
Princess Izabella's eyes glistened with tears as she signed. Witnesses for the prince were the duke of Apulia and Prince Carlo of Bourbon; and for the princess the witnesses were Prince Pierre Henri of Orleans et Bragance and Prince Adam Czartorisky.

Long Lines of Kings Are Recalled by the Wedding.

The title count of Paris was worn by Hugues Capet when, in the tenth century, he became king of France, starting the third of that country's dynasties. A sideline from that family reigned for centuries as the Valois kings, of whom Louis XI. was a famous one, and in the fourteenth century the Valois gave way to another side line, that of the Bourbons. The French revolution of the late 18th century brought the death of Louis XVI. and the rise of Napoleon I. The fall of Emperor Napoleon brought back the Bourbons, Louis XVIII, Charles X., and Louis Philipe, "the citizen king."

The coup d'état of Louis Napoleon, after the fall of Louis Philipe, brought a new empire, followed by the Franco-Prussian war, the Paris commune, its overthrow, and the rise of the Third Republic.

Brasil was discovered by Vincente Pinson in 1499 and was allotted to Portugal under the famous "line of demarcation," issued by Pope Alexander VI. (Rodergo Borgia). Spain took Brasil in 1578 and held it until 1640. That year put the house of Braganza on the throne of Portugal. That job was held with varying fortunes until, in 1807, Dom John VI. fled the Napoleonic invasion. He went to Brasil, leaving a viceroy in Portugal. A member of the house of Braganza ruled Brasil more or less until the abdication of the constitutional monarch, Dom Pedro, in 1889. The revolt of Portugal that threw Manuel of Braganza off that throne was considered a thriller in the years preceding the world war.



TWILIGHT MEN
By ANDRE TELLIER
This is the story of a beautiful, sensitive youth, born into that twilight zone so little understood by a world sympathetic alone to virility in its men. It is a strangely tender narrative that will open a new world to the reader, a world which lives in fear and loves in secret.

Swedish Club of Singers Gives Spring Concert

BY EDWARD MOORE.

THE spring concert program of the Swedish Choral club at Orchestra hall last night consisted in great part of excerpts from the best known oratorios, though with a reasonable admixture of part songs sung in English and Swedish. It is a fine, sturdy, standing chorus and Conductor Harry T. Carlson has worked with excellent effect at developing vigor, balance, and attack.

"The Heavens Are Telling," from Haydn's "Creation" was an example that illustrated these points at their highest. It was the best performance of this selection that these ears have heard in a number of seasons. As a complimentary token of former days, the organization's former conductor, Edgar Nelson, took the stand to direct the final number, the Hallelujah chorus from Handel's "Messiah."

The assisting artist and a notable one, was Amy Neill, violinist. She played the Mendelssohn Concerto, or at least two movements thereof, with a spirit, finish, and lovely tone that marked her, as she has been for a number of years, as one of Chicago's finest violinists. There were calls for an encore, whereupon Miss Neill went from Mendelssohn to Krisler, and with equally ingratiating effect.

Something new in instrumental combinations appeared at Kimball hall last evening when Gaylord Brown and Gibson Walters played music for two violins with Gertrude Krieg at the piano. It was not only new but greatly interesting and entertaining. For some reason two violins and a piano worked out to be somewhat less highbrow and more spirited and exultant in mood than the customary trio of violin, cello, and piano, and the Vivaldi-Nachez Concerto in A minor became a first class introduction for this talented three. Further appearances will be welcomed.

Associated with them on the program was Theophil Voeks, pianist, who was heard in the Bach-D'Albert Prelude and Fugue and the Chopin B minor Sonata. These he played faithfully and studiously, if somewhat more weightily than the case altogether demanded.

965 Homeless Children Will Be Guests at the Olympia Circus Today

Three groups of homeless children, 965 in all, will be guests of the management at the Great European Olympia circus at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow and on Monday. The first group, 415 boys from the St. Mary's Training school of Des Plaines, will be entertained tomorrow afternoon. On Monday afternoon 250 girls from the same school will be guests at the performance, along with 300 youngsters from the Jewish Home Finding society.

A percentage of the proceeds of the Saturday performances is to be donated to Senn High school to be used in defraying the expenses of sending the school's championship band to Tulsa, Okla.

DREISER QUITS WEST IN HUFF OVER TALKIE VERSION OF HIS BOOK

Hollywood, Cal., April 8.—[Special.]—Theodore Dreiser, storm center in more recent controversies than one, left by plane for New York today after a final conference with officials of the Paramount motion picture studio, in which the author expressed dudgeon over the manner in which they were adapting his "American Tragedy" for sound pictures.

B. P. Schulberg, managing director of the studio, issued a statement that "we proposed to Mr. Dreiser that he wait until the picture was finished and then look at it with us, because we do not think he was able to judge capably. Mr. Dreiser's contract with us enables him to make suggestions which we may either accept or reject at our discretion."

Shortly before leaving Dreiser said, "If the film suits me, Paramount can show it. If it doesn't, I'll see they can't show it."

Exercise Proves an Effective Means of Beautifying the Skin

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Coarse pores and blackheads! What an overwhelming number of inquiries are made of every beauty editor anent these skin beauty destroyers! Blemishes that in blackhead form, at least, escape few skins at one time or another. The oily skin gathers the largest number of victims, but either or both conditions may exist in almost every type of skin—dry, oily, semi-dry, semi-oily.

There is argument among certain of our skin authorities that coarseness of pores, up to a certain point, cannot be regulated any more than one can regulate the coarse texture of the hair. You're born with that texture of skin and you are apt to have to cleave to it throughout a lifetime. But that conclusion refers only to the difference one finds in skin texture—very fine, medium, and coarse grade. It does not apply to conditions that exaggerate pore openings, such as over-activity of the sebaceous glands, in which the excessive flow of oil extends and enlarges the pores. This excess oiliness is responsible for most of the complaints we get.

In a dry skin another cause is run into. If the skin lacks tone through poor circulation, the oil secreted in the glands becomes thick and cheesy, clogging the pore openings and eventually distending them appreciably. The first remedy here is pretty obvious, and is borne out in a recent experiment reported to me. A certain girl noticed that her hitherto unblemished skin was becoming cloudy and coarser of texture, with blackheads appearing on her nose and around her mouth corners.

For other health reasons, she and a chum started walking downtown to work during the cold January and February months. There was no idling along the way, you may believe. The consequence was that the improved circulation cleared the skin most effectively and there is now none of the coarse, grainy texture apparent.

O. D.: THE BLEACH FOR THE underarm is peroxide and ammonia—a teaspoonful of peroxide to which is added a drop of household ammonia.

S. T. L.: BORAX MAY BE ADDED to the bath water occasionally, but it should not be used generally. It makes the water soft, but it is an alkali and abstracts fat from the skin.

Domestic Burden Will Be Lightened If Woman Works

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I entered into my present marriage because of an invalid mother who needed my personal care. My husband is extremely kind, devoted, and easy to get along with, but he lacks one greatly important thing—ambition. To begin with, he is greatly handicaped because of his limited education. He left school at 13 to help support his family. When I am alone with friends it's all right, but I become self-conscious on account of his faulty grammar and speech, and so find myself drawing more and more within myself.

"I'm in my early thirties, but have had a lot of trouble, my greatest misfortune being my only child's injury at birth. She is perfectly helpless physically. At 8 she is unable to sit, walk, talk, or even use her hands normally. She is a beautiful child, but so helpless. Our child means everything to my husband. He loves her dearly. If our financial circumstances were better all this would be much easier to bear. I know he does his utmost, so what more can I ask? But at times I'm so discouraged and think of what's ahead in anything but a patient spirit. What do you think of this? HELEN."

"Helen," why don't you try to rearrange your life so that you can get out and do something and add to the income? Couldn't the child be entrusted for awhile to the care of a nurse? Even if the latter expense used up most of your earnings at first, what matter? With the impetus to do for her, you might make an exceptional success of whatever undertaking you chose. I'd consider that seriously.

Then, another thing, I'm sure you could get your husband interested in night study to catch up with his retarded schooling. You could work along with him, encouraging him, urging him. Your kind of man would seem the most adaptable and responsive kind of material for such help from you.

The point is that one can improve her conditions, if she goes about it right. Drawing more and more within yourself is the wrong way. You are young enough to get out and make a success of something you have a particular aptitude for, and though I realize you have a heartbreak in the little girl, still for her sake you could very well be inspired into some profitable activity. And if you don't think kindness, devotion, and love from a husband aren't a very great blessing, you just ought to sit in with me here and listen to tales I hear from wives whose men may be money successes, but whose lives are bitterly desolate of just the things you have from your husband.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Encourage Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: I know that a fellow likes me very much, but he never asks me out. DAISY."

Perhaps you have never made him feel his attentions would be welcomed, Daisy. It's essential to give young men some encouragement.

King of Siam's Adviser to Lecture Here Today

Raymond Bartlett Stevens, former member of the house of representatives and now adviser to the king of Siam on foreign affairs, will lecture at the University of Chicago today at 4:30 p. m. His subject will be "Siam." Mr. Stevens was once special counsel for the federal trade commission and later a vice chairman of the United States shipping board. While in Chicago he is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank.

TOKIO, April 8.—(AP)—The king and queen of Siam attended a flower festival in Hibiya park today in honor of the birthday of Gantama Buddha.

Their majesties were welcomed by the mayor of Tokio, who addressed them in English. Crowds at the ceremony wore both modern morning dress and the kimonos of the older order.

The king is en route to the United States to consult an eye specialist.

Stop Being a "Skinny" Weakling

DAILY the letters pour in telling how new Ironized Yeast has added pounds of good solid flesh in few weeks. Has built up new strength and pep in nervous, tired people. Has banished constipation, indigestion. Has cleared skin to glowing health and smoothness, new good looks.

Why New Ironized Yeast Builds Weight So Quick

This amazing new Ironized Yeast is two tonics in one—special weight-building, dried brewer's Yeast, and blood-enriching strengthening Iron.

The yeast is the same used in making malt and which makes malt so beneficial. It is specially cultured and concentrated to give the utmost in flesh-producing value. This special treatment makes it richer than plain yeast in those wonderful vitamins which revitalize the sluggish body cells, drive out dangerous body poisons, tonic the nerves, stimulate the appetite, increase energy and endurance, and build up weight and strength. Double-tested for strength, purity and potency. Used by physicians and big hospitals.

To this concentrated dried brewer's Yeast is added three kinds of easily assimilated Iron, to quickly make rich, red blood and tone up nerves and muscles. By this special process, Ironized Yeast is made more effective than yeast or iron taken separately. No starches, flours or gastorming fillers.

Gain New Pounds, New Strength and Pep

Don't have a "skinny," weak body. Don't suffer with nervousness, sleeplessness, constipation, indigestion. Get a bottle of Ironized Yeast from your druggist today, and you should build up your weight and strength quickly. Rhea L. Munroe, C. A. Moore Jr. Are Engaged

BY THALIA

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES ANDREWS MUNROE of Chicago, New York City, and Greenwich, Conn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Rhea Logan Munroe, to Charles Arthur Moore Jr. of Greenwich and New York, son of Charles Arthur Moore of Greenwich and Mrs. Spencer L. W. Stewart of New York City.

This exciting news was revealed at a large dinner-dance the Munroes gave last night at the Casino. The party also served as a debut for Miss Munroe, who was to have come out next fall, and as a farewell to Chicago by the Munroes, who are planning to sell their residence at 1234 Lake Shore drive and move east permanently. The guest list included about 200 young people and also a group of Mr. and Mrs. Munroe's friends.

Miss Munroe, who is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan and the late Mr. and Mrs. Merrick Munroe of Middlebury, Vt., attended Rosemary Hall and the Oldfields' school in Maryland. She has been traveling in Europe for the last six months. She is to be one of the maids of honor for the wedding of her cousin, Phoebe Logan, and Joseph B. Verbell Jr., to take place Saturday afternoon at St. Chrysostom's.

Mr. Moore is a nephew of the Duchess Torlonia of Rome and New York, was educated in Europe, and is a member of the Racquet and Tennis club of New York, the Field club, and the Round Hill club of Greenwich. He is at present associated with the firm of Manning, Maxwell & Moore in New York. His grandfather, the late Charles Arthur Moore, who was at one time president of the Protective Tariff League of America, was a close friend of Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt.

BETROTHAL ANNOUNCED

MISS RHEA LOGAN MUNROE.

Announcement was made last evening of the engagement of Miss Rhea Logan Munroe to Charles Arthur Moore Jr. of Greenwich, Conn., and New York City.

The wedding is to take place about the first of June at Inverness Field Point Park, the Munroes' summer place. Mr. Munroe's business interests have been largely in the east for the last two years.

If Stomach Kicks Up, Beware!

Pain, Belching, Gas, Bloating, Heartburn Often Lead to More Serious Troubles

New Prescription, ACIDINE, Acts to End Torture and Danger of Acidity Quick

Don't run risk of getting serious, painful troubles that often result from burning acid stomach, gnawing pains before or after eating, belching, gas, bloating, heartburn and other stomach ills. A remarkable modern prescription, ACIDINE, stops pain, gas and headache from acidity almost instantly, and quickly soothes dangerous stomach irritation. ACIDINE is entirely different from other known remedies. Contains a marvelous digestant called Japtase. In laboratory experiments Japtase has been tested on certain starchy foods, which cause so much stomach distress. It digested 200 times its weight of such food in only 30 minutes.

Five other scientific ingredients neutralize burning acid, soothe irritated stomach lining, stop gas formation from acids. No other known remedy contains the scientific combination to end acid stomach troubles.

Physicians are prescribing ACIDINE as the best thing they know of for acid indigestion and dyspepsia. Since last year thousands have used it and praised it highly.

To get rid of acid stomach torture quick, get ACIDINE today. Costs only a few cents. Watch pain and gas disappear. Eat, drink and smoke all you like. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds your money.

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect returning home to England from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John says, magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister, Gertrude, became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Hilary had taken her war-invalided brother, Hugh, who had just died, away from home ten years ago to give her younger sister, Christine, and brother, Stephen, a better chance. Hilary's stepfather is the only sympathetic member of her family.

Shortly after their return John and Hilary become engaged.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. Her cousin Prue is her only friend. She has a private teacher, Miss Mead, while her cousins are away at school. Her father she knows as Uncle John. She senses she is different in some way from other children. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she sends Judith to the country. John is uneasy about Judith not being in school. He thinks it unfair to drag Hilary continually into the question of the child and Hilary feels that he has had enough interference in caring for Judith. John writes Gertrude for the truth. She replies that she cannot, as a decent citizen, send a waif of dubious parentage among other children.

Judith, at the farm of her former nurse Tracy's brother, is badly treated by the old servant. She has had no mail since her arrival. She meets Clive Harpenden, the little master of the home where she delivers cream for Tracy. Judy writes secretly to Prue.

Prue meets Hilary for tea and tries to enlist her aid for Judith. Hilary's vow not to interfere makes her rebuff Prue. They run into Tim de Morreville, whom Hilary and John met on the boat home. Tim drives Prue home and makes an engagement to drive her next day to visit Judith.

Falconer leaves town on a business trip.

Prue sees and talks to Judy and is indignant at Tracy's treatment of the little girl. Hilary, thinking over the problem of Judith, decides to write to John about her, and her letter is a great relief to him.

Tracy becomes unbearably abusive to Judy, and Judy decides to break her chains and run away.

INSTALLMENT XI.

JUDY'S FIFTH JOURNEY.

A clock in the village began to chime and, leaving her problem, she counted the strokes. Nine o'clock and there was so much to do before it was dark. She would not dare to light her candle later on, lest Tracy should see it and begin to suspect. Nine o'clock, she must wind up her watch so that she would know when it was time to jump. Feeling in the front of her vest and bringing it out, she felt her treasure, too, the fortune with which she was to face the world. How lucky she had that.

Prue's ten-shilling note! Prue had always been a friend; even the darling watch had been her gift. Prue did not think her a disgrace.

"O!"

Judy knew in a flash. She must go to Prue. Prue would hide her until they grew tired of looking and gave her up for lost. She would wash up and scrub and sew and do anything in the world for Prue, and she would not have to eat very much. And later, if she were in the way, Prue would help her to go far off where nobody knew and she could get work to do. In shops sometimes she had seen quite little girls serving, and she was tall for her age. Figures had never been hard to her, she would not make mistakes in the change.

Climbing out of the window at three in the morning because it would not be safe to wait lest the farm awake.

Hastily, in her stockinged feet, she gathered her things together as she planned.

She must get to Prue as quickly as possible, but when would there be a train? She did not know the way to the station, either, in the dark—she had only seen it once—and suppose the train were too late? Would it cost more than her ten-shilling note for the ticket? That was another thing.

"O," whispered Judy, "if only I knew."

"Nine shillings by train." Somebody has said something like that, but she could not remember who. Nine shillings by train . . . nine shillings by train . . . "and that's a clear saving of four shillings."

Clive! He had told her that first morning, sitting astride the fence, and watching the Flier pass to London. "Only five shillings by the Flier," he had said, "and you just stand at the gate and stop her as she goes by."

Judy's heart was racing, for at least she knew where to catch the long blue bus, the price of the ticket, and the hour it went through in the morning. Round about seven, the first one, Clive had told her, and, late as this was, she must take the chance.

Surely by that time they would barely have finished hunting for her on the farm, she thought, and she need not wait for the bus in Haydon, either, but run to meet it as far as she could along the road.

Twilight was beginning to fade as Judith gathered her few possessions as silently as a mouse. In her blue tailored coat there were two long pockets into which went gloves and handkerchiefs, and toothbrush, comb, and her precious piece of soap. Into the lining of her panama hat she folded an extra pair of stockings. She could wear two vests and two pairs of knickers easily; and her brown shoes, tied by their straps with hair ribbons knotted together, must hang around her neck until she was away from the farm.

Her dress, coat, hat and shoes were all set ready by the time she heard the farmer's heavy steps and, after them, Tracy's, and the echoing slam of doors. The farm was settling down for the night. Wrapped in her dressing gown with the bedclothes round her, dozing fitfully and starting awake, Judy awaited the hour before the dawn when she must set out on her fifth journey.

Falconer had said of the daughter he hardly knew that she seemed to have little of her mother in her and perhaps too much of him for her own good. In this he had been mistaken. Jenny had not been mouse-like, certainly, but merry hearted, yet something of the quality he had first seen in her—the way she had faced hardship and ill fortune, head high and without complaint—was surely in the little girl who jumped out of a farmhouse window to face the world—a world from which all hope had gone, but the slender hope of a friend.

Through all the terror and shame and troubled imaginings which Tracy had flung into her awakening mind, no thought had entered her head of pity for herself or blame for any one. Tracy hated and despised her, but she had always known that from the very first; Aunt Gertrude was ashamed of her, this, too, her heart had guessed; her father had gone away long since because she was somehow a disgrace to him and should never have been born, and he would not come back.

With the death of that dream, her stay in every hour of trouble and distress for seven years, Judith's courage had gone down before despair; and then, because in life there must still be some faint hope, however vain and far, or we should perish, two lights had lit her darkness suddenly, Prue and the long blue bus.

Climbing out of the window at three in the morning because it would not be safe to wait lest the farm awake, Judy had not been much afraid, though the thud of her fall sounded like thunder in her ears, and at every second she expected to see lights break out in the sleeping house. She had even resolution enough to carry the blanket with her, for suppose the farm hands saw it in the early morning and gave the alarm before she was well away!

Creeping in her stockinged feet over sticks that shrieked and snapped and stones that made her wince with pain, she was out of the gates at last and, speeding through the kindly grass, had reached the edge of the wood.

Then fear, like nothing she had ever known—a shivering physical fear—caught her and held her and she knew she could not go on. The wood was pitch black; a thousand horrors lurked within it which she could not face. Every fantastic tale of ghosts, every game of outlaws and revolutionaries, all the poor traitors dying in the Tower crowded into her mind and held her fast. She was afraid to turn her eyes from the dark wood lest some dreadful hand should shoot out and catch her; yet behind her the farm might be awaking to life. The blanket trailing in her hand, she stood with chattering teeth for moments that seemed like hours to her, until a beast in the farmyard cried to the night and gave her release. Running over the sleeping buttercups, she fled into the bracken and, flinging herself down, drew the blanket over her head.

It was a little better now, the bracken was tall and the blanket comforting. . . . She had not known that she was cold. How lucky she had brought the blanket! Closing her eyes and hardly daring to breathe, Judy began to count and count to shut out the terrors thronging the wood.

A cock crowed, and another, and another, and Judith awoke out of a troubled dream. Lifting an edge of her blanket, she saw that it was light and the hands of her watch pointed to nearly five o'clock. She must go.

She was cold and stiff all over, and as she stumbled to her feet she found she could hardly stand. But this would not do. Somehow she folded the blanket and hid it under the fern, then she began the descent of the hill into the heart of the wood, stamping as she went because her feet were numb.

Paris Combines Fur and Lace for Evening

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Opposites attract each other in new Paris fashions as well as in love. Those two most becoming, contrary materials—lace and fur—are brought together by Paris creators for evening with ravishing results.

White lace trimmed with mink is the favorite "opposite" combination. It is used by Maggy Rouff for her most alluring, transparent divided skirt ensemble; Patou favors it, and so do other sartorial dictators.

Redfern makes the evening ensemble sketched today of shiny white silk lace with a raised floral pattern on an open mesh background. The frock is extremely simple, with deep square décolleté which is the smartest evening neckline of the moment. The skirt tightly sheathes the figure almost to the knees and then becomes extremely voluminous. It's worn over a knee length georgette slip that gives full value to its transparency.

The cutaway lace jacket is fitted in at the waist and the surrounding mink band flares it smartly at the hips. The mink bands edging the bell sleeves do the same thing for them.

Silver slippers and off-white stockings were shown with this ensemble.

Here's a Way to Overcome Child's Fear of the Tub

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The little child of 2 or 3 who suddenly cannot be induced to take a bath was the subject of yesterday's article. We surmised some of the reasons why he may have been made to fear his bath. Today we'll give some suggestions for a cure, which you must not expect to accomplish suddenly.

In the first place, the threats, scoldings and forcings must be discontinued immediately. Then, the aim must be to eliminate the fear by replacing it with a pleasant association with the bathtub. Or, as we say, we must recondition the child to his bath.

For a while I would not expect him to get into the tub. Give him a sponge bath, instead. This might be given on a bath mat or in a foot tub.

Avoid everything unpleasant while in the bathroom. Be jolly, do silly, amusing things with the soap suds, etc. If there is a favorite animal or doll, bring it along and let it sit up on the wash bowl. Even make it a little bathing suit, and if washable, let the small son or daughter give it a bath. Or, if it isn't, wash its face with a little water.

Promise something specially nice after the bath, like a story or frolic, or perhaps a little present. But not as a reward.

After a few days, run a little water in the tub and make some little boats or corks or walnut shells with paper sails. Or get a little submarine, or gay boat. Still don't put your child in the tub. Sit on the floor alongside and play with him. Perhaps, let him play with a bath spray.

After a while talk about water—how plants need it and how birds sip it and tip their heads, and take their baths in a puddle, or a brook. When you first try out the big tub again have only a few inches of water and let it run in before he is in the bathroom.

So, by gentleness and jollity, by using your ingenuity and your own devices, or by my sugestions or others, you will gradually—perhaps in a few days, perhaps in a few weeks—overcome the fear that your little boy or girl may have developed in connection with a bath.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

This attractive day dress is decidedly graceful and slender. The slightly puffed sleeves gathered into narrow bands at the wrists lend charming individuality. It is most wearable in printed crêpe silk with plain blending contrast. Another effective combination is plain navy blue flat crêpe silk with white. Omit the lower sleeves and you have a smart short sleeved frock.

Pattern No. 3034 may be had in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material and ⅝ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

One of the best ways to overcome between-meal fatigue is to eat a sweet of some sort or drink a beverage sweetened with sugar.

stop work when you're tired out . . . eat something sweet

IT'S HARD to keep from making mistakes when you're tired out. And the more you try to fight off fatigue unaided, the quicker you'll reach a state of exhaustion.

The thing to do when you feel fatigue coming on is to stop work for a few moments and eat or drink something that contains sugar. The body is quickly revived by the physical rest and the "bite" of sweet food which is immediately digested.

Small cakes, cookies, candy, carbonated beverages, tea, coffee, chocolate and flavored milk drinks are appropriate for between-meal fatigue. People everywhere have proved the pick-up value of these snacks. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

"Good food promotes good health"

FOR ANY CHILD

CHILDREN are happy and carefree by nature, so when they cry for no apparent reason any careful mother worries. No one can always guess just what is wrong but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as baby has a fretful spell, is feverish and cross and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes it's a constipation. Just keep Castoria handy and give freely for any of the above conditions; relief will follow promptly.

All through babyhood, Castoria is a mother's standby, and wise mothers do not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Just increase the dose of Castoria and keep the youngster's stomach sweet and the bowels in good order.

To be sure of getting genuine Fletcher's Castoria you should look for this signature: Chas. H. Fletcher

Food Talk.

Mrs. H. S. writes: "I bought a small Dutch oven three years ago, but every time I cook in it the food becomes dark. I give the oven all possible care. . . ."

I assume Mrs. S.'s oven is the original type of iron oven. Like an iron skillet, pot, or waffle iron, Dutch ovens must be given a certain treatment to condition them before they are ever used. Many manufacturers furnish definite instructions for initiating their different pieces of equipment for good service. Often these instructions advise the same treatments that were used generations ago. Our grandmothers had many ways of treating their new Dutch ovens.

One of the old ways was to put hay and water into the pot and boil for several hours. After this boiling process the pot was scoured with ashes or sand and then washed with soap and water. Next the inside of the pot was oiled thoroughly and put inside the oven or in the fireplace or over an outdoor fire and burned for several hours over a low heat. This heating has a good effect on the inside surface of the utensil in that it prevents food from sticking and it gives it a greater resistance to rust. After this burning off with oil the pot should be washed in hot soda water.

Even though Mrs. S.'s oven is three years old it should respond to a conditioning treatment the same as a new one would.

CHOCOLATE MERINGUE PIE

1¼ cups milk	2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
½ square chocolate	2 tbsp. cornstarch
½ cup sugar	⅛ tsp. vanilla
1½ tsp. butter	1 pastry shell

Scald 1 cup milk with chocolate. Beat until well blended, add sugar, butter, egg yolks and cornstarch mixed smooth with the remaining milk. Cook 20 minutes, stirring constantly until mixture thickens, and afterwards occasionally. Add vanilla. Fill a baked pie shell with mixture and cover with meringue made of the two remaining egg whites and sugar, and brown delicately in a slow oven (300 degrees F.).

Yield: Six servings.

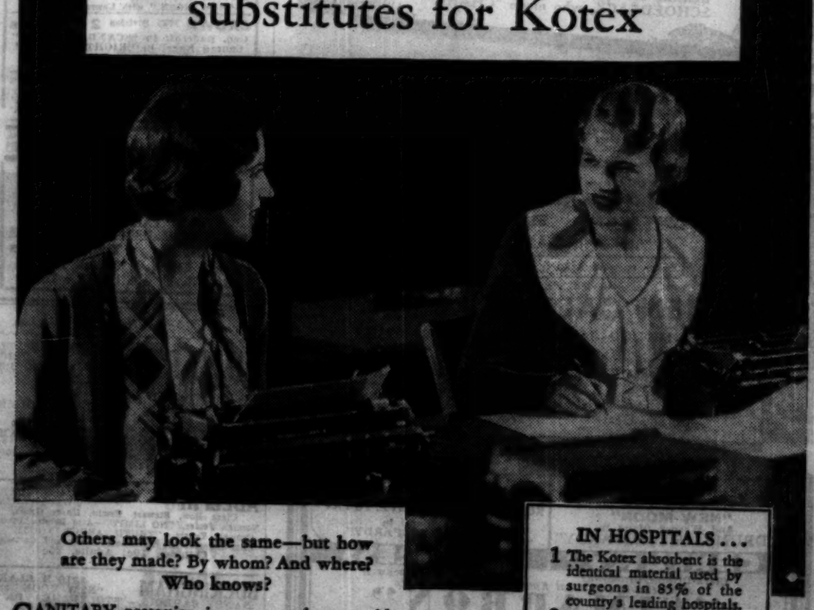
Harm may result when you accept so-called substitutes for Kotex



Others may look the same—but how are they made? By whom? And where? Who knows?

SANITARY protection is too closely related to your health . . . your personal ideals of cleanliness . . . to risk carelessly made substitutes for Kotex.

This intimate accessory should be clean—not only in appearance, but hygienically clean, through and through. Made in clean surroundings. Of superior materials. Careless hands should never touch a sanitary accessory, in any process of its manufacture.

Hospitals use Kotex

When your choice is Kotex, you have absolute assurance of safety. Hospitals used more than 10 million pads last year—it fully meets their requirements.

But how about those questionable substitutes, of whose makers you know nothing? Demand to know what they are made of, where, who stands back of them. You have a right to know—your health is involved.

Accept nothing that fails to meet the Kotex standard of hygiene. You can't risk doubtful substitutes at such a time. Only Kotex is "like" Kotex.

Leads in comfort

Kotex offers every refinement of protection. Super-softness—that lasts, because scientific structure leads moisture away from the surface. Careful shaping, for utmost comfort and inconspicuous lines. Kotex is treated to deodorize. It is made of Cellucotton (not cotton), absorbent wadding.

IN HOSPITALS . . .

1 The Kotex absorbent is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.
2 Kotex is soft . . . . Not merely an apparent softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.
3 Can be worn on either side with equal comfort. No embarrassment.
4 Disposable, instantly, completely.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Gummed Up Best Girl's Hair.

Recently while attending a sorority frolic I had the pleasure of dancing with my best girl. There was I, gilding gleefully along and rhythmically chewing my gum to the tune of the "Kiss Waltz," when suddenly something tapped my face.

You can imagine my embarrassment to see, swaying back and forth on my girl's hair, the gum!

STORY OF BANK'S FAILURE TOLD AT OFFICIALS' TRIAL

Jury Hears How 8 Million Was "Borrowed."

New York, April 8.—[Special.]—The sixth day of the trial of Bernard K. Marcus, president, and three other officials of the suspended Bank of United States closed with the actual evidence to date no more than the fact that two affiliated corporations of the bank borrowed millions over a period of months and paid back $2,000,000 on Jan. 13, 1930.

Most of the day was required by Mr. Steuer to go over the entire history of the Bank of United States, dwelling chiefly on how it was led to the largest failure this country has ever seen by two men, according to the prosecutor.

Traces 8 Millions "Loans."

First, Mr. Steuer told the jurors, sitting in Judge George L. Donnellan's part of General Sessions, that he intended to prove that the bank's funds were misappropriated and misapplied by Marcus, Saul Singer, executive vice president; Herbert Singer, Saul's son and adviser, and Henry W. Pollock, vice president and director. The fifth man named in the indictment, Director Isidor J. Kresel, is not on trial, having obtained a severance.

He described in clear detail the corporate structure and the method of bringing into being the many affiliated corporations through which $8,000,000 passed from the bank's fund and eventually back to the bank, wiping a long standing debt from its books.

The prosecutor told the jury that state bank examiners had found that the affiliates owed the bank around $7,000,000.

Tells of Meeting.

Mr. Steuer told of the directors' meetings following the conferences with the superintendent of banks. Mr. Marcus told these directors, in the presence of those who had attended the conferences and without a word of protest from them, that the superintendent had found the bank in excellent shape, with no criticism to make.

The specific charge against the bankers in the present trial is that on Jan. 13, 1930, they used the funds of the Municipal Safe Deposit company to purchase stock, and that, declares the prosecution, is a crime.

CHARGES AGAINST McCAFFREY AND 2 OTHERS DROPPED

Judge Charles A. Williams in the criminal court yesterday refused to allow the prosecution a continuance and separate trial for one defendant and Assistant State's Attorneys George E. Lavin and Ross Lee Laird then entered an order of dismissal in a conspiracy charge involving Attorney Eugene McCaffrey, Dr. Blaine L. Ramsay, and Daniel M. Agoa.

The prosecutors said they wanted a separate trial for Agoa so that he could be used as a prosecution witness against the attorney and the physician, who are alleged to have taken a $2,500 fee for a Bridewell pardon which they failed to obtain. Agoa was said to have been the go-between in the alleged transaction.

Boston Warns Chicago Gunmen to Stay Away

Boston, Mass., April 8.—[Special.]—Warned that Chicago gangsters were headed for Boston, Police Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman today delivered a "rout" ultimatum and threatened to use machine guns to carry it out.

"There will be no organized gangland in Boston," Supt. Michael H. Crowley said today, speaking for the commissioner.

"The police are waiting for them and they will be routed even if we have to use machine guns.

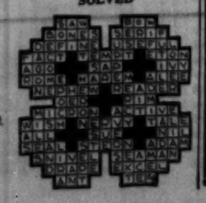
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: A Tough Spot

WILLIAM REHM FUNERAL RITES WILL BE TODAY

Member of Pioneer Chicago Family.

Funeral services for William H. Rehm, 65 years old, member of a pioneer Chicago family who died yesterday at his home, 1448 Lake Shore drive, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning in the chapel at Graceland cemetery, where the burial will take place.

W. H. REHM.

Mr. Rehm had been in failing health for nearly a year and had been confined to his home for several weeks. Formerly in the brewing business, since prohibition Mr. Rehm had engaged in the manufacturing business and was president of the Winslow Boiler and Engineering company. He was educated abroad and cultivated a great interest in music. He had composed several music pieces both for the violin and orchestra and was active in the formation of the Chicago Music association.

Mr. Rehm, the son of Jacob Rehm, who settled in Chicago in 1840, was a member of the Lincoln park board during the administration of former Gov. Dunne. His father had been one of the organizers of Lincoln park and had been chief of police of Chicago under the late Mayor Joseph Medill.

Mr. Rehm was one of the charter members of the Chicago Athletic association and was a member of the Chicago club. He was on the board of directors of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company and formerly was president of the Cosmopolitan State bank. His widow, Mrs. Clara Rehm, and a daughter, Mrs. John S. Coonley, survive.

KING BETTER, BUT PHYSICIANS TONE DOWN OPTIMISM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 8.—Some improvement was reported today in the condition of King George, but it was emphasized by the doctors that his improvement would necessarily be slow.

This cautious statement increased the public anxiety, as the British people remember the king's close call of two years ago. Lord Dawson of Penn motored to Windsor today and spent some time in a careful examination of the king's condition.

It was disclosed today that the king was indisposed before he went to Windsor last Friday, and also that his bronchial affection is regarded more seriously because of the result of his last illness, which left him short of a healthy lung tissue.

PROF. PALMER DIES SUDDENLY WHILE DRIVING

Claude Irwin Palmer, dean of students and for 26 years professor of mathematics at Armour Institute of Technology, died of a heart attack late yesterday while driving his automobile in 61st street near Drexel boulevard. He was 60 years old and lived at 6444 Greenwood avenue.

Prof. Palmer, who had been in ill health for some time, late in the afternoon visited Dr. E. S. Stewart at 826 East 61st street. After leaving the office he started driving east in 61st street, and apparently feeling the approach of a heart attack, stopped the car at Drexel boulevard. He attempted to get out, but fell to the pavement, his feet still in the car. Attendants from the Woodlawn hospital, directly across the street, rushed to him, but he was dead when carried to the hospital.

He was a member of several professional societies and the author of numerous works on mathematics. He was a member of the University, Midway Athletic, and National Arts clubs. Surviving are his widow, May, a daughter; Mrs. Ethel Swanson of Oak Park, and a son, Clark, a student at the University of Illinois.

Dr. Karlfeldt, Swedish Poet and Nobel Head, Dies

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 8.—(AP)—Dr. Erik Axel Karlfeldt, permanent secretary of the Swedish academy, which annually awards the Nobel prize in literature, died last night from a combination of bronchitis and heart weakness. Long regarded as one of Sweden's most gifted poets, Dr. Karlfeldt's poetry was chiefly concerned with the life and customs of the Dalecarlian peasants, from whose stock he sprang. He was elected one of the eighteen members of the academy in 1904 and since 1907 has been a member of the Nobel committee.

Hold Health Resort Head as Medical Law Violator

George Niswender, manager of the Wooster Lake health resort at Wooster lake in Lake county, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $1,000 on a charge of practicing medicine without a state license by Justice Henry F. Wallenwein in Waukegan. The complaint against Niswender was signed by an investigator for the state department of education and registration. The state charges that Niswender operated on a youth last summer, causing the loss of a foot through infection.

Radio Fans to Get Spirituals Again Tonight

A new program on the air seldom is accorded such a reception as was given last Thursday evening to the broadcast of the Dixie Spiritual Singers. These singers are to be heard again tonight at 7 o'clock over Station WLS.

Highbrow musical folk in the big cities, as well as lovers of spirituals the country over, responded with enthusiasm to the wonderful quality of these natural voices. The spirituals, as sung by this large group of negro singers, have a rhythm which once heard can never be forgotten.

The Dixie Spiritual Singers sing without accompaniment.

The group of songs on this evening's program includes, "I Want to Be Ready" and "Standing in the Need of Prayer." The programs will continue Thursday evenings at the same hour.

W. E. GANSCHOW FOUND DEAD ON ELECTION TRIP

William E. Ganschow, 55 years old, former member of the west park board, was found dead in the garage at his home, 2150 Pierce avenue, yesterday, after he had been missing for twenty-four hours. Death was attributed to a stroke of paralysis.

W. E. GANSCHOW.

Mr. Ganschow, who had taken an active interest in the mayoralty campaign, left his home early Tuesday morning to spend the day at the polls. When he did not return home Tuesday night, his family believed he was participating in the election celebration and did not worry until yesterday morning.

Noticing his car in the garage, an investigation was made and his body was found alongside the automobile. Mr. Ganschow appeared to have suffered a stroke as he started to unlock the door of his car. His widow, Mrs. Anna Ganschow, was prostrated.

Mr. Ganschow was head of the Ganschow division of the Gears and Forgings company, a Cleveland concern. He was born and reared in Chicago.

C. H. VEHMEYER, EARLY POLITICAL LEADER, DEAD

Chicago friends yesterday received word of the death in Los Angeles of Christian Henry Vehmeyer, wealthy Chicago settler and prominent in Republican politics here in the eighties.

Mr. Vehmeyer was 84 years old. Born in Germany, he came to Chicago with his parents as an infant. At the time of the Chicago fire he was employed by a powder company, and it was under his direction that much of the city's ruins was blasted and cleared away.

Chicago friends yesterday recalled his stories of early Chicago and of how, as a young man, he went to the barn each morning to chase slumbering Indians from the haymow.

Mr. Vehmeyer was an early settler of the town of Lake, a section six miles square extending south of 39th street and west of State street. Before this town was annexed by Chicago in the eighties Mr. Vehmeyer served as a village official. He was the organizer and for many years president of the Englewood State bank.

Until his retirement several years ago he was western manager of the Du Pont Powder works. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Alice Vehmeyer, and three sons, all of Los Angeles. Interment will be in Los Angeles.

Board Condemns Bill to Cut Schools' Time

A resolution expressing disapproval of a state senate bill which stipulates that five days be taken from school time each year for the holding of teachers' councils was adopted yesterday by the school board. It was pointed out in the meeting that Supt. William J. Bogan had recently issued an order that only four hours a year should be used for this purpose and that it was sufficient.

Children Win Right to Dogs in This Election

JUNEAU, Alaska, April 8.—(AP)—Juveniles and their dogs won the election yesterday. An ordinance prohibiting dogs running at large and requiring them to be on leash at all times was defeated, 276 to 272. A children's campaign was waged against the measure. Thomas B. Judson was re-elected mayor.

CUBA PRESIDENT FREES GROUP OF POLITICAL FOES

HAVANA, April 8.—(AP)—President Machado today released a group of political prisoners, among them Dr. Ofelia Dominguez, head of the women's labor union, and Dr. Guatimon Menocal, brother of the former president, both of whom were imprisoned last month.

He directed also that student prisoners recently transferred to the Isle of Pines be brought back to the Principe fortress where they were originally incarcerated.

Political observers interpreted the presidential action as indicating extension of amnesty to virtually all political prisoners. Special precautions continue against the possibility of disorder, but it has been reported large quantities of arms and ammunition are hidden in the island and trouble may come at the end of April after the sugar harvest.

SCIENTIST FINDS GASTRIC ULCERS COME FROM BRAIN

TORONTO, Ont., April 8.—(AP)—After 17 years of research Dr. Harry Cushing, noted authority on surgery of the central nervous system, announced today he has discovered gastric ulcers result from disturbances in that section of the brain known as the diencephalon, the seat of the primitive emotions and governing the majority of the automatic actions of living.

Gastric ulcer, he said, is one of the most common of present day maladies and is apparently increasing. It undoubtedly has a relation to the high speed and tension of modern life, he declared. Usually it is found to occur in those who are overworked and under emotional stress and the influence of worry.

Such emotions have their nervous control in the diencephalon. The same section of the brain also exercises a control over the digestive processes.

3 U. S. AIRMEN 'FIGHT' FOR PLANE TO FLY PACIFIC

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, April 8.—Three American airmen, Thomas Ash, Robert Short, and Maj. Schumacher, are now in Tokio as friendly rivals for the hazardous honor of attempting to fly the Pacific ocean in the plane City of Tacoma, which Lieut. Harold Bromley left here last year following his unsuccessful attempt to make the flight.

The question of which shall obtain the right to risk his life depends on the answer to a cable sent to George Buffelin of Tacoma, owner of the plane.

Until this morning the airmen did not know they were rivals. Short arrived in Tokio several weeks ago, claiming he had Buffelin's power of attorney to dispose of the plane. He went to Shanghai, where he met Schumacher, who offered to be his co-pilot. Ash arrived this morning. All three met a few hours later in the American consulate.

AT THE new low price

ALL THE WORLD WILL SOON BE ENJOYING THE CHAMPAGNE OF GINGER ALES

The substantial price reduction just announced by Canada Dry is a significant event. For now a new low cost is combined with exceptionally high quality . . . and the finest of ginger ales becomes one of the least expensive.

More than ever, Canada Dry Ginger Ale gives you value far above the price. Here is a ginger ale of such elusive flavor that connoisseurs have aptly named it The Champagne of Ginger Ales. A beverage so pure that hospitals serve it to their patients. All over the world, this is the favorite ginger ale because it is distinctive . . . because it adds an inimitable charm to every occasion.

Today, this fine old beverage costs but a few cents a glass! Its increasing popularity has decreased the cost of making and distributing it. And the saving is passed along to you.

3 to 5 cents lower

As in the past, the new low price of Canada Dry will vary. Sometimes, particularly at night, or when iced and delivered, it may be slightly more. But in all cases, you will find that a bottle of Canada Dry is now 3 to 5 cents cheaper than before.

Take advantage of this outstanding value, and let the sparkling zest of Canada Dry add more and more to your enjoyment.

SOX BEAT GIANTS, 12-9; CUBS TIE FT. WORTH

EIGHT HOMERS IN SMALL PARK PILE UP SCORE

Bush Tests Thomas for Opening Day.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Greenville, S. C., April 8.—The White Sox roughed things up considerably in the closing innings today and by so doing gave the Giants a beating they hadn't expected. The Chicagoans first whittled down a fat lead the New Yorkers had carefully built up and then salvaged the decision with a five run rally in the eighth. The score at the end was 12 to 9, and the spring training tour now is tied at six victories each, with four games to go.

For those who may marvel, or be amazed at the size of the score, it should be explained that conditions were not exactly conducive to a pitchers' battle. A brisk breeze headed from over the tiny grandstand into left field and the fence in left was not especially distant. Hence home running was not difficult of attainment. Eight home runs were exploded, five by the Giants and all except one of the eight disappeared over the same fence. Two of them were perpetrated by Hal McKain, who also pitched, and Irving Jeffries was responsible for another. He did his bit as a pinch hitter in the winning eighth.

Tommy Thomas Startes.

Tommy Thomas started pitching for the Sox and Manager Bush was highly interested in developments because he is debating whether Tommy or Caraway will be his choice on opening day. Tommy remained for six innings and was scored on four times, three of the runs being homers, but as long as the latter were freakish, the Baltimore blond's performance can be accepted as an indication that his arm is all right.

The late start made by the Sox was due to Joe Heving. He stopped them on one hit in five rounds, but in the sixth they began to busy themselves and scored three times. In the seventh they were busy again and sent Heving away with four more tallies against his record. Then they put on their noisy eighth and kept it going so long that Carl Hubbell, one of McGraw's leading southpaws, had to desert the scene.

Thomas is very sensitive about having errors occur while he is laboring and he had a couple of these to contend with in the first few innings. They did no harm, but were, nevertheless, annoying for Tommy. Cissell was guilty of one of the blunders in the second when, with two out, he invaded right field to get Marshall's popup. He dropped it. Marshall promptly stole second, but Thomas fanned Verges. In the third Elchrodt dropped Hogan's fly for two bases, but Thomas put on a little extra effort and induced the next three hitters to fly out.

Leach Makes Good Catch.

The Sox did little to Heving in the five innings, but they at least came close to a run in the third. Kamm fanned, Tate singled to right, and Thomas fanned. Cissell stepped in with a liner toward the left field corner and it was labeled for two bases until Leach stumbled over and picked it off his shoe tops. Then as an indication that the Giants wanted to celebrate Leach's unexpected feat, Terry whacked the ball over the center field wall in the fourth, putting the New Yorkers in advance by 1 to 0.

Three Giant runs in the sixth couldn't be charged entirely against Thomas. He was the victim of the funny type of ball park encountered in the occasionally sunny south. Critz started the session with a homer over the left center field boards. Leach singled. Lindstrom lined to right for what should have been a double, but the ball scooted under the fence and lost itself in some rocks. While Reynolds was conducting a one man searching expedition, Lindstrom followed Leach over the plate. Thomas then tightened up again and concluded his day's work by fooling the next three batters.

Heving's excellent performance began to fade out when he walked Tate to open the Sox half of the sixth, in which three scored. McKain, batted for Thomas and sailed the ball over the left field barrier. Cissell singled and dashed to third on a single by Simons. Cissell went home while Appling was forcing Simons and his rally blew up with a bang, when Elchrodt grounded into a double play.

Giants Score Four.

The four runs with which the Giants gave McKain a rousing welcome in the seventh started with a homer to left by Hogan. Heving and Critz added singles. Leach shoved Critz across the plate and went there himself by hoisting the ball over the same wall which was popular with the other hitters.

The Sox turned the home run racket to their own advantage in the seventh and hung up four runs, leaving them only by 8 to 7. The incident opened with Marshall booting Appling's roller. Watwood singled, Kamm popped out, and Tate singled, scoring Appling. Then McKain boomed his second home run to left, Watwood and Tate preceding him over the plate.

Here are the details of how the Sox happened to sneak into the lead in the eighth. Elchrodt walked and was hit when hit by Appling's grounder. Watwood batted for Kamm and

THE GUMPS—RIGHT FROM THE HEART

I SAW THE MOST WONDERFUL MOVIE THIS AFTERNOON— WHY IS IT— I WONDER— THAT HUSBANDS DON'T MAKE LOVE AT HOME LIKE THEY DO ON THE SCREEN?
DO YOU REALIZE— ANDY— THAT YOU NEVER NOTICE WHAT GOWN I WEAR? EVEN IF IT'S MY PRETTIEST— YOU COULDN'T TELL THE COLOR OF IT— I THINK A HUSBAND SHOULD BE MORE OBSERVING— A WIFE LOVES A LITTLE FLATTERY— HE SHOULD TELL HER ONCE IN A WHILE THAT SHE'S BEAUTIFUL—
NOW— THERE YOU GO— MY DARLING— AS IF YOU DIDN'T KNOW THAT YOU WERE BEAUTIFUL— WHEN A WOMAN IS BEAUTIFUL— SHE KNOWS THAT SHE IS BEAUTIFUL—
AND EVEN IF YOU WEREN'T BEAUTIFUL— MY LITTLE SUGAR PLUM— IN MY EYES— YOU WOULD BE BEAUTIFUL ANYWAY—

HAWKS BATTLE LES CANADIENS AGAIN TONIGHT

MONTREAL, Que., April 8.—(AP)—Ready for the battle of their lives, the Chicago Blackhawks arrived here late this afternoon to prepare for the struggle with the Montreal Canadiens for the Stanley cup, historic emblem of the world's professional hockey championship.

The teams each won one game in Chicago. They will play the third game in the best three out of five series at the Forum tomorrow and the fourth Saturday night. If a fifth game is necessary it will be played here Tuesday.

"The Stanley cup will be won and lost on Saturday night, and it will be a fight to a finish," said W. J. Tobin, manager of the Hawks, on his arrival. Tobin reported all his squad of young players in excellent shape. He paid tribute to the Canadiens for their pluck in games at Chicago and professed no qualms as to playing the deciding games on Montreal ice.

Although greatly benefitted by their rest since Sunday, several Canadien players still are in poor shape. Armand Mondou and Albert Leduc, who did not go to Chicago, have been out of the hospital only one day. Pete Lepine has a broken finger, and Howie Morenz has a gashed cheek and a wrenched shoulder. Johnny Gagnon has not yet returned from Chicoutimi, where he attended the funeral of his father yesterday.

Despite these handicaps, the Flying Frenchmen expect to have their full strength on the ice tomorrow.

MAROONS BEAT ALUMNI, 3-2, IN OPENING GAME

The University of Chicago baseball team made its debut under Coach H. O. [Pat] Page yesterday by scoring a 3 to 2 victory over the alumni in a seven inning game on Greenwood field. Fast defensive work by the varsity and some faulty base running by the alumni enabled the Maroons to win. The Chicago All-Stars appear against the Maroons in an exhibition this afternoon at 2:30. In the WAKE of the NEWS

CHICAGO BLACKHAWKS.

IF any one ten years ago had predicted that hockey, within a decade, would earn a definite place and following on Chicago's sport calendar and that a Chicago team would be battling in the finals for an international championship, most of us would have murmured "Poor fellow," and tapped our foreheads significantly. Yet that is just what is happening in this year of grace 1931.

Chicago's Blackhawks, after breaking even in two games in this city, tonight engage Les Canadiens at Montreal in the first of three more contests of the Stanley cup series.

Probably the chances favor the Canadian players. They are called the fastest skaters ice ever has known. They are called almost invincible in their own arena. They are handicapped to a certain extent by injuries, but we have found from football experience it is never safe to underrate a team on account of injuries. But it is not to estimate our chances that this article is written, but just to bring out what has been accomplished for this city by the band of sports enthusiasts who inaugurated hockey here.

When Maj. Frederic McLaughlin and his associates decided Chicago was "ripe" for hockey or ought to be "ripe" for hockey, they did not know much about the expense and griefs of hockey promotion. Perhaps it was well they didn't. If we remember rightly, the original promotional fund was $250,000. That's a lot of money, but it didn't last long. First, there was purchase of a franchise, then costly machinery for producing the artificial ice surface, then more heavy expense in purchasing players to supplement an unsatisfactory lineup.

So the promoting gentlemen found it necessary to "dig" and still to "dig." Meantime, they became such enthusiasts, or fans, that rumors grew they attempted to "manage", the club. We cannot say as to that. At any rate, Chicago had a pretty fair team, but not a consistent winner, and the ink used in the ledger was red.

Then, almost before fans in general knew what had happened, the Blackhawks were a fighting, winning aggregation; capacity crowds turned out; Chicago developed a permanent hockey following, and profits instead of deficits became the vogue.

So, whatever the result of this particular series in Montreal, The Wake wishes to congratulate those original hockey enthusiasts for their perseverance, or obstinacy, or whatever it was that is now rewarded from the viewpoint of accomplishment, and seems in a fair way to be rewarded financially.

Spring—And Romance.

The moon was low—the motor stopped,
I thought perhaps he did it—
I felt he liked me pretty well,
But bashfully had hid it;
His burning eyes looked into mine,
He grasped my ungloved hand—
"I've something I must ask you, dear,
I hope you'll understand——"
His face was red, he bowed his head,
These words came from his collar:
"My purse is in my other pants—
Please let me have a dollar."

Tributes to Rockne.

Scores of tributes, verse and prose, have come to The Wake with Knute Rockne their theme. In one day's mail nearly 60 per cent of the letters referred to Notre Dame's former football mentor. We do not recall ever before having received so many such appreciations. We greatly regret it is not possible to publish all of them.

Error in Sweepstakes Brings Mr. Herman $5,900

Wooster, O., April 8.—(AP)—Earl Herman, grocer of near Hermansville, here, had a ticket in the Irish sweepstakes, but the nearest person to him who won anything was one "Syri Sannon." He sighed and figured it wasn't any use. Then an official notice said Syri Sannon was an error and the winner should have been Herman, who has a ticket calling for $5,900.

Charley Paddock Starts Treatment for Dog Bite

Pasadena, Cal., April 8.—[Special.]—Charley Paddock, former sprint champion, began Pasteur treatment here today as a result of being bitten by a dog last week. Paddock attempted to stop a fight between two dogs, one of them his. The other dog developed rabies later. Paddock did not know which dog bit him.

EAST RESTS TURF HOPES ON HIGH PRICED HORSES

War, Costly as Yearling, Impresses Railbirds.

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Baltimore, Md., April 8.—Just for the moment, while eastern turf people are waiting for the stars among the three year olds to go into action, there is much speculation on what several high priced colts of that age whose reputations are yet to be made will do when they begin going to the post here within a few days.

There is War, for instance. He is a son of the great Man o' War. He cost the Sagamore stable $45,000 as a yearling in 1929. Then there is Illium, a son of Buchan, a famous English sire, which cost $26,500, and Barrido, which sold for $15,000.

Early Drills Impress.

Not one of these expensive fellows accomplished anything of note as two year olds. But their fine breeding lines, their good early season condition—they are training at one or another of the Maryland tracks—have impressed the horsemen here. It is possible one of them will come to the races this season and perform so well that Equipoise, Mate, Twenty Grand, Vanderpool, and Jamestown may be forgotten.

War is the colt Marylanders are speculating most about. For just the other day Dock Light, a four year old son of Man o' War, ran in a cheap race to be claimed for $2,250. Once upon a time he was just as good looking as War.

After commanding the enormous price of $45,000 as a yearling War failed to get to the races until late last year. Twice he disappointed the fans who flocked heavily to his support. Then he managed to win a race. He wintered well and is close to racing condition. He has been made eligible to all the three year old stakes in Chicago, Kentucky, New York, and Maryland. This is a good indication that Trainer Bud Stotler believes he will prove his greatness against the stiff three year old competition he must face this season.

But will War prove to be a New Broom, which brought $75,000 as a yearling and never won a race? Will he be a Hustle On, for which W. R. Coe paid $70,000 and never even got to the post? Or could he turn out like Broadway Limited, which sold at Saratoga for $65,000 and finally broke his neck as a three year old in Chicago without ever having won a race??

War Has "Something."

War is a fine looking fellow, but so were those other high priced ones that failed. But even the more pessimistic horsemen around Bowie, Pimlico, and Havre de Grace say this fellow works as if he has "something." If this is true and he should develop some of the brilliancy of his daddy, the Equipoises, Jamestowns, Mates, Twenty Grands and those good ones in the west, Insco, Pittsburgher, Oswego, and Don Leon, will have to look to their laurels.

Another colt among those whose racing reputations are not anything to brag about that is training in Maryland and is attracting attention is Dark Hero. He is owned by H. Teller Archibald of Chicago, but spent the winter in Virginia. He is at Pimlico, getting ready for the Preakness.

He looks like a real runner in his early preps. Whether he can carry on in the distance events for which he is being pointed only the running of the races will tell.

East's Trainers Confident.

If one can believe just half of what the eastern trainers say about their three year old charges, it appears that all the gold hung up in the series of Chicago and Kentucky three year old specials will be shipped to the Atlantic seaboard immediately after the races are run.

The easterners hear rumblings that Insco, the son of Sir Galahad III. in the care of Boots Darnell, may prove troublesome; that Pittsburgher, a big long striding son of In Memoriam, is showing some stuff at Churchill Downs, and that other colts which did not race much last year are promising.

If you want to wager ten to win seven the easterners will bet you the east gets first, second and third money in the Derby.

France Combs Its Armies for Golden Glove Boxers

BY ARCH WARD.

Fifty million Frenchmen can't be wrong!

But maybe they can be whipped.

We'll know on May 12, when the eight amateur boxing champions of France come to Chicago Stadium to fight the All-America Golden Gloves team. The United States squad will be made up of six Chicago boys and two New Yorkers, winners in the intercity title fights.

According to THE TRIBUNE'S sport correspondent in Paris, the American team is going to fight the military power of France. Armee de la terre, de la mer, and de l'air—the army of the earth, of the seas and of the air—is being combed for material. French soldiers are hardened by long marches and stern discipline and are trained by skilled instructors.

The selection and training of the team is entirely in the hands of the French Boxing federation. France has been divided into eight sections, each corresponding to a military district where instructors and equipment are available.

Amateur tournaments now are being held all over France. The eight winners in each district will go to Paris for the national championships next week. The victors in the Paris meet will comprise the team which will invade Chicago.

Most of the French boys who take part in athletics belong to a club. There are thousands of clubs scattered over the country, ranging from the humble working men's organizations to the palatial Racing Club de France and Stade Francais.

When a youth shows signs of talent he is taken over by a manager and trained in fundamentals. Later, he is allowed to spar with professionals. When he has progressed far enough he competes in interclub matches. Then, if he continues to develop, he is entered in the national tournament.

DEMPSEY SPURNS MAT.

Jack Dempsey has been offered the heavyweight wrestling championship. But he won't take it. He explained it like this when we met him in New York the other day:

"You know they want me to be the heavyweight wrestling champion. But nothing doing for me. Those mat fellows are too rough. They tell me that Londos chased Sonnenberg around the country for months trying to get a title match when Gus was recognized as champion. He finally caught up with Sonnenberg in Los Angeles, and to prove his superior skill slammed his man to the sidewalk right out there on the street.

"Can you imagine me walking down Broadway some evening in my best rags and having Strangler Lewis, Joe Savoldi, or some other strong man grab me by the seat of the pants and the coat collar and bounce me up and down on the pavement? Not for mine. I choose to referee boxing bouts."

Dempsey this morning is riding the rails to Salt Lake City, Utah, where he expects to spend the next few weeks in rest. He plans a hunting and fishing expedition before resuming officiating assignments.

SUCCESSOR TO ROCKNE.

There is a lot of speculation about the successor to Knute Rockne at Notre Dame. There may never be a man to fill his place. No athletic board ever was faced with a more difficult problem. But the Rev. Charles O'Donnell, president of the university, and his faculty committee won't have to look far for their choice. He will be a Notre Dame man.

There is no school with such a wealth of coaching material inside its ranks. It is our hunch that the athletic officials will take their time about naming a head football coach. There is nothing to worry about in the immediate future with men like Hunk Anderson and Jack Chevigny directing the work.

Helene Madison Breaks World Record in 75 Yard Free Style

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

Helene Madison, Washington Athletic club champion, set a new world's record of 54.3 in the 75 yard free style event, which featured the swimming meet between the Illinois Women's Athletic club and the Washington Athletic club last night at the Loyola university pool. Miss Madison also anchored the Washington A. C. relay team to a new world's mark of 1:56.9, which bettered the former record of 1:57.6, held by the Women's Swimming Association of New York.

Miss Madison now holds 45 swimming records, including 15 of world standing. The record the 17 year old swimmer created last night superseded that established in 1925 by Ethel Lackie by one and four-tenths seconds.

Third in Three Nights.

Miss Madison has established three new world marks in as many consecutive nights. The aquatic star is now on her way to the National A. A. U. championships in New York, where she first gained swimming prominence by netting three national records at the age of 16.

Dawn Gilson of the Washington Athletic club led the field to a sprinting victory in the 100 yard backstroke. Miss Gilson, swimming with ease, was the winner by five yards. Elizabeth Henry of the Chicago team tried in vain to lessen the distance, but only succeeded in placing second. The time was 1:16.7.

Give Diving Exhibition.

Georgia Coleman, women's national diving champion of the 10 foot board and high platform, appeared with Walter Colbath of the 1928 Olympic team in an exhibition of fancy diving. Walter Laufer of the Lake Shore Athletic club, national backstroke champion, gave a demonstration of various swimming strokes.

Mary Birks of the I. W. A. C. won the 50 yard breast stroke; Georgia Coleman, Los Angeles A. C., finishing second and Dorothy Wihr, I. W. A. C., third. The time was 39.4 seconds.

The attendance exceeded a thousand, the largest crowd ever to witness an indoor meet in Chicago.

Summaries:

100 YARD BACK STROKE—Won by Dawn Gilson, Washington A. C.; Marjorie Conavan, I. W. A. C., second; Elizabeth Henry, I. W. A. C., third. Time, 1:16.7.

220 YARD FREE STYLE (C. A. A. U. championship)—Won by Isabelle Smith, I. W. A. C.; Mary Gardner, I. W. A. C., second; Dagney Van Maastk, I. W. A. C., third. Time, 2:42.6.

100 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Mariva Lapin, I. W. A. C.; Edna McKibbin, Washington A. C., second; Betty Quinn, I. W. A. C., third. Time, 1:09.

50 YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by Mary Birks, I. W. A. C.; Georgia Coleman, Los Angeles, second; Dorothy Wihr, I. W. A. C., third. Time, 39.4.

ROBARTS STOPPED BY NORMAN IN FRONTON BOUT

Edgar Norman, Norwegian light heavyweight, scored a technical knockout over Harry Robarts at the Fronton arena last night. Norman had Robarts down for a nine count in the eighth round and when he went down again with a right to the jaw, the referee stopped the bout.

Marino Matusek and Buck Everett, heavyweights, fought a six round draw in the semi-finals.

Hank Bruder beat Billy Smith in one of the wrestling bouts in seven minutes with a flying tackle. Karol Zbyzko grappled Jack McCarthy to a decision in 22 minutes of wrestling.

BRUINS WOBBLE, BUT GET AWAY WITH 8-8 SCORE

Hornsby, Hartnett Hit Homers.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Worth, Tex., April 8.—The Cubs were lucky to escape with an 8 to 8 eight inning tie here this afternoon in their second contest with the Fort Worth Cats of the Texas league. The Cubs wobbled badly throughout the entire afternoon, reaching the peak of their day's contribution to their flop-a-day program with a five run blowup in the fifth inning. The game was called at the end of the eighth to allow the Cubs to catch a train.

The little beams of sunshine derived from today's exhibition were found in the fact that Manager Hornsby knocked one of his long home runs in the first inning and Gabby Hartnett tied the score with his No. 10 homer as a pinch hitter for Malone in the sixth. It was the second pinch homer Gabby has propelled this spring.

Root Likely Choice Tuesday.

The club left Fort Worth for Kansas City at 4:45 o'clock. Tomorrow they will open their perennial preseason series against the Kansas City Blues of the American association. Charley Root has been designated as the gent who will pitch for the Cubs, thus strengthening the dope that he will get the honor of pitching the opening game against the Pirates at Wrigley field next Tuesday.

The best the Cubs could do in the first inning was three runs, which wasn't such a great total when one considers that in the inning there occurred an error on Cuyler, a homer by Hornsby, a walk to Wilson and successive singles by Stephenson, Grace and Bell. There was no double play to halt the Cub enterprise, but rather the customary confusion that prevails whenever more than one Cub gets on the base lines at the same time.

On this particular occasion the big gum up was on what was at first interpreted as a wild pitch with the bases full. The runners all started forward, but Stephenson and Coach Schalk, at third, changed their minds and Stephenson started back to his station. This caused a general stacking up on the lines and Grace was easily trapped trying to get back on second. This made the second out and Grimm's long fly which followed immediately served no purpose other than to retire the side.

Cats' Rally Halted.

The Cats developed some action in their second, but a double play bobbed up to interrupt their scoring aim. Brown singled and went on to second when the ball got past Stephenson. Perry walked and the runners moved forward while Malone was throwing out Cox. Engle lined to Bell and Lee stepped on third to double Brown.

The score became 4 to 0 in favor of the Cubs when Grimm singled with one out and came home on Malone's double to center.

Fort Worth broke its string of zeroes with an unearned run in the fourth inning. Fowler doubled with one down and held second while English threw out Brown. Malone picked up Perry's infield single and threw the ball past Grimm, Fowler scoring and Perry taking second. Cox flied to Stephenson.

Wilson doubled to right center with one out in the fifth, and scored on Stephenson's single to left. Stephenson went to second on a wild pitch, but Grace and Bell flied to E. Moore.

Cats Take Lead in Fifth.

The Cats took the lead, 6 to 5 in the fifth. Engle singled and on the hit and run Myers grounded to Bell. Bell tried to throw clear over to Grimm, but the ball hit the ground near the pitcher's box. Lee didn't get an error, for the ball eventually hopped into Grimm's glove, but by that time Engle had reached third. Whitworth popped to English and then Moore singled to left, Engle scoring and Myers stopping at second. The runners advanced while Dalrymple was grounding out, after which Fowler walked, filling the bases. Brown bounced a single past Grimm, Myers and E. Moore scoring. Then Fowler and Brown staged a double steal. They scored when Perry singled to center. English threw out Cox.

Hartnett batted for Malone with one out in the sixth, and tied the score with a homer over the left field fence. Cuyler followed with a single off Dalrymple's glove and D. Taylor was sent to first to run for him. English doubled to right. Taylor stopping at third, whence he scored on Jurgen' fly to E. Moore. J. Moore walked, but the inning ended with Stephenson's foul fly to Perry.

Fort Worth Ahead Again.

In the Cats' seventh they got the bases full on a single by Baker, a double by Cox, and a walk to Engle, after which Myers singled to left, scoring two runs and giving the Texas leaguers an 8 to 7 advantage.

The Cubs tied the score in the eighth on a walk to Taylor, an infield out, and Jurgen' single. Jurgen went to second on the throw to the plate and to third on J. Moore's out. Then Egan heaved a wild pitch, but

PICK CLEVELAND AS SITE OF BOUT FOR WORLD TITLE

Schmeling and Stribling to Meet in July.

Cleveland, O., April 8.—(AP)—Papers officially naming Cleveland as the site and either July 3, 4 or 6 as the time of the proposed world heavyweight championship battle between Max Schmeling and W. L. [Young] Stribling were drawn up here tonight.

Submit Contract Today.

The practical clinching of the bout site was reached in conference between William S. Carey of the New York Madison Square Garden corporation, William Saxe, of the Illinois Madison Square Garden corporation, and Daniel E. Morgan and George H. Bender, manager of the new Cleveland stadium. The contract, it is understood, will be submitted for signature tomorrow.

The Garden officials said selection of the date will be announced later. The contracts as drawn up call for use of the 120,000 capacity downtown stadium on any one of the three days. If the bout is held on Independence day it would occur in the afternoon; otherwise at night. Joseph Jacobs, manager of the German title holder, is said to favor July 3.

Can Seat 120,000.

The contract as drawn up calls for a rental of $25,000 for the stadium. The corporation promoting the bout would pay all in excess of $12,500 in the expense of installing a platform and seats in the arena, which would boost seating capacity from 80,000 to 120,000. The promoters will handle all concessions and split profits evenly. They also will assume incidental expenses.

ST. JOSEPH BOYS' QUINTET WHIPS N. Y. TEAM, 19-18

St. Joseph, junior champions of the Chicago Catholic Youths' Basketball league, last night defeated St. Nicholas, titleholders of the New York Fordham Juvenile league, 19 to 18, at De La Salle gymnasium. St. Joseph of Joliet triumphed over St. Mary's, Desplaines, 18 to 5.

The Chicagoans held a 12 to 7 advantage at the end of the first half. It was the second setback the New York quintet suffered this season. They finished their regular twenty-six game schedule with only one defeat. Score of preliminary games:

Catholic All-Stars, 22; Catholic Youth All-Stars, 8.
Sacred Heart Girls, 6; St. Rita, 2.

PLAN STARTING CLASS FOR COLTS AT AURORA OVAL

Young horses that have had little experience in starting on a regulation track will be given two weeks of training at Exposition park, Aurora, beginning Monday. Johnny Morrisey, son of Harry Morrisey, will have charge of this work.

Hostlers are unloading large shipments of horses each day. The horse colony should number more than 400 by tonight.

The track management is highly pleased by the response of race followers to the announcement of a new clubhouse. Work on this building as well as other improvements is being rushed so that everything will be in readiness by May 1 when the track will be officially opened.

Royal League Bowlers Open Meet April 18

The fifth annual bowling tournament of the Royal League National Bowling association will open at the Goldamer-Harding alleys, 2701 Milwaukee avenue, April 18. On April 18, 19 and 20 the tournament will be open to local men and women bowlers. On April 25, 26 and 27 teams from Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio will bowl.

Riding Club Poloists Beat Brooklyn Trio

New York, April 8.—[Special.]—The Chicago Riding club polo team eliminated the Brooklyn Riding and Driving club from the indoor national open championship, 9 to 6½, at Squadron C armory tonight.

The strength of the Chicago trio was centered in Maj. C. C. Smith, who last fall played in Argentina with the invading United States army four. Maj. Smith scored five goals and was a veritable bulwark on the defense. His sweeping rides around the end of the arena saved many Brooklyn tallies, and once in the clear it was almost a certainty that Smith would convert his save into a scoring threat.

The Brooklyn team was outfooted and outgeneraled on top of the fact that the three men had played only one other game together as a unit. At half-time the score stood 3½ to 3 in favor of Chicago.

Chicago got off to a slow start in the opening chukker, but put on a burst of speed in the second that wiped out Brooklyn's early advantage. The first chukker found Pflug shooting two goals on passes from Sackman and Bill Nicholls before Chicago got organized. Then J. A. Hannah marked up a counter for the westerners on a pass from the dynamic Maj. Smith. A foul on H. J. Lorber of Chicago, and one on Nicholls made the count read 1½ to ½ at the end of the chukker.

Hannah scored another for Chicago at the start of the second chukker. Then Pflug retaliated for the R. and D. on a short shot as his teammates worked the ball down the arena. Chicago then went out ahead when Maj. Smith twice rode down the arena to score on driving shots. Before the end of the chukker a foul was called on Sackman and Nicholls broke loose for a goal.

Brooklyn's rally in the third chukker fell short. The two goals by Carl Pflug and one by Sackman were equalized by Lorber's pair and one by Maj. Smith. In addition there was a foul on Nicholls that gave Chicago half a point more advantage. The score at the end of the third chukker stood 6½ to 5½ in favor of Chicago. One of Lorber's goals was a long shot that traveled almost half the length of the ring and Sackman got his from three-quarters the length of the ring. Lineup:

CHICAGO R. C. [9].	BROOKLYN R. & D. [6½].
J. A. Hanna	No. 1 Carl Pflug
Maj. C. C. Smith	No. 2 W. A. Sackman
H. J. Lorber	Back W. H. Nicholls Jr.

Score by chukkers:
Brooklyn R. & D....1½ 1½ 2½ 1 —6½
Chicago R. C..... ½ 3 3 2½—9
Goals—Brooklyn, Pflug, 5; Sackman, ½ Nicholls, 1. Chicago: Hanna, 2; Maj. Smith, 5; Lorber, 2.

10 Horses Die, 18 Rescued in Palatine Fire

Seven race horses and three colts perished, and eighteen other race horses were rescued from two flaming barns at Mrs. Anna Dean's racing stables, 266 Hicks road, Palatine, yesterday. Mrs. Dean, the widow of Charles Dean, could assign no cause for the fire which burned one barn almost to the ground and ruined the hayloft in the second.

A motorist saw the flames from the barns shortly after midnight and awoke the Dean household across the road. Mrs. Dean, her son, Ben, and attendants, hurried to the scene. Ten horses had already perished in the ruined barn. Ben Dean rushed into the adjacent barn, where the hayloft was on fire, and with the aid of attendants, rescued the eighteen horses which were trapped downstairs.

Most of the horses belonged to a string which Mrs. Dean had purchased recently from former Congressman Stanley Kunz.

The damage to the barns was estimated at about $3,000.

3—HAPPY SCOT, Nonjoyce, Barrido.
4—Portam, Pink, Semester.
5—Era, Stupendous, Buddy Basil.
6—Spectacular, Silver Scepter, Shark.
7—Otilla, Moon Phase, Royal Charge.

Bowie, Md., April 8.—[Special.]—In the presence of Vice President Charles Curtis and the largest week day crowd since the meeting began, S. W. Labrot's Fortunate Youth today won the Century purse at $30.20 for $2. He was the extreme outsider in a field of five, but his mutual price was surpassed by others.

Peace Dove, which ran in $1,000 claiming races in Florida and changed hands for a much smaller sum in a private sale, won the secondary feature, the Fads and Fancies purse, and paid $108.70 for $2. She, too, was the absolute outsider in a field of six and was meeting fillies with stake pretensions.

Fortunate Youth was sent to the post by that long shot specialist, Dr. J. Fred Adams, who has put over two of the longest shots of the meeting in Hold Hard and Pegg's Pride. A long siege of racing at New Orleans failed to land Fortunate Youth in the winning column and it is no wonder that he was neglected in the betting when he went out for the mile and sixteenth of the Century.

He lost no time going to the front and despite the fact that such horses as Sandy Ford and William T. were forcing the pace, he held his position without undue difficulty. Mrs. C. Crane's Butter John finished second. Sandy Ford was a distant third.

Londos Beats O'Shocker in St. Louis Mat Show

St. Louis, Mo., April 8.—(AP)—Jimmy Londos, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, threw Pat O'Shocker of Salt Lake City here tonight in an hour and six minutes with an airplane whirl and slam. In the semi-final Karl Pojello, 194, Chicago, tossed August Bankert, 198, New York, in 19:25.

PUT OUT SHRUBS IF YOU WOULD DRAW SONGBIRDS

BY BOB BECKER.

With bird time and planting time coming together, the home owner can score a bull's-eye in his work to attract desirable birds around the house by introducing into his yard several varieties of shrubs which yield edible fruit. Just as quail and pheasants may be kept on a certain tract of land by seeing that they have three square meals in winter and summer, so it is possible to bring song birds into one's yard and keep them around by appealing to their stomachs. In fact, this approach plus an abundance of nesting sites tells the story of holding desirable, entertaining songsters around a home.

Bird fans, who want to turn over the soil and plant a few shrubs that will provide lunch counters for the birds, will find the following table of value.

Mulberry for Woodpeckers.

Mulberry [scientific name, Morus]—Fruit liked by the yellow billed cuckoo, red headed woodpecker, downy woodpecker, kingbird, starling, Baltimore oriole, cardinal or red bird, purple finch, scarlet tanager, cedar waxwing, red eyed vireo, yellow warbler, mockingbird, wood thrush and robin. More than 50 kinds of birds will eat the fruit of the mulberry.

Sumac [scientific name, Rhus]—We have found that this is an attractive shrub in a yard. More than 40 birds eat the fruit of the sumac, including the following desirable species: Bob white, downy woodpecker, red bellied woodpecker, common flicker, phoebe, starling, vireo, mockingbird, catbird, brown thrasher, black capped chickadee, hermit thrush, robin, wood thrush, bluebird. In Chicagoland the woodpecker, catbird, thrasher, chickadee, robin, and bluebird are fairly common and worth while around the home.

40 Birds Like Bayberry.

Bayberry [scientific name, Callicarpa]—This attractive shrub is another favorite with the songsters. The fruit of the bayberry is eaten by more than 40 birds, including the common flicker or yellow winged woodpecker, starling, cardinal or red bird, waxwing, brown thrasher, robin, and bluebird.

JUMPY?

Jumpiness is a sign that your nerves are awry. And nervousness may just mean you're not smoking the right cigar. El Toros never get on your nerves. The reason is no secret. El Toros are made of the mildest, smoothest, finest-flavored tobacco leaf in the world. This is tobacco grown and ripened in the same tropical climate as Havana, but given a wonderful flavor all its own by the ideal soil conditions of Porto Rico. And because El Toros are so well made, they have the lip-comfort of a 25¢ Havana. Long filler, 100% machine-made—100% sanitary. And because cigars from Porto Rico come duty free, El Toros cost 5¢ instead of much more.

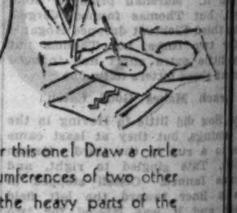
MAKE THIS NERVE TEST!



You'll need steady nerves for this one! Draw a circle mid-way between the circumferences of two other circles. If you're nervous, the heavy parts of the circumferences will tend to draw the line out of the central path. And if you're nervous, perhaps you're smoking the wrong cigar.

PHILS TAKE CITY TITLE FROM A'S, 6-2; BEAT GROVE

Lee's Homer in Seventh Clinches Victory.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 8.—(AP)—Connie Mack started his ace, Lefty Grove, today in an effort to square the Spring City series with the Phillies, but the National leaguers won, 6 to 2, and clinched the mythical title. The victory was the third for the Phils in four bouts.

After subduing the National leaguers for six innings, Grove exploded in the seventh and let four runs across. Included in the four hits made by the Phils in the big chapter was a homer by Outfielder Hal Lee, his second of the series. Mallon, rookie second baseman, drove in two runs to hasten Grove's departure. Walberg worked the last two innings for the world champions.

Harold Elliott and Lil Stoner, who relieved him in the seventh, kept the Macks well in hand. Score:

Philadelphia (N.)....010 000 410—6 11 1
Philadelphia (A.)....101 000 000—2 7 0
Batteries—H. Elliott, Stoner and Davis. Knox: Grove, Walberg and Cochrane.

CARDS BEAT HUNTSVILLE.

Huntsville, Ala., April 8.—(AP)—Dizzy Dean, young Cardinal pitcher, who has promised to win 30 games this year, was defeated by his teammates today in an exhibition between the Cardinals and a pick-up club here in Manager Gabby Street's home town. Dean pitched for the Huntsville nine which lost, 14 to 4.

SENATORS TROUNCE BRAVES.

Washington, D. C., April 8.—(AP)—The Washington Senators today trounced the Boston Braves, 8 to 5, in their first exhibition game of the year on home grounds. Boston collected 12 hits against 13 for Washington, but two home runs accounted for three of Washington's tallies. Manush stepped into one in the seventh with one on base, and West also hit a home run. Triples by Cronin of Washington and Worthington of Boston added to their extra base averages. Score:

Boston (N.).....101 020 010—5 12 1
Washington (A.)....000 211 22*—8 13 1
Batteries—Sherdel, Frankhouse and Spohrer; Jones, Fischer and Bolton.

RED SOX TOP COLUMBUS.

Columbus, O., April 8.—(AP)—Making it six straight in a three game exhibition series, the Boston Red Sox trimmed the Columbus American association ball club, 11 to 6, in a loosely played game here today. The major leaguers combed Archie Campbell and Ross Miller for 18 hits, including a home run by Scarritt. Score:

Boston .....203 130 200—11 18 3
Batteries—MacFayden, Gaston, Moore and Hal; Campbell, Miller, Baker and Hinkle.

YANKS WALLOP ASHEVILLE.

Asheville, N. C., April 8.—(AP)—The well known home run twins put on their act today as the Yankees won their second straight from the Asheville club of the Piedmont league, 11 to 2. Babe Ruth opened the third inning with his third homer of the spring series, planting one high up on an embankment in right field, and Lou Gehrig followed him with one into deep center.

In all the Yankee sluggers combed three Asheville pitchers for 16 hits, while Johnson and Gomez had little difficulty with the Asheville bats. Score:

New York (A.)...202 010 312—11 16 0
Asheville (P.)....101 010 000— 3 10 1
Batteries—Johnson, Gomez and Dickey, Jorgens; Mitchell, Melton, Ormand, and Abbott, Hill.

TIGERS BEAT PIRATES, 7-4.

Kansas City, Mo., April 8.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers fell on two Pittsburgh pitchers for twelve hits, including three doubles and two triples, to win an exhibition game here today, 7 to 4.

Vic Sorrell held the Pirates to seven hits. The Buccaneers managed to bunch their safeties to good effect, however, tying the score twice and keeping the issue in doubt until the Tigers put the game on ice with a three run rally in the eighth.

REDS DEFEAT COLONELS.

Louisville, Ky., April 8.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds were extended to ten innings today in taking a 5 to 4 decision from the Louisville American association club in the last of a three game exhibition series here. The Reds made it two out of three by today's victory.

Anderson Seeks Center to Replace Driscoll at De Paul

Development of a center to replace Paddy Driscoll is the greatest problem confronting Coach Eddie Anderson during De Paul university's spring gridiron drills. Driscoll led De Paul through one of its greatest seasons last fall.

Two new punters are being developed in Jablonski and Vandenberg. Frank Hartman, quarter back, who was weakened by a severe attack of pneumonia during the winter, is the only veteran who has been unable to report for practice. Other veterans who are drilling daily are Red Harrington, Cowbey, Cherne, Steffen, Dea, McClain, Butcher, Roche, Ed Lyons, and Joe Pionke.

Coach Anderson hopes to get a line on all of his new material during the spring practice so that no time will be lost next fall in getting ready for the opening game with North Dakota.

DUNLAP, HOMANS WIN MATCHES IN PINEHURST GOLF

Pinehurst, N. C., April 8.—(AP)—George T. Dunlap Jr., New York golfer and intercollegiate champion, today won an easy victory in the opening match play of the thirty-first annual north and south amateur tournament. Dunlap, playing under the colors of Princeton, eliminated H. J. Blue of Pinehurst, 6 and 5.

Sterner competition was encountered by Eugene Homans, the defending titleholder from Englewood, N. J., who was only one up on P. R. Ellis, Bridgeport, Conn., at the end of the first nine. Each had a score of 37 at the turn, but on the home nine the champion pulled away from his opponent to win, 4 and 3.

The hardest fought match was won by Richard S. Tufts, Pinehurst, after he had been carried to the twentieth green by Richard Wilson of Southern Pines, of Georgetown university. Tufts missed a two foot putt on the seventeenth and then was trapped on the eighteenth, to let Wilson square the match.

Forbes K. Wilson, York Harbor, Me., Yale student, covered the out nine in 34 strokes for the lowest score of the day over that stretch, and came back in even fours to eliminate R. G. Morrison, Pittsburgh, 3 and 2.

J. B. Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. Y., winner of several Florida tournaments during the winter, advanced at the expense of Paul Carter, University of North Carolina player, 4 and 3. B. W. Corkran of Baltimore, former Maryland amateur titleholder, was defeated, 3 and 2, by S. M. Parks Jr., Pittsburgh.

WISCONSIN WINS, 8 TO 2, FROM BRADLEY TECH

Peoria, Ill., April 8.—[Special.]—Wisconsin university, baseball champions of the Western conference, defeated Bradley Tech, Little Nineteen champions, 8 to 2, here today in the first of a home and home series.

The Badgers scored two runs in the opening inning, one each in the third, fifth, and eighth innings, and bunched three unearned runs in the ninth. Bradley scored in the second and third. Winer, Wisconsin captain, hit a home run in the third inning.

Meyer of Bradley struck out eight Wisconsin batters, but received poor fielding support, his teammates making eight errors. Stoddard pitched the first four innings, Lusby the next three, and Sommerfield the final two for Wisconsin.

slapped the ball over the barrier in left. Kamm walked and scored on Tate's double. McKain singled and Cissell did the same, Tate scoring. That was enough for Hubbell. Chaplin appeared in the vacancy and Fothergill, who had supplanted Simons, singled McKain across. Then the Sox ceased firing.

Play at Charlotte Today.

The Giants picked up one in the ninth, but it didn't matter. Lou Blue, the new first sacker, made his debut in this inning, but had to handle only one thrown ball.

The two teams left early this evening for a short ride over to Charlotte, N. C., where they play tomorrow.

BRICKIES MEET N. Y. YANKS AT MILLS SUNDAY

The New York Yankees, formerly Fall River, and the Brickies of Chicago will play the second game of the east and west series for the national soccer championship trophy next Sunday at Mills stadium, 47th avenue and Lake street.

The Brickies' winning streak—18 straight games—was broken last week when the eastern champions won the first game of this series, which was played at New York, by a score of 6 to 2. The Brickies must win both remaining games to gain the championship.

A Night Letter from Ring Lardner

Tucson, Ariz., April 8. — Willis Clough, Pittsburgh's Tucson recruit, keeps writing and I can't stop him:

"Dear Friend, I don't know if you received my last letter or not as I give it to the porter a Negro and he says he dropped it in the mail box in a place we stopped in Wyoming and I will have to take his word. I will have to do the same thing with this one only Nebraska instead of Wyoming. Just imagine being in a different state every day and next time I write it will be Kansas City and play the Detroit club. We play them again in Decatur and then play them 8 times in their home town Detroit. I don't know yet who am I going to room with when we stay in hotels. I asked George Grantham would he like to room with me and he says he would love to but the hotels always give you a room with twin beds and you have got to look just like your room mate. He says Manager Ens had given up trying to figure who I look like on the club and is waiting till we get to Chicago where he hopes to find another lightly looking youngster in the Lincoln park zoo."

Favorites Advance in Sedgefield Women's Golf

Greensboro, N. C., April 8.—(AP)—Favorites came easily today in first round match play of the Sedgefield women's Dogwood golf tournament. Betty Dix Perkins, Sandy Lodge, England, who won the medal yesterday with 85, turned back Mrs. J. G. Witcher, Danville, Va., 5 and 3. Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, rolled up the decisive margin of 8 and 6 over Mrs. T. J. Gold, High Point. Her sister, Elizabeth Wattles, lost to Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, 6 and 5.

Taylor Trunks Defend Record Against J. P. I.

The Taylor Trunks, national girls basketball champions, will attempt to wind up their sixth season without a defeat by a Chicago girls team when they meet the Jewish People's institute team at St. Philips gymnasium tonight.

The institute quintet has won 157 of its last 163 games and attained three Central A. A. U. titles in recent years. Gertrude Edelcup, Anna Goldstein, Rae Levine, Dot Boyce, and Mildred Christianson, all well known players, form the J. P. I. lineup.

The Trunks, who in the last six years have defeated every team they have played in the United States and held their opponents to an average of less than 7 points per game in 212 contests, will rely on Dena Shaper, Elizabeth Falby, Violet Krubaeck, Ella Smith, and Marie Curtin, with Margaret Wiese in reserve.

The preliminary game will bring together the Forest Park Cardinals and Jones & Winter five. The Cardinals recently won the Central A. A. U. girls' title by a few points from Jones & Winter. Margaret Eastham, who was awarded the cup for being the best player in the tournament, will appear with the Cardinals. Agnes Martin, another tournament all-star, will lead Jones & Winter.

Holy Name Society Opens Bowling Meet Saturday

The second annual Holy Name society bowling tournament will open Saturday night at Samuelson's Arcade, Crawford avenue and Irving Park boulevard, with more than 1,800 members of the society competing. The tournament will run from four to six weeks, with bowling over the weekends only.

Hunters Barred from Shooting 3 Kinds of Geese

Washington, D. C., April 8.—(AP)—An attempt to save three species of geese from destruction has resulted in a year round ban on shooting them.

President Hoover has issued an order which in effect makes it illegal to kill the greater snow goose, the Ross goose, or the cackling goose at any time of the year.

At the same time he reduced the shooting season on migratory birds fifteen days.

The greater snow goose, in appearance much like the common snow goose, gathers in a six mile stretch along Back bay, Virginia.

The Ross goose, a pocket edition of the snow goose, and the cackling goose congregate in the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys in California.

KNUTE ROCKNE LEAVES ESTATE TO HIS WIDOW

South Bend, Ind., April 8.—(AP)—The entire estate of Knute Rockne was bequeathed to his widow, Mrs. Bonnie Rockne, in the will of the Notre Dame football coach, filed for probate today.

The value of the estate was not disclosed. Vitus E. Jones, attorney for the estate, said that outside of Rockne's insurance it was "very modest." Jones did not state the amount of insurance, but it has been variously placed at between $100,000 and $125,000.

The possibility of litigation over some of the insurance was foreseen, centering around the question of whether double indemnity clauses apply to accidental death in commercial airplane accidents. Rockne was killed in the fall of an air transport in Kansas last week.

Mrs. Rockne and the American Trust company were named as joint administrators of the estate.

HOLD MEMORIAL MASS.

New York, April 8.—[Special.]—Nearly 1,000 persons, friends of the late Knute Rockne and alumni of Notre Dame, attended a memorial mass today at St. Patrick's cathedral for the famous football coach. Mayor James J. Walker was at the service, which was held under the auspices of the Notre Dame Club of New York.

The clergy could not wear the usual black vestments because the mass was celebrated within the octave of Easter, but at the close of the mass Bishop John J. Dunn put on black vestments and, seated before the catafalque at the front of the center aisle, delivered the absolution for the dead.

Among the former Notre Dame athletes who attended were Philip J. Dougherty, Thomas J. Murphy, and Raymond P. Scanlon, who played football in the nineties, long before the advent of Rockne as coach.

CHICAGO STOCKS REVERSE TREND; PRICES IMPROVE

Material Service Shares Rise 4 Points.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The Chicago stock market yesterday shook off some of the droopiness which has characterized its action for the last several days. An improved tone was evident throughout the list.

The results chalked up, however, contained little to which the bullish contingent could point with pride. It was largely the correction of a technical condition in the market, and by no stretch of logic could it be attributed to any sudden change in outside conditions.

In a few stocks, in which efficient market support played a part, there were advances of more than a point, but the great majority of price changes were small in size and significant only because they occurred in spots were losses grew before.

Deals in Concrete.

La Salle street attempted to make a 4 point spurt in Material Service shares to the change in the city administration effected by Tuesday's balloting. The company is one of the largest dealers in concrete materials in this territory. It operates a stone quarry and a sand and gravel pit near Chicago, and has ten distributing yards in the metropolitan district. The company earned net profits of $265,040 last year, or $2.12 a share on the common stock outstanding. The stock is now on a $2 annual dividend basis.

Cord corporation was easily the feature of the dealing in motor accessory shares, in which much of the public interest in the Chicago market has centered in recent weeks. The stock turned over in big blocks and transactions reached a total of 64,000 shares. The price was moderately higher.

News from the accessory field yesterday included the remarks of Vincent Bendix made at the annual stockholders' meeting of Bendix Aviation stockholders in New York. President Bendix said that the business of the corporation is steadily improving, and the brake division, which operated at a loss in the final quarter of 1930, is now on a profitable basis. The firm's operating condition is excellent, and if present business continues, dividends should be covered this year without difficulty, he added.

Benefits from Activity.

Pines Winterfront company, another accessory concern, is feeling the beneficial effects of the increased activity in its parent industry, according to President James F. Raleigh. Orders on hand, he states, are very encouraging, and with the automobile industry increasing its output, production is being stepped up accordingly.

To quiet rumors started by the sharp break in the company's stock on Tuesday, G. A. Fletcher, vice president of Associated Apparel Industries, yesterday made a statement on the firm's current financial position and its recent operating results.

For the four months ended March 31 the company had sales of $4,910,018, as compared with $5,224,774 in the corresponding months of the preceding year, he reported. Indications are, he added, that the next four months will equal that volume. Current assets of the company were placed at $6,700,000, as against current liabilities of $3,082,000.

FORD MOTOR CO. PROFIT SHRINKS DURING 1930

Balance Sheet Shows $44,460,823 Net.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The decline in automobile production and sales last year, coupled with the narrowing margin of profit resulting from keen competition, brought a considerable drop in earnings of the Ford Motor company. In fact, indicated net earnings for 1930 were only $44,460,823, compared with $81,461,141 in 1929, according to the balance sheet filed with the Massachusetts commissioner of corporations yesterday.

It should be emphasized that earnings of the Ford enterprise can be defined only by comparison of the item of profit and loss in the annual balance sheet, which shows the profit account stood at $708,888,247 on Dec. 31, 1930, compared with $664,427,424 at the end of 1929. However, if Henry Ford, his wife and his son, Edsel, took any dividends from the company, its earnings would be that much larger.

Family Is Sole Owner.

The Ford family are the sole owners of the big motor company. There is therefore no public interest and no outstanding securities. So the Ford family never makes known the actual earnings of the company and is required only to file an abbreviated balance sheet in Massachusetts.

Earnings indicated in the 1930 statement were the smallest since 1921, the previous depression year, except for the two years of 1927 and 1928, when the Ford company was changing models and partially out of production. In these two years the company incurred a loss of about $115,000,000. The company's largest earnings came in 1923, when they exceeded $119,000,000.

Because of its small stock capitalization the Ford Motor company stands in a class by itself as to share earnings. Last year's indicated profit was equivalent to $357.52 a share on the $124,500 capital stock, while in 1929 the profit was equal to $473.79 a share. The current statement lists total assets at $781,964,571, an increase of $20,000,000 during the year.

Business of the Ford Motor company improved considerably last month. World output was 99,035 units, its largest volume since last August and comparing with 85,109 units in February and 169,045 in March, 1930. Production for the first quarter of this year totaled 239,326 units, compared with 400,700 for the same period last year.

STEEL RECESSION

A further recession in the steel industry was reported by the midweek reviews yesterday. However, the recession had been forecast earlier in the week. Output is estimated at 53 per cent of capacity by the Iron Age, compared with 55 per cent a week ago, with Steel places operations slightly above 50 per cent in five of the seven major districts.

"The recent falling off in demand was confined chiefly to flat rolled products," the Iron Age says. "First reported in automotive specifications, the recession in releases became more general, undoubtedly reflecting growing uncertainty as to prices. With clarification of the price situation and prospects of a recovery in motor car demands, sentiment in the industry is more sanguine. Construction ranging from highway projects to bridge and building work will soon feel the stimulus of open weather."

"This is the third consecutive weekly decline," Steel says, "yet a variation of five or six points in that period, considering the fluctuating markets of elasticity of steel making equipment, is not conclusive. There is a considerable opinion that a gentle slide into the usual summer lull is in progress."

Shippers Find Profit in Owning Water Transport

BY SCRUTATOR.

In any study of the benefits derived by industry from the development of inland waterways one may well start with the Monongahela river which at Pittsburgh joins with the Allegheny to pour into the Ohio.

The Monongahela is the only inland waterway in this country which has been completed and is in full operation. A total of $16,000,000 was spent on this improvement. In 1930 about 30,000,000 tons of coal were carried on this river at 94 cents per ton less than the rail rate—a saving to shippers of $28,200,000. If $800,000 for interest on the investment at five per cent, and $900,000 for maintenance and operation were deducted net saving for last year would be $26,500,000.

World's Busiest, Is Claim.

The Monongahela is said to be the busiest inland waterway in the world. And no common carriers operate on this stream. All shipping there is owned by the shippers. Industry has found a new highway and is using it very profitably.

Down on the Ohio steel and coal companies and other concerns have invested $30,000,000 in steel barges and towboats. In reply to an inquiry, D. O. Moore, manager of the traffic division of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, says that, roughly, ninety to ninety-five per cent of the total transportation on the Ohio is owned by the shippers themselves.

The Carnegie Steel company owns its barges on the Ohio. Jones & Laughlin has a large fleet. Wheeling Steel company and many other concerns, including coal companies in and around Pittsburgh, have taken to the water on their own barges.

On the lower Mississippi Standard Oil company of Louisiana runs a fleet of barges in addition to its ocean steamers that come up from the gulf.

"The tonnage on the New York state barge canal is all handled by private shippers," is the word from R. D. Hayes, commissioner of canals and waterways at Albany. "So far as I know, none of these shippers are common carriers."

Here, although handicapped by some 300 bridges with an average clearance of 15 feet, numerous companies have found it profitable to ship by barge. The Standard Oil company of New York has operated on this waterway since 1917 and has its own stations along the route.

Even on the great lakes the lion's share of shipping is owned by the shippers. The only common carrier of any size left on the lakes is Great Lakes Transit company, corporate child of the late William J. ["Fingy"] Conners.

Demonstrates Value.

Marquette Cement Manufacturing company after operating for some time on the Mississippi between St. Louis and Cape Girardeau has just started shipping cement from Peru, Ill., to St. Louis on its own barges. A "test tow" early in March demonstrated to the company the value of navigating on the Illinois river.

On the Ohio one tow carries as much as 15,000 tons of steel or 20,000 tons of cotton, wheat, tobacco and other merchandise.

Common carriers are lacking on most of the nation's inland waterways. The major part of the shipping is done by the large corporations owning their own vessels.

When rail rates are high the shipper turns to the water and when he has a boatload to ship he buys himself a boat.

CHESAPEAKE & OHIO INCREASES ASSETS $82,000,000 IN 1930

New York, April 8.—(AP)—The pamphlet report of Chesapeake and Ohio railroad for 1930, made public today, disclosed an increase of $82,000,000 in the company's total assets which on Dec. 31 last stood at $685,206,087, against $603,125,301 at the close of 1929. Investment in road and equipment rose $116,774,048 last year.

Current assets of $36,692,183, compared with $30,419,587, while current liabilities of $19,356,318 represented a decline of more than $4,000,000 from 1929.

Operating revenues were $137,173,037, a decrease of $13,494,937, or 8.96 per cent. Revenue coal and coke tonnage dropped 8.2 per cent while other freight tonnage lost 10.5 per cent. The number of passengers carried shrank 23.9 per cent to 2,608,673. Net income of $33,999,455 was equal to $4.44 a common share, compared with $36,349,341, or $4.75 in 1929.

S. P. Reports Earnings.

Washington, D. C., April 8.—(AP)—The Southern Pacific Railway company reported to the interstate commerce commission that its net railway operating income for last year was $34,673,670. The company had passenger revenue of $34,291,575 and freight revenues of $138,096,943. Its total operating revenue from all sources was $196,653,216.

Operating expenses were $141,101,372 and total operating income $40,173,274. The latter an increase of $13,578,512 over the previous year. Taxes paid were $15,329,639, an increase of $2,756,753.

Rails Show $27,264,467 February Operating Net

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 8.—The class 1 railroads of the United States had a net operating income aggregating $27,264,467 in February, compared with $59,580,890 in February, 1930, the American Railway association reports. For the first two months of this year net operating income of these railroads was $61,113,584, against $115,354,043 in the corresponding months of 1930.

ACT TODAY TO PUT OIL INDUSTRY ON ITS FEET AGAIN

Washington, D. C., April 8.—(AP)—All was in readiness tonight for the session of the federal oil conservation board tomorrow at which the oil states' advisory committee will seek government approval for the program by which it hopes to put the petroleum industry of this country back on its feet.

Chairman Murray of the committee said all he hoped to obtain from the meeting was the favorable psychological effect of informal federal support for the task of the states. He said his group realized that it would be two or three years at least before a compact between the ten oil producing states could be placed in effect.

"By that time," he said, "there will be no oil industry unless something is done. So we hope, functioning in a advisory capacity, to get the industry to doing voluntarily what we cannot accomplish in time by law."

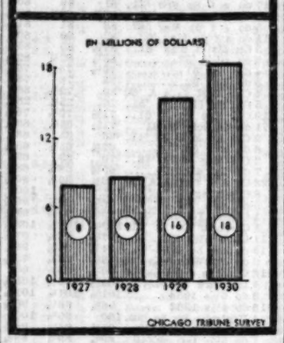
New Low Oil Price.

Tulsa, Okla., April 8.—(AP)—A flat price of 25 cents a barrel for east Texas crude oil was announced today by three purchasing companies. The figure, a new low price, was posted by the Petroleum Marketing company, subsidiary of the Warner-Quinlan company, a Cities Service unit; the Panola Pipe Line company and the Moody-Seagraves corporation of Houston. The Sinclair Oil and Gas company posted a 30 cent price for 3,000 barrels daily. The general average price for east Texas oil has been about 45 cents a barrel.

Mid-City and Bain Banks Observe Anniversaries

Two celebrations of bank anniversaries were observed yesterday. One was a banquet held at the Shoreland hotel last night to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the entrance of John Bain in the banking business of Chicago. Some 400 employés, officers and directors of the Bain system of banks attended the affair. In the afternoon the Mid-City Trust and Savings bank held a reception in the lobby of its building as a feature of its twentieth anniversary celebration. William J. Rathje is president of the bank.

NET PROFIT OF THE PARAMOUNT-PUBLIX CORPORATION



OFFER $30,000,000 IN CONVERTIBLE BONDS OF FOX FILM CORP.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 8.—Formal announcement of the details of the refinancing for the Fox Film corporation, previously reported in substance, was made today by the new banking interests of the company, the Chase Securities corporation and associates.

The initial steps are the offering to stockholders of the issue of $30,000,000 6 per cent convertible debentures, due April 1, 1936, and the transfer of the corporation's holdings of 660,9000 shares of common stock of Loew's, Inc., to a new holdings company, known as the Film Securities corporation of Delaware.

The issue has been underwritten by a syndicate headed by the Chase Securities corporation and including Dillon, Read & Co., the Bancamerica-Blair corporation, Harris, Forbes & Co., [Harris Trust and Savings bank at Chicago], the Chatham Phenix corporation, the Central-Illinois company, and Hayden, Stone & Co.

This financing, together with the cash payment which the corporation will receive from the holding company in part for the transfer of the Loew's stock, will provide for the corporation's issue of $55,000,000 of one year 6 per cent notes which mature on April 15.

Another angle of the Fox Film refinancing hitherto undisclosed is that Fox Film may divest itself of its stock interests in Wasco corporation, a wholly owned subsidiary, and one of the most important outlets for productions, and of its stock interest in the United American Investing corporation, through which it has an important interest in the British Gaumont company.

The forthcoming annual report of Fox Film corporation is expected to show that gross income increased about 23 per cent during 1930, the company indicates. The gain of approximately $19,000,000 in gross is said to be accounted for in part by acquisition of theaters and increase in theater income, and in part by an increase of nearly 11 per cent in domestic film rental and approximately 55 per cent in foreign film rentals. Total film rentals and sales for 1930 increased $4,000,000 over 1929.

Safeway Stores Sales Show Decline for March

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 8.—The volume of business transacted over the counters of Safeway Stores, Inc., during March amounted to $17,262,794, a decline of 9.4 per cent from the total of $19,062,112 for the corresponding month last year, it was announced today. Sales for the first quarter aggregated $50,705,905, against $54,504,422, a decrease of 6.9 per cent.

March sales of MacMarr Stores totaled $6,482,831, a decrease from $7,642,386 for the like month of 1930. Sales for the first quarter aggregated $18,916,722, compared with $21,634,416 for the corresponding period last year.

Clip Wings of Mexican Labor; Seen Silver Aid

This is the second of three articles on the effect of the drastic decline in the price of silver on the monetary system and commerce of Mexico. The remaining article will be printed in a succeeding issue of The Tribune.

BY JOHN CORNYN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, April 8.—When silver began to fluctuate noticeably, business to fall off and the income of the Mexican government to decrease efforts were made to induce the return of stability.

The seizures of haciendas and plantations had ruined agriculture, and whatever little the peasant farmers contributed to the national break basket was far below the needs of the country. Wheat, corn and other grains, chickens, eggs, cattle, lard, butter, clothing, etc., had to be imported, because the country, in its disorganized condition, was unable to supply them in sufficient quantities.

Revolutionary activities had reached their height and reaction against the excesses of the past had set in. Leaders in the government began to demand guarantees for the owners of haciendas and plantations and the encouragement of agriculture.

Cease Taking Land.

The states were encouraged to wind up the distribution of land and the further taking of farm lands for distribution among the peasants, and, up to date, 25 per cent of all the Mexican states have declared the agrarian question in each state settled and given guarantees to the larger landowners that no more of their lands will be taken. Those behind this move in each federal entity have declared that Mexican silver currency will not cease to fluctuate until such time as the national agricultural production has increased to the point where it meets all the demands of the home market and begins exportation in earnest.

The government holds out the hope that practically all the Mexican states will have wound up agrarianism and given guarantees to all agriculturists by the end of the year, and that by the beginning of 1932 the nation will be on the road once more to agricultural prosperity.

Seek to Curb Labor Activities.

Organized labor, under the leadership of Luis Monores, minister of industry, commerce and labor, had dictated to all the industries and had been accused of driving much needed foreign capital out of Mexico. The leaders of the reconstruction movement set to work to curb the activities of the labor leaders and to give guarantees to national activities of all kinds. They declared the Mexican exchange would never again be near par nor silver cease to fluctuate until Mexican industry, commerce and agriculture were again flourishing and that the strangle hold of organized labor must be broken.

Morones, however, fell from his high estate and went on a long visit to Europe; organized labor broke up into factions when the government withdrew its support from it, and the labor bill now before congress effectively clips the wings of labor leaders who would play politics and disrupt the activities of the nation, forbidding them to interfere in politics or religion.

The removal of organized labor from the field of politics, which it occupied only through the grace of the government and never through real political strength, is the most important move which the government has made for the reconstruction of the business activities of the country and with it the rehabilitation of the silver currency.

KRUEGER & TOLL EARNINGS GAIN DESPITE SLUMP

New York, April 8.—(AP)—Krueger & Toll company, the international holding and financing corporation heading the Swedish match trust group of enterprises, was able to increase its earnings in the depression year, 1930, bankers for the company announced today.

The company's annual statement, as released in New York and Stockholm, showed consolidated net profits, including those of its Dutch subsidiary, of $32,789,279, against $29,095,130 in 1929. The 1930 aggregate remained after deduction of $10,414,063 to adjust book value of securities to market value. The 1930 earnings are equivalent to $3.04 per American certificate, as increased from $2.70 in 1929.

Vote to Establish New Wool Top Futures Mart

New York, April 8.—(AP)—Members of the New York cotton exchange today voted to establish a wool top futures market, the only market of its kind in the United States. Trading will be inaugurated Monday, May 18, with prices quoted in cents a pound and fluctuations in tenths of a cent. The unit of trading will be about 5,000 pounds. The hours for trading will be 10:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m., excepting on Saturday, when the market will close at 11:30 a. m.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 8.—Probably due as much as anything else to the little breathing spell it has had on the long run of bad dividend news, the stock market pulled itself together today and staged the nearest approach to a real rally it has been able to negotiate in two weeks. Utility shares recovered anywhere from 1 to 4 points, steels rebounded for half as much in group formation, tobacco stocks were conspicuously strong and numerous specialties covered themselves with glory.

Even the lowly oils were able to hit the stride, Houston advancing more than 4 points and Standard of New Jersey, the long recognised leader of the department, hopping up 1½ points. Very few issues out of the whole list, in fact, failed to find some inspiration at some stage of the session.

The news of the day was not particularly favorable to the constructive element's position and it is probable that short covering was responsible in a very large measure for the impetus of price movements—if not the most of it. Steel mill operations, as expected, revealed a further slight letdown. The price situation is still irregular and the report on carloadings for the last week in March showed the peak had obviously been passed in that direction, though the contraction in the total from the previous week was small, running to less than 2,000 cars.

Money Is Plentiful.

Money was plentiful enough at 1½ per cent for call funds, but no outside market developed in view of the treasury withdrawals set for tomorrow and next day. With the public as much out of the picture as it is, money is a factor of little consequence in the market situation—and has been so for a long time.

Except for short-lived spurt of short covering along about the middle of the

How to remove the uncertainty of future years

. . . Will your wife be enjoying the comfort which you have planned for her ten or fifteen years from now? Will your daughter be completing the education you have in mind for her; and will your son be pushing ahead in business, able to grasp opportunities as they come because of the capital you are building for him?

Each year finds many men turning to trust companies for the answer to these questions. A trust company such as this one is never ill or out of the city on business or vacation, and will be operating as efficiently many years from now as today. It has the advantage of many minds trained for years in investing money, managing property, and the many other phases of administering estates.

Our more than forty-eight years of experience is at your disposal in this matter at any time without obligation. . . .

Wrigley Gets 1,000 Bales of Cotton in Relief Offer

One thousand bales of cotton, representing the first $60,000 which southern jobbers have turned over to the William Wrigley Jr. company, in its first week of operating the "cotton for chewing gum" offer made April 1, are now lying in two to five bale lots in various southern warehouses waiting to be picked up. This was the announcement of Mr. Wrigley yesterday, in pointing to the stack of telegrams, newspaper clippings, and letters his offer has elicited from the south.

CROSS CURRENTS IN WHEAT MART UNSETTLE TRADE

Stock Market Rally Helps Boost Grain Prices.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The wheat situation is so full of cross currents that the average trader is not sure of his position on either side of the market, with the result that there is a frequent shifting from the bear to the bull side and the reverse, with consequent erratic fluctuations.

The trade ignored relative strength in Liverpool at the start, yesterday only to take the buying side later on a strong rally in the stock market in New York, and prices were advanced 1¼@1½c from the early low, with a reaction toward the last. Final trades on the new crop months were ¾@¾c higher, with July, 61⅝c; September, 59⅞@60c, and December, 62⅞@63c. May finished unchanged at 53c.

To some extent the early selling of wheat futures was based on the forecast for rain or snow over the entire west and northwest, while later some attention was paid to reports of unusual activity on the part of insects and other pests and diseases which may be a factor in curtailing the crop later in the season. However, the average speculator was disposed to look upon the upturn from the inside figures as due largely to short covering in an oversold market.

Minneapolis Wheat Strong.

Minneapolis July wheat, which is either a new or an old month crop, depending on whether harvest of the new spring wheat crop is early or late, developed congestion during the day and advanced 1½c to 70½c at the last and attracted some attention from Chicago operators. Winnipeg, however, was quiet and finished ¼@½c higher, with July at 59½c, the selling orders received from Chicago and other markets being offset to some extent by purchases by houses with seaboard connections. Around 500,000 bu Manitobas were reported as having been sold for export in all positions, but the general demand from abroad was slow, with competition of low priced Argentine wheat a factor.

Decreasing stocks of wheat abroad tend to prevent any material decline in Liverpool wheat futures and the close there was ¼@½d higher, with the July at 63¼c. A sale of a small amount of No. 2 hard winter afloat was reported at 75¾c per bu to Antwerp, but is is understood that the American farm board is not offering abroad. Southwestern millers are commencing to look forward to a big demand for new crop flour owing to the unusual discount prevailing for the July as compared with the May delivery.

Corn Market Unsettled.

The corn market was decidedly unsettled with the nearby months firm and the deferred weaker, final trades being ¼@½c higher on the May and July and ⅝@¾c lower on the September and December. May finished at 60¼@60⅝c; July, 63¼@63⅝; September, 60½c, and December, 52⅞@53c. Spreading operations had some effect on the market, and there was some buying of May on prospects that with the opening of lake navigation there would be a liberal movement from Chicago to eastern ports.

Liquidation developed in May oats with the nearby futures declining to 29¾c, or within ⅛c of the lowest figure of the season, and closed at the bottom with a net loss of ½c, while the deferred futures were ¼c lower to ⅛c higher, July being 30⅝c; September, 30⅝c, and December, 33¼c.

Coarse grain prices are regarded as low enough at the present time by some observers who call attention to the development of an aggressive export demand for Canadian barley as bearing out this view. Sales of the later grain for the day were placed at 500,000 bu or more, with Winnipeg May closing 1c higher at 27c. There were also bids for high grade Canadian oats in the market within ⅛c of a working basis.

Firmness in wheat had a strengthening effect on rye, which finished ⅛@½c higher, with May at 36⅛c; July, 33¼c, and September, 40c.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today, but the undertone was steady and holders were making advances of about 1-32 of a cent, or 3.35c, for spots duty paid.

Early upturns in raw futures failed to attract any increased outside demand and were nearly all lost in the later trading, with the market closing one point higher on May and July and net unchanged on all other deliveries. Sales for the day approximated 21,100 tons. Prices follow:

LARD AND MEATS LOWER

Selling of lard, credited to packers and eastern cotton oil interests, although taken by shorts and commission houses, brought lower prices yesterday, with the close at the inside at losses of 7½@10c on lard and 5c on bellies. Interest in the latter was limited and outside packers are said to be the principal sellers. A sharp decline in hogs, with quite light receipts, also acted as a depressing influence. Cash trade was only fair. Liverpool lard declined 3@9d. Export clearances of lard were 600,925 lbs and of bacon 13,700 lbs. Hog supplies in the west were smaller than a week ago and a year ago. Prices follow:

U. S. TAKES 8,000,000 BUSHELS OF WINTER WHEAT IN KANSAS CITY

Eight million bushels of hard winter wheat have been taken at Kansas City by the Grain Stabilization corporation in exchange for May, free storage being allowed until May 1. On Tuesday the first instalment was 2,800,000 bu, and yesterday the Stabilization corporation finished checking up on 5,000,000 bu, making practically 8,000,000 bu in all. There are 24,802,000 bu of all grades of wheat and in all positions at Kansas City.

It is said the farm board is likely to take over considerable more wheat in that market, also several millions of bushels in Omaha and other western markets which has been hedged by sales in Chicago and Kansas City.

Chicago private elevator interests had a meeting yesterday in an effort to evolve a plan whereby they can deliver their wheat in private houses that has been sold for May delivery to the farm board. It is said that they would like to deliver the grain in private elevators and have the government pay 1½c bu per month storage. No plan was decided on and another meeting will be held next Tuesday.

COTTON HAS BREAK, RALLY

Cotton was under pressure yesterday in all markets a good part of the day. Liverpool was off 11@12 points at the close. There were selling orders from that market, as well as from Wall street and the south during the morning, which carried prices down materially and at the extreme losses were around 20 points.

Trade buying, short covering, with some investment purchases, gave the market a fair rally, but the close was easy, with net losses of 11@17 points in Chicago and 11@18 points in New York, the latter leading the break. Spots were off 15 points in New York to 10.15c, with New Orleans at a new low, breaking 10 points to 9.95c, while Galveston was 10.10c and Houston 10c.

J. S. Bache & Co. advise caution in pressing sales. Thomson & McKinnon say they cannot advise purchases at present, but the market seems oversold by professionals and a strong rally on short covering would be a natural manifestation. J. E. Bennett & Co. say that brokers connected with the farm board were rather active buyers of December and January, against sales of May. Prices follow:

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL closed barely steady today, unchanged to 5 points lower, with sales of 600 barrels. Easiness in cotton, crude oil and lard depressed the market. On April 15 trading will commence in prime yellow cottonseed oil contracts on the New York produce exchange. This will necessitate two separate markets, as the present trade covers bleachable cottonseed oil contracts. Westinghouse Air Brake.

I am holding 25 shares of Westinghouse Air Brake common. Would appreciate an opinion of this.—J. A. M.

Westinghouse Air Brake company was incorporated in 1869. It is the leading manufacturer of air brakes for railway and automotive vehicles. Through subsidiaries the company manufactures miscellaneous railway equipment.

Net income for 1930 was $6,496,341, or $2.05 per share on 3,172,110 common shares, against net of $8,822,711, or $2.78 per common share for 1929. Net for 1928 was equal to $2.05 per share and for 1927 $2.69 per share.

The company has no funded debt and only one class of stock.

Current position has shown an improvement every year since 1925. On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $46,093,488 and current liabilities were $3,789,772. This left a working capital of $42,303,716, against $41,742,267 the year before and $37,417,378 on Dec. 31, 1928. On Dec. 31, 1930, cash and cash assets alone were almost eight times total current liabilities.

The capital stock is on an annual dividend basis of $2 per share. It is high grade.

Wells Fargo.

Can you furnish me with information on the old Wells Fargo Express? What relation, if any, has the Wells Fargo of Mexico to the one listed on the stock exchange? Has the latter any real estate holdings? Would you consider it a fair speculation? Am writing this in behalf of several readers, including myself.—H. C. K.

In 1909 Wells Fargo & Co. disposed of its interests in Mexico to a company organized by the Mexican railroads, Wells Fargo Company, Express, S. A. In 1918, at the suggestion of the director general of railroads the company turned over all its properties to American Railway Express company for stock of the latter. Wells Fargo & Co. has been out of business since that date and is in the process of liquidation. On April 30, 1930, book value of the company's assets, excluding reserves for claims, etc., totaled $284,099, of which $31,106 was in the form of fixed assets and $225,954 in the form of stocks, bonds, and cash. Other assets were listed under receivables. There has been no distribution since July 9, 1930.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

More two-sidedness was apparent among wheat traders. One of the most active operators in the pit expressed pronounced bullish ideas, saying that he believed present prices discount all bearish conditions. July wheat in Kansas City is 4c under Winnipeg. There are bug reports coming from a number of sections and wheat is not as easy to buy as it has been without advancing prices. There are many traders, however, who ignore reports of damage by insects but they are inclined to buy on breaks.

"Apprehension as to what the farm board will do with the wheat that its subsidiaries have accumulated is evidenced by the unwillingness of cash buyers and speculators alike to enter the market," says R. I. Mansfield of Bartlett, Frazier & Co. "This uncertainty breeds lack of confidence and nothing but a definite pledge from authority to make such a pledge that it will not be placed in competition with new wheat marketings will suffice to remove the menace of this uncertainty and enable trade to function upon a normal basis."

It is reported that boats with about 1,000,000 bu of farm board wheat cleared from Duluth for Montreal. Straits have not been reported as open, but with continued warm weather they are expected to open shortly.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

ROBT. F. GORDON, 710 WAVELAND AVE., CHICAGO.—"In September, 1930, I placed an automobile for sale want ad in the Sunday Tribune. It was for a 1928 Pontiac Coach, price $300.00. About twelve people called me up, but I did not sell the car. I then ran the same ad for two days in an evening newspaper and didn't receive a call. Then I tried to sell it to dealers—and finally concluded the price was too high. One night a Mr. Chas. Fisher of Miami, Fla., called up and asked me if I had the car, that he had just arrived in town and had read the ad in the Chicago Sunday Tribune three weeks before. At this late date the $300.00 he paid me was considerably more than I expected to receive. My ad cost $2.40. Many thanks!"

MR. STANLEY SHUBERT, 2303 N. MENARD AVE., CHICAGO.—"On Wednesday, Jan. 21, 1931, I placed an ad in the Tribune to dispose of my gas range as I had to leave Chicago. On the following Thursday, the day the ad appeared, my phone started ringing. The range was sold the following Sunday at a price that was entirely satisfactory."

MRS. W. C. FINK, 2833 N. KILBOURN AVE., CHICAGO.—"My husband being out of employment and our expenses piling up we decided to put an ad in the Chicago Sunday Tribune offering a room to rent. The same Sunday our ad appeared we rented our room and had a steady income for six months until our roomer left to be married. Not only did we rent the room through the Tribune want ad, but we rented it to a very reliable, respectable man."

* * *

C. C. CLARKE, 10349 SOUTH PARK AVE., CHICAGO.—"A Tribune want ad sold a house for me at a time when everyone considered that property could not be sold on account of business depression. On the day following the placement of the ad a party called to inspect the house and in less than ten days the deal was closed satisfactorily with a very fine family. My advice is 'Use a Tribune want ad for promptness and results.'"

* * *

R. W. W., 6618 GLENWOOD AVE., CHICAGO.—"I have had one experience only in connection with advertising but the one occasion proved very successful. Four years ago my wife and boy were invited to spend three months in the country, and while the expenses would be reasonably low, we hesitated about leaving our apartment unoccupied for the length of time and paying rental for it, in addition to the vacation expenses, as I could remain with my parents during this period. We decided to advertise in one of the Sunday issues of the Tribune and on the Monday night following we rented the apartment furnished for three months at a price higher than our rental, enabling us to put aside an savings, almost as much as our rental would have been during the entire time. The people who rental our apartment came well recommended and took excellent care of it and the furnishings."

How Have the Want Ads Helped You?

HERE are five more prize-winning True Want Ad Experiences as told by Chicago Tribune readers. The writers of each of the letters reprinted here will receive $5.00 in cash.

Read these letters. Note the various ways in which Tribune Want Ads have been of helpful service to these Tribune readers.

Have you had a True Want Ad Experience which you think is as good as some of these? Send it to the Tribune!

$1000.00 In Cash Awards will be paid by the Chicago Tribune for the best True Want Ad Experiences submitted in accordance with a few simple rules.

Five True Want Ad Experiences will be published in the Tribune daily and Sunday for 29 days. Send in your experience today!

THE SIMPLE RULES:

1. Each day for the 29 days starting Sunday, March 22, 1931, the Chicago Tribune will publish five (5) True Want Ad Experiences. Letters must be late to experiences which took place prior to March 15, 1931. You are invited to send in a True Want Ad Experience and try for one of the cash awards which the Tribune will pay.
2. $5.00 will be paid to each person who submits a True Want Ad Experience which is published. IN ADDITION, from all the letters submitted the following grand prizes will be paid to the persons whose letters are adjudged the best of all: First Grand Prize, $100.00; Second Grand Prize, $50.00; Third Grand Prize, $25.00; next ten Grand Prizes, $10.00 each. Total in prizes, $1,000.00.
3. Letters will be selected which, in the opinion of the judges, relate experiences in which Tribune Want Ads have performed the most helpful service, as influenced by all the circumstances given in the letters. In making their decisions, the judges will be governed by the facts given in the letters. Neatness, but NOT grammar and literary skill, will be considered.
4. This offer is open to all, except employees of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just send in a brief letter.
5. Letters must not exceed 200 words in length.
6. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. The Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at public libraries free of charge.
7. All letters must be received in the Tribune office before 6:00 p. m. on Monday, April 20, 1931. No letters will be returned.
8. Address all letters to "TRUE WANT AD EXPERIENCES," the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill. Please state your name and address and whether or not your name may be mentioned. If not, only initials will be used.
9. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties, a duplicate award will be made to each tying contestant.

Total receipts, $9.75; average, $9.00.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 6,000; hogs, 18,000; sheep, 17,000.

Temperatures went soaring in Chicago yesterday and reduced the demand for meats to such an extent that 10 classes of live stock suffered unseen price cuts before the market closed. Outlet for pork and mutton was poorest, causing hogs and many bovine stock to break sharpest. Even aged sheep and extremely heavy lambs declined 50@75c. Hogs slumped 90@1c, while most cattle were weak to 25c lower.

Top hogs declined 10c to $8.00, while the general average moved down 15c at 12:40. The top equals the lowest point since March 7. The low point of the season was March 28, when top hogs sold at $7.25.

Additional declines in pork loins brought the wholesale price for best lightweights down to 11c per pound, which is 2c under late last week and 4c under the high point the middle of March. Loins were only 2c above the lowest point since middle of February. If packers bought sparingly at the quotation and 8,000 were still in the pens at the close. Five markets except only 46,000 hogs today, against 63,000 last Thursday.

Today's Hogs Bid $8.00.

Lightweight hogs for today's delivery were bid $8.00 on the "to arrive" market yesterday, but no salesmen were willing to sell at that figure. Bidders were bid $7.75 and heavy grades averaging 260@310 lbs. carried bids of $7.20 at the close.

In the futures market April light was offered at $8.25 and bid $7.75. May offers were at $8.50 and bids at 8.25, while June light were offered at 8.65 and bid $8.25. There were buyers for September lightweights at $8.50, but the lowest offer was $9.00.

The cattle market developed into a dull pedding affair after a few of the packinghers had been sold and many of the sales in midsession and later showed 15@25c decline. Receipts at 9,000 proved too much for the trade, in spite of the meager supply of 6,000 estimated for today.

Choice handyweight steers, averaging 1,276@1,391 lbs., topped the price list at $10.40. Few others sold above $9.00, with the bulk of sales stopping at Demand for native spring lambs for the Greek Easter trade was narrow and prices unevenly lower at $11.00@15.00. Only a few of the lightest reached $17.00.

RUBBER.

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP)—RUBBER—Futures closed steady: May, 6.66c; July, 6.70c. July, 6.66c; Sept., 7.12c. Spot smoked ribbed, 6½c.

a Test for Trying Times

IN times like now, when shrinking earnings are common, it is wise to scrutinize earnings on this basis:

How much could earnings available for bond interest shrink before interest is endangered?

Associated Electric Company 4½s of 1953 have a third larger earnings for interest as compared with bonds of 14 other leading utility companies.

These bonds enjoy an active market on the New York Curb Exchange.

A table showing the comparison referred to may be obtained from your dealer, by telephoning BOwling Green 9-3957, or writing for Folder D-12.

WANTED—MALE HELP.

Miscellaneous.

Attention, W. Side Men Oak Park and Vicinity

I am interested in securing about 10 men of good character who can furnish references, and who are mechanically or electrically inclined. These men should be between the ages of twenty and forty, preferably married. If you have the above qualifications you will be thoroughly trained in our methods of selling our products, and then, if you are accepted, placed in the field with experienced men.

If you are selected, you will be expected to start at once by attending factory branch school. See MR. OAKLEY today only, between 8 and 12 a. m.

NORTH SIDE MEN

We are expanding our operations in the United States and our progress calls for about 40 men in the Illinois territory alone.

These men will be assured of a splendid income and a good future with a financially strong old company.

Inasmuch as we are the only firm in our particular field, we can not get experienced men, but do expect intelligence, aggressiveness, and loyalty.

If you are selected you will be expected to start at once by attending factory branch school.

Ask for Mr. Zundel, 9-12 and 1-4 Thursday, Suite 361 McJunkin Bldg., 4354 Broadway, corner Wilson-av.
